THE GLORY THAT IS AUTUMN (UGH)

First Major Storm Lashing B.C. Coast

FLEMING THROWS HAT IN CONSERVATIVE RING

John Diefenbaker, member of Parliament for Prince Albert, and Davie Fulton, member for Kamloops, both expressed willingness earlier to contest the leadership.

Fleming told today's press conference that he believes it "a great exaggeration that Mr. Diefenbaker has obtained 80 per cent of the party's caucus support."

City Pilots Rescue U.S. Yacht, Crew

Coastal shipping scurried for shelter today as gale-force winds lashed the Greater Victoria area and the entire B.C. coast in the first major wind and rain storm of the season.

A Port Angeles yacht was saved from serious trouble two miles off Ogden Point Breakwater by prompt co-operation between B.C. Pilotage Authority station on Dallas Road and Port Angeles coast guard.

Falling branches knocked out electrical power when lead-in lines broke to some homes in the south Vancouver Island area.

B.C. Telephone reported minor cable trouble due to rain and wind in Sidney, Albion, Colquitz and some Victoria exchanges.

And autumn leaves were shaken loose to cover lawns and gardens, ankle-deep in many cases.

Air-sea rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver reported all small craft safely in sheltered waters due to early posting of gale warnings.

Wallowed Helplessly in High Sea

Bound for Victoria, the Gloria hit heavy weather about 10 a.m. The fuel line plugged and the engine conked out.

The cruiser wallowed helplessly in heavy seas as the owner, C. C. Tozier, attempted to make emergency repairs.

But the rolling action of the seas spilled sediment into the fuel, and Mr. Tozier used his radio-telephone to call the Port Angeles coast guard, which is tuned to the frequency used by the Gloria.

The coast guard telephoned B.C. Pilotage station, and learned that the Gloria's call for aid had been monitored via Gordon Head wireless.

B.C. Pilot Launch No. 1 was already on the way.

A tow line was affixed, and the Gloria was brought in to Fisherman's Wharf. Mr. Tozier planned to have engine repairs made today, and to wait out the storm here.

The Dominion weather office at Victoria said gale warnings would remain up today, with possible moderation of wind expected this evening. But the Pacific storm which is lashing the coast shows no signs of abating immediately.

Victoria is escaping the brunt of the rain which is accompanying the gale on most parts of the B.C. coast. Comox has reported more than an inch of rain in six hours, up to 11 a.m. today; at Sea Island, .45 inches of rain fell in the 24 hours ending at 4.30 a.m.

Winds up to 70 miles an hour struck Cape St. James in the Queen Charlotte Islands. Sandspit was hit by 56-mile-an-hour gusts and the average along the west coast of Vancouver Island was 45 miles an hour.

Snow fell for the first time on the higher levels surrounding Kelowna. The temperature dropped to 35 above. Rain, which has stopped the late apple harvest recently, was forecast again for late today.

A freak thunderstorm hit Vancouver Thursday and knocked out power on the North Shore for half an hour. North Shore residents are watching rising and swift-moving creeks.

U.S. Atom Boss Backs H-Tests

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—U.S. atomic chief Lewis L. Strauss said today hydrogen bomb tests must be continued not only to assure new weapons but to provide data for civilian survival under enemy attack.

Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, in a speech prepared for a joint U.S.-Canadian civil defence committee meeting, made no mention of Adlai Stevenson's proposal that the U.S. take the lead in seeking an end to H-bomb tests.

Without the tests, he added, U.S. "defences would deteriorate, both in terms of civil defence and in the weapons which we need to repel any nuclear aggression."

Without referring to Stevenson, Strauss said:

"Exposure to radioactivity, as a vague, unproven danger to generations yet unborn, must be weighed against the more immediate and infinitely greater dangers of defeat and perhaps of obliteration at the hands of an enemy who possesses nuclear weapons of mass destruction."

Eisenhower Keeps Banging Adlai's H-Bomb Proposals

PORTLAND (AP)—President Eisenhower, still banging away at Adlai Stevenson's military draft and H-bomb views, travelled to California today "to continue to lay the facts on the line."

The Eisenhower campaign line was seen as a tactical victory for Democrat Adlai Stevenson. It now is clear Stevenson is going to get his desire to make a major election campaign issue out of the controversial H-bomb tests.

BACK AT SUBJECT

President Eisenhower, who last week said he was through talking about the tests, Thursday night took up the subject again with a resounding salvo at Stevenson's views.

Stevenson has come out repeatedly for negotiations toward an international ban on hydrogen bomb tests. He has coupled this stand with a plea for less "wasteful" methods of building up the U.S. armed forces than the current military draft.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty today indicated Eisenhower will fire another salvo of criticism at the democratic presidential nominee in a major address in Los Angeles' Hollywood Bowl tonight (8.30 p.m., PST, on TV and radio).

ARSON HINTED IN FIRE DEATHS

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—Three University of Idaho students died today in an early-morning dormitory fire and officials said it may have been murder by arson.

Two of the students were trapped in a hallway and burned to death in Gault Hall, a new $500,000 dormitory housing 130 men. The other sought refuge in a shower room and suffocated.

It was the fourth dormitory fire in a week on the campus and aroused university officials and police started an intensive investigation.

(Special to The Times)

LADYSMITH — The worst wind and rain storm of the fall season failed to deter Russia's minister of forest industries G. M. Orlov and seven of his countrymen from inspecting every part of the huge Comox Logging and Railway Co. Ltd. log dump in Ladysmith today.

They are near the end of a tour of Canada's major timber producing areas.

SOMMERS-STURDY TRIAL SCHEDULED FOR JAN. 8

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hearing of a slander action taken by Robert Sommers, former lands and forests minister, against Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy, will start in Supreme Court here Jan. 8, 1957.

The action resulted from statements made by Mr. Sturdy before the Sloan Forestry Commission in December, 1955.

Alfred Bull, counsel for Mr. Sommers, said opening of the hearing would not affect the hearing in November of an appeal against a ruling allowing Mr. Sturdy to examine certain bank account items in connection with the case.

CHANCES 'ALMOST ZERO'

Last-Ditch Search For Missing Hiker

NORTH VANCOUVER — A hand-picked search party renewed the hunt today for a man lost since Sunday on storm-lashed Mount Seymour. His chances of survival were considered "almost zero."

Alex Patterson, 24, is the last member of an ill-fated three-man hiking party. The body of Gordon McFarlane, 27, was found Thursday and Robert Duncan, 23, reached safety by himself Wednesday.

The three, all of whom came from Scotland within the last three years, ran into trouble on the mist-shrouded mountain while they were out for a Sunday hike.

STUMBLES TO SAFETY

Duncan, who managed to find his way to safety although suffering from exposure, reported the death of McFarlane.

The body was found by searchers headed by William Angus. It was to be brought out today.

Duncan attributed McFarlane's death to fear for his wife's peace of mind.

He recalled that McFarlane leaped suddenly from their shelter in the cave, "mumbled a few words about getting back to his wife, and started down the mountain alone Monday morning.'

His body was found where Duncan had stumbled upon it Tuesday. He died at the 2300-foot level within sight of a gravelled water board road.

Searchers believe he had fallen from a cliff and was drowned while unconscious in the stream. His forehead was deeply gashed.

The party pressed on to the spot where Duncan had left the exhausted Patterson in a cave under a blanket of leaves. But he had disappeared and searchers speculated that he had wandered away in hopes of getting down from the mountain.

POORLY EQUIPPED

"His chances aren't good, in fact, they're almost zero," said Angus. "He had only light clothing, no food and wasn't able to light a fire to keep warm."

Angus said his party encountered "thunderstorms, a terrific hailstorm and rainstorms. We were freezing cold so what chance would Patterson have after five days?"

TREACHEROUS COUNTRY

Some members of the search party described the area as the most treacherous country they had ever entered.

Air force para-rescue trooper John Franks said: "We never touched solid ground during our climb. The slopes were loose rock, as slippery as glass.

"If we don't find Patterson today, I doubt if we'll ever find him."

Extremely bad weather for searching continued today. Visibility Thursday was only a few yards and searchers made free use of radios and field telephones to keep in touch with their base.

Ian Roberts, brother-in-law of McFarlane, said the dead man and his wife were to celebrate their second wedding anniversary Saturday.

Britain, Soviet Back Jordan in UN Protest

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Jordan won quic ksupport from Britain and the Soviet Union today after charging Israel with unprovoked aggression and calling for strong UN penalties.

The two countries took Jordan's side after hearing Israel defend her position and blame the Jordan government for the current border clashes. Israel said the incidents would end any time Jordan wanted peace.

Both Britain and Russia praised Jordan for her restraint. Russia also strongly condemned Israel for alleged violations of the UN charter and the cease-fire agreements.

The council will continue the debate next week at a date to be announced later.

SERIES STARTS SATURDAY

City Golfers Hail 'The Hagen Story'

Top local golfers today welcomed the Times plan to run the life story of Walter Hagen, the colorful and famous U.S. professional. "The Walter Hagen Story" starts in the Times Saturday, appearing daily.

Hagen twice played exhibitions in Victoria.

Veteran Willingdon Cup star and former city champion, Bob Morrison said, "It will be great to read Hagen's complete life story because I was so impressed when I met and played against him (20 years ago). He was a magnificent player, had great competitive spirit and the most intense concentration I have ever seen."

Victoria Golf Club pro. Phil Taylor, said, "It will be a great treat for local golfers and golf fans to read the story. I met Haig and played against him. He had it all—skill, color and the guts of a lion."

WALTER HAGEN

Walter Gavlin, Uplands Golf Club pro, said, "Hagen played at our course about 27 years ago and I'll never forget him" and his great golf.

Mayor Studies Judge's Ruling On Detectives

Mayor Percy Scurrah said today he will discuss with police chief John Blackstock whether disciplinary action will be taken against two Victoria detectives criticized in assize court Thursday.

The mayor, speaking as chairman of the Victoria police commission, said he could not discuss the matter until he had seen the chief.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson ruled Detectives Ray Maitland and Richard Perry went beyond their power in questioning a suspect with regard to breaking and entering of Goodwill Bottling Company, Aug. 16.

"I don't want to restrict the police in their right to question suspects," said Mr. Justice Wilson, "but I think they went too far in this case."

The judge said it was the duty of the courts to protect citizens from being unfairly questioned.

EX-RED MAKES CHARGE

Touring Russians Threaten Canada?

LABRIEVILLE, Que. (CP)—Pat Walsh, secretary of the Pan-Canadian Anti-Communist League and onetime fellow-traveller of Communist groups, charged today that two of the seven Soviet lumber experts touring Canada post a "vital threat" to Canada's internal security.

In a statement issued here he named them as G. M. Orlov, Soviet lumber minister, and L. V. Roos, timber research director.

The Walsh statement said the two Soviet officials interviewed Bruce Magnuson, member of the Labor-Progressive Communist party in Moscow in 1951, and that Magnuson was instructed to tell Canadian Communists to set the forests afire in the event of war with Russia.

SABOTAGE ORDERS

In 1953 when Walsh announced his resignation from a number of Communist-front organizations, he said the Canadian Woodworkers' Union, of which he was a former organizer, had received orders from Moscow to prepare to dynamite hydro-electric plants and set forest fires if Canada and Russia were at war. He said sabotage orders had been given Magnuson "during his recent visit to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics." Magnuson, at Port Arthur, termed the statements "all nonsense . . . inflammatory fabrications . . . attempts at character assassination as a means of political terror."

Walsh was the first to make the disclosure last month of an attempt by a Soviet diplomat to bribe a Canadian air station clerk. The diplomat, second secretary of the Russian embassy, was ejected from the country and the clerk was dismissed.

SLAVE CHARGE

In his statement today Walsh said Orlov worked for a while "in consiratorial activities of the Comintern" and that Roos "is a high MVD official whose task is to ensure a continual flow of slave labor to the central timber administration of western Siberia and the Urals."

The justice department, external affairs department and RCMP said, when questioned today, they had no knowledge of the Walsh charges and would not comment immediately.

tion and, according to one witness, "knew what they were looking at."

Since heavy rain forced a closure of the woods operations, the party could not see logs dumped, but they saw a few made up into bundles wrapped by cable and made ready for towing.

Highlight of the trip for Mr. Orlov and two of his companions was a brief ride in the "bull pen" aboard a 16-foot boom boat, one of the marine "bulldozers" used in sorting logs.

The visitors were forced to hang on as the nimble boat herded a number of logs together and pushed them into the bundling machine.

KEEN INTEREST

"It's difficult to know what they think of things because they speak very little English," a member of the welcoming party said, "but there is a lot of talking and pointing going on. They seem to be keenly interested in what they see."

Wearing only topcoats, the Russians soon were dripping wet, but they made a complete inspection of the ground before leaving.

Meanwhile one of the 17 Canadian lumbermen in their party bought out a local store's supply of plastic raincoats to wear for the remainder of the day's tour.

They felt by bus for Mesachie Lake and a tour of the Hillcrest Lumber Co. Ltd. sawmill, luncheon at the company cookhouse, and, weather permitting, a visit to the company's logging operations.

Host at Ladysmith was Bill Chalmers, superintendent, and the party was greeted at Hillcrest by company president Hector Stone, who recently completed a tour of the Russian forest industry.

ENJOYING TRIP

"They are an affable crowd," an official said. "They are dressed just like any Canadian businessmen except for their safety hats and rubber boots donned for today's trip. And they certainly seemed to be enjoying themselves."

The party will arrive in Victoria at 6 p.m. today for a provincial government dinner to be tendered in the Empress Hotel at 7.30 p.m.

Among those present will be Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks and about 35 guests, mostly from Victoria lumber industries.

The Russian party will stay overnight, leaving at 8 a.m. to see operation of the B.C. Forest Service experimental station at Cowichan Lake. The group then will proceed to Harmac pulp mill at Nanaimo and then to Vancouver in the afternoon where they will see the B.C. Lions play.

. . . EISENHOWER

a hot and tough battle against the Democrats. Eisenhower carried the state in 1952, but Stevenson forces feel they have a good chance to win it this year.

"The President plans to continue to lay the facts of the campaign on the line," Hagerty said.

The press secretary declined to say whether the President would hit once more—as he did in a nationwide television address from Portland—at Stevenson's proposals that efforts be made to win world agreement on halting H-bomb tests, and that consideration be given to ending the military draft "in the foreseeable future."

NO PROMISE MADE

An overflow audience in the 4,700-seat public auditorium applauded as Eisenhower — without mentioning Stevenson by name—said:

"I have not promised you—nor do I ever intend to—that the way to defend peace or fredom is to abandon simultaneously our military draft and testing of our most advanced military weapons, under the circumstances of today's world.

"For I know—as I believe all Americans know—that, without strength in this world of today, the road to surrender is paved with good intentions."

Slapping indirectly in that case against the Stevenson draft and H-bomb stand, the president said:

"Thrice in our lifetime—at least in my lifetime, we have seen our country at war. Why? Because we were too weak for the circumstances of the time.

"We shall not be that again. We must not be that again."

STEVENSON ON DRAFT

The Democratic candidate proposed university scholarships which would provide "specialized training in conjunction with a liberal education" to encourage more men to volunteer for the armed forces. The scholarships would go to qualified applicants agreeing to spend a specified time in the service.

The draft, which generally requires two years' active service, was criticized by Stevenson as inefficient because it results in a high proportion of inexperienced personnel.

BOY HERO OF RIOTS CITED

Third Poznan Trial Featured by Drama

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters)—The third and longest of the major trials arising from rioting here June 28 neared its end Thursday night with dramatic testimony about a 13-year-old boy killed during the fighting.

In a final address at the 11-day trial of eight alleged rioters, defence lawyer Michal Grzegorzewicz reached into his briefcase and held a small grey jacket before the surprised court.

He said it belonged to a boy who picked up the Polish flag from an injured woman demonstrator and waved it in front of security police headquarters while "tens of thousands" looked on.

The court was hushed and a woman dabbed her eyes with a handkerchief as the lawyer said quietly "This is the last memory his mother has of him. It is a memory of those who fell in the streets."

Previous witnesses had mentioned the incident but for the first time the boy was named as Roman Strzalkowski. The prosecution replied it had not been proved that Strzalkowski was the boy who held the flag nor that he had been shot in front of the security police building.

Judge Dionizy Piotrowski announced that he and the two lay judges hearing the case with him will give their judgment Monday.

START HEATED ARGUMENT

A heated argument broke out about who fired the first shots in the gun battle before the police building. Fifty-three persons were killed and 200 injured in the rioting.

Speaking on behalf of all eight defendants, lawyer Stanislaw Hejmowski said that even if the "we want bread demonstrators did throw bottles of flaming gasoline at police, "you cannot put a fire out with bullets."

REMEMBER CHILD

Turning to the judges, he said: "Do not let us be afraid of the truth, however bitter it may be . . . We have to remember a Polish standard held in the hand of a Polish child."

The eight youths were charged with stealing arms to attack security police headquarters. The prosecution has demanded severe penalties ranging from a minimum of 10 years to death.

France Seizes Algeria-Bound Egyptian Arms

ORAN, Algeria (CP)—French authorities charged Thursday that $2,000,000 worth of arms they captured on the yacht Athos was loaded at Alexandria by Egyptian army volunteers and was destined for Algerian rebels.

One official said the seizure shows clearly the support Egypt is giving the nationalist insurgents.

The 400-ton Athos, which the French said once was a minesweeper with the Canadian navy, was reported to have been intercepted Wednesday by the French escort vessel Commandant de Pimodan off the port of Nemours, Western Algeria.

An admiralty spokesman in Paris said the Athos was flying no national flag when intercepted. The yacht's captain was described in one report as being of British origin while another said the craft was under command of an Italian carrying both Greek and Costa Rican passports.

Crew members were Italians and Moslems and Agence France-Presse said portraits of Stalin and Egyptian President Nasser were found in the yacht's cabins.

The French unloaded 70 tons of arms, including 1,000 rifles, new British Bren guns, 500 late-model Italian machine pistols, 50 Canadian mortars and 1,000 cases of grenades and ammunition. There were also some German light machine guns and Dutch and Belgian weapons, the French said.

The French said the Athos was built originally as a pleasure yacht and was known as the Saint-Briavels.

Lion Cub Nibbles Princess

The princess, beginning the last week of her East African tour, tapped her fingers on the arms of her chair in time with the throbbing African music at the Royal Agricultural Show here.

At lunch a 10-day-old lion cub walked on the table where Princess Margaret was dining and harmlessly nibbled her finger.

"How sweet," the princess said. She gently stroked the cub, whose eyes had just opened and whose legs were still weak.

Somebody's painting his house for free.

Walsh told police: Wednesday eight men appeared and began painting the outside of his house.

Walsh protested, but the men said they had their instructions. Nine men showed up Thursday, saying they had to complete the job, that they had a contract and payment was in a Boston bank, waiting for the job to be finished.

Police said there was nothing they could do.

Walsh said the men are doing a good job, adding he likes the color.

JIMMY ROACH
Carrying the Times in the Seven Oaks area

Jimmy Roach, whose picture appears on the left, has been delivering papers in the Saanich area for the past three years. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roach of 970 Burnside Road, Jimmy comes from a newspaper family having two of his brothers in the newspaper business. His younger brother, George, delivers a route in the same area, while Henry, the older brother, is a sub-station manager, having received a promotion from carrying papers.

Jimmy hopes to become an architect some day, but in the meantime his newspaper route has assisted him in getting the things a growing boy needs. Jimmy buys all his own clothes and has purchased a bike during the past year in addition to a trumpet, which he is learning to play.

Jimmy is 14 years old and is in Grade 9 at Colquitz Junior High School. During his career as a newspaper carrier he has proved his ability in salesmanship by winning many trips in recent subscription contests.

Mrs. Roach expresses her feelings this way.

"I think that a newspaper route is a good education for a lad learning to get ahead in the world. It teaches them the value of money and how to handle it wisely. My boys have received a great deal of benefit from carrying papers."

Jimmy's past record is something for his parents to be proud of.

24-Hour Ordeal For Forester Caught by Fire

(CP and BUP DISPATCHES)

PRINCE GEORGE — A provincial forestry employee is in fair condition here after enduring painful burns for nearly 24 hours before being rescued from the forestry lookout on McKenzie Mountain, about 40 miles south of here. Hans Neilsen was removing slash on the mountain using diesel oil to aid in the burning when a sudden wind turned the flames toward him. In an effort ot get out of the way he apparently tripped and spilled some of the fuel on his body which caught fire. He managed to crawl to the lookout cabin where he stayed during the night. Next morning forestry employees found him when they made a routine check.

HIGHWAY FATALITY

PORT COQUITLAM — One man was killed and another injured in a highway accident here Thursday night.

Frank Olsen, 25, suffered head and face lacerations and was in fair condition today in a neighboring New Westminster hospital.

PRISON FARM FIRE

BURNABY—A fire in a barn on the grounds of Oakalla prison farm in Burnaby Thursday night was struck out by inmates and firemen in about half an hour.

The firefighters confined the blaze to a hay-filled loft. There were no injuries, and the one animal in the barn, a bull, was led to safety.

LOGGER KILLED

VANCOUVER—A logger was fatally injured Thursday in an accident at the B.C. Forest Products camp at Pitt Lake. The man was flown out to hospital aboard a B.C. Airlines Beaver, but died en route. His name has not been released.

HOUSING PROJECT

VANCOUVER — South Vancouver Branch 16 of the Canadian Legion has applied for land to build a $100,000 low-rental housing project for old and needy war veterans.

HELICOPTER LICENCED

VANCOUVER — Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. announced Thursday they have been granted a licence by the Air Transport Board to operate a base at Kamloops.

Glen W. McPherson, president of the firm which already has a hangar at Kamloops for oil pipeline inspection work, said one machine, a pilot and a ground crew will be sent to the new base as soon as the certificate is received from the transport department.

APPLE SHIPMENTS DOWN

KELOWNA—Daily shipments of Okanagan apples are being made to West Coast seaports for loading to the United Kingdom, B.C. Tree Fruits reports. To date 35,000 boxes of McIntosh and 3,200 boxes of Jonathans have left. Last year the United Kingdom purchased 666,780 boxes of B.C. apples, but due to the short crop, this year's figure will be down sharply, Tree Fruits stated. Prices are expected to be slightly better than last year.

Plane Survivors Greeted Joyously

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A joyous welcome greeted the 31 persons rescued from a ditched plane in mid-Pacific when they sailed through the Golden Gate today.

The Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain, with the rescued lining its rails, entered the harbor shortly after 8 a.m.

Other ships greeted the vessel with blasts from their horns and a fireboat shot streams of water into the air.

SURVIVORS MOBBED

The survivors literally were mobbed by friends and relatives as they came ashore.

Mrs. Louise Walker of San Francisco told reporters the impact of the ditched plane "was worse than I thought it was going to be."

She said the liferaft she was on, carrying the children, was shipping water before they were picked up. She said she was immersed up to her chest.

"The Coast Guard boat picked up our raft first because they could see we were in trouble," Mrs. Walker said. "There were too many people in our raft."

She said that before the ditching she had been calm and confident "that everything was going to be all right. We had plenty of time to think and pray. We all did pray."

Clothing and lipstick were sent out ahead on the cutter Gersham so the rescued 24 passengers and seven crew members could look their best when they landed.

HERRIN, Ill. (AP)—Escaping propane gas erupted Thursday night into fire that mushroomed from a bottled gas plant with flame-thrower effect.

Seven persons were fatally injured, six others badly burned and five homes and the gas plant warehouse destroyed. Of the dead, three died today. The fire set off a series of explosions. Gas tanks, exploded like bombs, hurled metal fragments 100 yards. Witnesses said other propane tanks exploded "like blowtorches."

NEIGHBORS BURN

William Mortimer, who escaped injury although his house in the heart of stricken neighborhood was destroyed, told of running outside to find three neighbors "were human torches."

The dead: Fred Kerley, 62; Mrs. Elizabeth Kerley, 62, his wife; Charlotte Jarvis, 11; Robert Lee Keller, 5; Oscar Williams, 38; Mrs. Violet Williams, 33, his wife, and Freddie Williams, 3, their son.

Children at play were swept by the flames. Some of the destroyed houses were blown apart.

Hospital attendants said that nearly all the dead and injured had third-degree burns.

HOUSE COLLAPSED

Mortimer and his wife said the Kerley home next door had collapsed when they ran outside.

"The Kerleys and Freddie Williams were human torches," Mrs. Mortimer said. "Mrs. Kerley was lying on the sidewalk. I took her by the hand and lifted her to her feet. Her clothes were completely burned from her, and I got a chair covering to put over her.

Authorities said the gas, escaping from a ruptured line from a gas truck, apparently spread to the nearby residential area and was ignited by an open flame in one of the homes.

Doctors said of the inured: "There are a lot we wont be able to do anything for."

Fifteen physicians attending a conference in Herrin aided in treatment of the victims. Blood plasma was sent from nearby towns.

Indian Floods Claim 15 Lives

MADRAS, India (Reuters)—Fifteen persons are believed to have been drowned in two flood accidents in South India. Nine passengers are missing from a motorboat which sank in the swollen Krishna River and six others were swept from a causeway crossing the flooded South Pennar River.

Mr. Bennett on Power

IT IS RE-ASSURING TO LEARN that the Bennett Government is opposed to the export of electricity; puzzling to hear that this has always been its policy. For, in fact, the Bennett Government tried to export electricity in the case of the abortive Kaiser dam scheme and was stopped by the Federal Government.

True enough, the export in that case was to be in the form of water but the result would have been a loss of potential power to British Columbia. An American company was to dam Lower Arrow Lake, impound water and use it south of the border to make electricity there. And for these important benefits the American interests were to pay the British Columbia Government in cash, under arrangements negotiated by Mr. Robert Sommers, then minister of lands and forests.

In the view of the Federal Government, the proper view, this was nothing but a plan to export our potential electricity, all of which we shall need ourselves and to accept a quick cash return. As successive Federal Governments, for the last three decades, have opposed electrical exports, the Kaiser dam deal was quashed.

This incident may seem, at first sight, to be of only historic interest. Actually it was a clear test of future federal and provincial power policy, and the policies of Ottawa and Victoria were in direct conflict. More important the Kaiser dam affair was a clear forerunner of the great international issue now developing on the whole Columbia system.

As it begins negotiations with the United States the Canadian Government holds that Canada must secure not only all the power developed by the projected master dam at Mica Creek, near Revelstoke, but a large share of the extra power which that dam will develop south of the border.

The whole argument between the two countries centres around what are called down-stream benefits—to be enjoyed by the United States power companies when the Mica Creek dam controls the Columbia's seasonal flow and thus increases the usable volume of water available to our neighbors.

Canada insists that a substantial part of the increased American power output shall be carried back across the border into this country. It will not accept cash instead of power, as Mr. Bennett intended in the case of the Kaiser dam. It will not export power even in the form of water.

If Mr. Bennett has realized the mistake of the Kaiser dam, if he is now opposed to power exports, in the form of water, if he has accepted the federal policy, his new attitude will be approved by most British Columbians. But whatever his attitude may be, the Federal Government will maintain its historic position in negotiating with the United States.

These international negotiations are, of course, the sole responsibility of the Federal Government. Mr. Bennett, as he says, can play no part in them; though, rather ironically, he has urged the Federal Government not to grant permits for any electrical exports after he himself had attempted to authorize exports from the Kaiser dam and was outraged when Ottawa interfered.

While the Federal Government must make the deal with the United States and arrange the future division of the Columbia's power output, the Provincial Government alone can allow, or refuse to allow, the gigantic dam at Mica Creek or anywhere else on the Canadian section of the river.

What disturbs the Federal Government is that Mr. Bennett has proposed to invite unnamed American interests to build the Mica Creek dam and turn it over to Canada, free of charge, thus assuring us, he says, relatively cheap electricity. For this quick cash gain we would demand little of the extra power developed downstream in the United States—only some 20 per cent, Mr. Bennett suggests.

Ottawa would not agree to what must be in reality a huge export of power, in the form of water. Does Mr. Bennett's latest statement that he is opposed to power exports mean that he has abandoned his Mica Creek proposal in favor of the long-standing federal policy? It is to be hoped so, but Mr. Bennett has yet to answer that final question.

Savagery on the Platform

MR. COLIN CAMERON, CCF federal member for Nanaimo, is a man of lively humanitarian concepts and dramatic eloquence.

The latter seems to have outweighed a thoughtful assessment of crime and punishment in Canada when he spoke to the Local Council of Women in his home town the other day.

Mr. Cameron told the audience that Canada has a reputation in the world as one of the most "savage" countries of all western nations for the severity of punishment imposed by the nation's courts.

He was able to cite an instance in which a first offender was sentenced to 28 years—an apparent reference to a case widely publicized by a national magazine some months ago.

Such sentences occasionally occur. They are, however, very definitely the exception and they are generally corrected either by higher courts on appeal or by the Department of Justice when penalties are completely out of line with the crime for which they are imposed.

Making allowances for such instances, Mr. Cameron nevertheless performs a disservice to his country and to those very conscientious people who are working consistently to have our penal institutions serve increasingly as places of correction. He is also, by implication at least, blackening the reputation of judges in whose hands variations of sentence are left.

On second thought, we believe Mr. Cameron would wish to soften his indictment.

He knows, as do other informed Canadians, that the question of crime and punishment exercises the deep consideration of this country's law makers. The Senate-Commons investigation of corporal and capital punishment serves as a current reminder of that fact. He knows, too, that the attention and conscience of the Canadian people have been aroused over conditions in places of detention and he is aware of improvements made along lines recommended by the Archambault and other commissions since 1936.

He should be familiar with the manner in which the bench generally attempts to fix sentences for the benefit of society and with consideration for the prisoner's potential rehabilitation.

Mr. Cameron has every right to argue that improvement is needed in the treatment of the convicted person— and where isn't there such a need—but he oversteps the mark when he declares Canada a country noted for its savagery because of the way it deals with the transgressor.

The member for Nanaimo has made an extravagant oratorical point at the expense of fair and honest criticism.

What's a Million or So?

LAST SATURDAY RESIDENTS of West Vancouver gave approval to a $1,380,000 school referendum with 71 per cent of the recorded vote in favor of the expenditure.

That percentage is emphatic. It will be cheered, moreover, by all who appreciate the need for more schools. But the decision was reached by a poll which attracted only 20 per cent of those entitled to vote.

The latter figure is sobering. Only one-fifth of the people concerned cared enough about the school facilities required in their district to turn out and mark ballots. Four-fifths of the people cared neither for that nor for the expenditure of $1,380,000.

In December the property-owners of Victoria will be asked to authorize another major school project. It is to be hoped the importance of the subject, no less than the amount of money involved, will persuade a substantial majority of enfranchised people to excercise their right to vote. Token representation in such instances reflects no credit whatever on a municipality.

Bunch of Immigrants

JULES SIOUI, AN INDIAN speaking in Village des Hurons, Quebec, says he and his blood brothers don't want to be integrated with the "so-called Canadian people."

Palefaces, he claims with historic justice, are immigrants.

Here is a neat problem for Mr. Pickersgill, minister of citizenship and immigration as well as chief Indian officer for Canada. If the natives liked Canada better the way it was before—and most people over 40 have a hankering for the good old ways—the minister might placate them by arranging a program by which the palefaces could integrate with the Indians.

Failing that, it is difficult to see how the minister can satisfy Mr. Sioui without a Scottish repatriation program that dwarfs anything in history.

NOT REALLY REAL — By B. A. TOBIN

The Genuine Imitation

I AM BECOMING increasingly concerned about the modern use of imitations. Some people think sin is the world's most pressing problem, but I think it's synthetics. A whole generation is growing up which has never known the genuine version of many common products. How many people today, for example, have ever tasted real vanilla extract? Probably not one in a thousand. And by the evident pride with which the manufacturers of "imitation vanilla extract" emblazon that fact on their labels, it won't be long before the housewife is encouraged to buy with such a boast as "guaranteed imitation vanilla extract."

Tobin

But that is only one branch of the deterioration which seems to be a part of our modern lives. "Better than the real thing" is a principle that is stretching farther and farther—like synthetic rubber.

'Sno Joke

For instance you may have noticed that startling bit of information that came out when Governor General Massey was touring the far north a few months ago.

Up at some Arctic outpost they wanted to show him what an Eskimo village of igloos would look like. But when those in charge of the reception tried to get the local Eskimos to build some, the dusky natives didn't know how! They had been living in tar paper shacks for so long the old art had died. So some white-skinned RCMP men had to turn to and show how it was done.

Well, that was bad enough. But I was still suffering from this disillusionment when a couple of days ago I saw another news item. This time it was about some Indians from the Tuscarora reserve in Ontario.

Indian Givers

An Indian village has been erected at Niagara Falls and for the grand opening they wanted to have some Indians do war dances. But officials (white) turned down the band of Tuscarora braves who arrived to provide local color. They decided that they "didn't have the realism" that trained high school dancers had. In other words they weren't good enough Indians to portray Indians.

Where is this going to end?

The day may yet come when giant chipping machines will turn out world's tallest totem poles in a few minutes each. When dugout canoes, instead of taking weeks of careful hand work, will be produced in half a day by the white operator of a chromium carving machine.

You put the log in at this end. By setting the knobs and dials on the control panel it will come out the other end as a canoe, a totem pole, an arm chair or a roll of newsprint.

But once the principle is really under way—will it be our turn next? Will the white man's cherished crafts and skills be taken over by some machine or process that produces genuine imitations?

Will an operator throw words into a hopper, turn a crank and produce Shakespearean plays? Will our paintings, sculpture and handicrafts come to us on a revolving belt from the bowels of some huge engine? Come to think of it, haven't they begun to do that already?

The signs are plain to see.

For the Birds

I'm told there was a fellow once who drank such a heavy lunch at the club that he came home in midafternoon somewhat the worse for wear. His wife was out, so he let himself into the house and sat down in the living room facing the big front window.

Eventually his wife returned, saw him inside and tapped on the window to be let in. He waved but didn't get up. She finally made her way to the back door and got in.

"Say," he greeted her, "I just saw you on television. I've been here watching it all afternoon. It was a terrific program. They showed a nice lawn just like ours and dozens of birds running around on the grass. Most interesting thing I've seen on TV."

"You're crazy," said his wife, as wives do. "You've been looking out the window all the time."

"What," yelled the fellow, "I've wasted all afternoon looking at REAL birds?"

Weather or Not

Only occasionally do we read of a reversal of the process, when some age-old skill reasserts itself over the new scientific and mechanical aids.

A few months ago some old codger in Britain became dissatisfied with the weather reports his community was receiving and he challenged the British weather office to a 30-day test.

The officials polished up their weather predicters, their wind gauges and electronic equipment. The old fellow concentrated on his means—I forget whether he used his corns, his rheumatism, or the evening flight of gnats. Anyway at the end of the month his method had predicted the weather right more times than the science of the weather bureau.

That should hearten us all. There may be hope for the igloos and the war dances yet.

THE OTTAWA SCENE — By VICTOR MACKIE

Our Stake in Canada

THE Dominion Bureau of Statistics has issued recent reports on foreign investment in Canada. But the DBS has to err on the side of caution and its averages are based on the period 1946 to 1954, or at best the 1950 to 1954 period. These statistics are out of date, so rapid has been Canada's development in the past two years. Aware of this the Ottawa correspondent of the Financial Post has done some digging, calculating and estimating. He has concluded that Canadian savings are now contributing a smaller proportion of total Canadian investment than in any peacetime period since 1914.

Mackie

Out of every $3 invested in new capital facilities Canadian savings account for about $2. About $1 out of every $3 comes from abroad and between 75 cents and 80 cents of this comes from the U.S. A check of these conclusions with the statisticians in the DBS reveals that the officials consider them to be accurate.

Quitting Politics?

Ross Thatcher's announcement that he would not seek re-election to the Commons in his old riding of Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, has led to a belief that he has decided to retire from the political arena for the time being. The announcement was broadcast over the CBC national television newscast in such a manner that it left the impression that Mr. Thatcher was quitting politics.

Such is not the case, unless the hardware-merchant-turned-farmer has changed his mind very recently. He has let it be known privately that he may seek the nomination in Assiniboia and run against the CCF member of parliament in that riding, Hazen Argue. Liberals in Assiniboia, it is believed, would welcome Mr. Thatcher.

Drew's Future

Close friends of George Drew report him making an excellent recovery from his recent illness. He is in good spirits, has regained his energy and is sleeping well. In fact in recent conversations with friends he has expressed indignation at all the rumours that have been circulating about the poor state of his health. He will make no quick decision on the offer of a senate appointment.

Television

Television coverage of the Progressive Conservative leadership convention in Ottawa the week of Dec. 10 will be the first time TV has reared its ugly cameras in such a Canadian political convention. It will mean big changes in the operation of the convention. Sessions will have to start on time, to the minute. Speakers will be cautioned against talking too long. Blue shirts will be the order of the day for the principal performers as white shirts register poorly on television.

Even the site of the convention was chosen partly with TV in mind. The delegates to the PC executive meeting here were advised that television facilities, both French and English, were better in Ottawa than in Winnipeg. This weighed heavily in naming Ottawa as the convention city.

Supreme Court

The old Supreme Court building at the base of Parliament Hill has been levelled. The wreckers moved in a few weeks ago and have done their destructive work only too well. All that remains of the old structure is a heap of rubble. Soon the broken stone too will be gone and pavement will be laid to provide a parking lot. Such is progress.

The venerable grey sandstone building has vanished over the objections of many leading citizens who did not want to see the link with Canada's past demolished. Much of Canada's constitutional history had its beginning behind those stone walls.

Origin

The building was the oldest of the group on Parliament Hill. It was built in 1873-74 as a permanent workshop for the army of engineers who were working on the main group of parliament buildings. It was used as a workshop until 1880.

Sir John A. Macdonald moved to create a Supreme Court in 1869. But it was not until 1873 with a Liberal Government in power that a bill establishing the Supreme Court was finally passed by Parliament. The problem of finding a home for the court was settled when the structure at the foot of Parliament Hill was remodelled.

In 1881 the court moved into the building. It served as the home of the Supreme Court until after the Second World War when the new Supreme Court building was ready for occupation. The public works department under the guidance of Maritimer Hon. Robert Winters, decided the structure should be torn down to provide more parking space on Parliament Hill. The decision stood despite protests.

Campaign

The federal election campaign is starting. Several members of the cabinet have been making speeches (including the Prime Minister) of a type that suggest electioneering is the keynote. But the Liberals are handicapped by the fact that the Progressive Conservatives are without a leader at this time due to the illness of Mr. Drew. The Liberals cannot start belaboring the Conservatives with mighty blows. It would look too much like kicking a party when it is down. Hence the speeches are written and delivered with emphasis on the government's achievements and little if any reference to the opposition.

As Our Readers See It

Misconception

The Reeve of Oak Bay, Mr. F. H. Norris, is reported to have said "It is a provincial statute that is preventing the sale of raw milk in Oak Bay. I would suggest you take your protest to the Provincial Government."

This is a most unfortunate statement, which, if not immediately corrected, will create an entirely wrong impression in the minds of your readers.

As Mr. Norris is perfectly well aware, the Milk Industry Act unequivocally places in the hands of Municipal Councils complete authority to remove the ban on raw milk, and it has been so removed by every municipal council on Vancouver Island, with the solitary exception of Oak Bay.

"MAGNUM EST VERITAS"

Humane Slaughter

I read with interest a letter from Mrs. Young asking people to get together regarding the awful conditions of the city pound.

All the help you will get is sympathy, and that doesn't help very much. Very few in this city care to do anything to alleviate the suffering of dumb creatures. For instance, a few months ago a big hue and cry went out for a more humane method of slaughtering animals. Many letters were published protesting the antiquated brutal method as is still used at the slaughter houses. But they were all unheeded.

Letters were sent to three MPs, each one shifting the responsibility on to the other. Finally it was decided to have letters sent to packers suggesting a more humane method of slaughtering be used.

How ridiculous! It would cost them a few dollars to make the changeover. Nothing will be done until a law is passed to make it compulsory, like the same humane method as is used in England and other Christian countries.

Can you imagine in these days of advancement bludgeoning these poor creatures five and six times before rendering them unconscious?

The SPCA has brought this matter up time after time. But their pleas have been ignored. Is there some influential organization who cares enough to take this matter up and demand a more humane method of slaughtering be made compulsory?

K. BARRETT.

City Hall Site

I would like to suggest, the joint Victoria, Saanich city hall, fire hall, police station and court house be built on the city's Harriet Road property which, if all goes well, in 20 years from now will be the centre of Greater Victoria.

A more beautiful site could not be found anywhere. The number of lovely homes and streets that have been built in this area are amazing in the last 8 years. Go, citizen, if you don't believe me and see for yourself. Also this property lies between the two main up-Island highways, is well serviced by bus traffic, and it must be a very healthy spot—being high and dry with a wonderful view of sea and mountains. This is very essential for our shut-in office employees.

I mention Court House because they have not decided where to build the new one yet and if the city approached the Government on the matter they might come to some very suitable and economic arrangement.

I am writing this for 20 years in advance—that is if our city grows and Saanich grows as fast in the next 20 years as it has done in the past.

This is a wonderful site.

Canada's China Policy

Canada is young, big, rapidly growing in strength and importance. Our achievements command attention and respect. With it comes growing international responsibility.

But have we sufficient independent observers abroad? Individuals oozing with that personal knowledge gained "direct" from the happenings and thinking of countries where dynamic changes are taking place in government and the minds of the people?

In this regard there is cause for doubt.

Up to the time Mao Tze-tung assumed leadership, world governments for over a hundred years were accurately informed on Chinese affairs by the most unique "international" civil service of this age—namely the Chinese Maritime Customs.

No civil war, world wars, famine, floods, disease, stopped its function. No civil service enjoyed such world prestige.

No civil service excelled in esprit de corps, the keeping of records, and freedom from patronage.

It survived many political storms, and was the financial backbone of trade between China and the rest of the world.

Its passing with Chiang Kai-shek's regime ended an epoch. The bamboo curtain filled its place. China emptied itself of its former "on the spot" Chinese observers. New China is not represented on the United Nations, and the peoples of the western world, (especially United States and Canada) are denied first hand knowledge of what is happening in New China.

But this fault is more ours these days than China's.

Must Canada wait until it's too late to reap the benefit of staggering opportunities of 600 million customers?

The fact, hard to believe, is, Chinese want to trade with us—ordinary Chinese with the ordinary Canadian citizen — without interference from those worried over differences in ideology.

Also the ordinary Chinese citizen shares the view with Canadian citizens—"make trade normal"—and other difficulties will resolve themselves.

What's Ottawa waiting for?

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

A Dickybird Told Me

UNITED States newspapers are turning an attentive ear to and cocking an interested eye at the "dickybird."

The "dickybird" is a light, portable wire recording machine. It can be slung from a newspaperman's shoulder, like a camera, and operates on batteries. When the reporter attends a speech or a press conference, he moves up front, holds a small, plastic microphone toward the speaker and turns the switch. What the speaker says is caught on wire and can be played back.

STOTT

The name given to this German device is taken from the sound that comes when the spool is being rewound, preparatory to the playback. When speech is reversed, it comes through as twitterings. Applause, in reverse — and with strange logic—becomes a hissing.

"Dickybird" seems to offer the complete answer to the politician or public figure who makes a practice of saying he was misquoted when his words in print arouse an unfavorable reaction. The instrument presents the actual speech. It leaves no room for a slip between a speaker's lip and a reporter's ear.

PROBLEM FOR DULLES

How the device will operate for Mr. John Foster Dulles, the U.S. secretary of state, poses an interesting question. Mr. Dulles, according to recent report, claims the right to edit transcripts of his press conferences to correct any blunders he may have made.

I like to picture the scene between the secretary of state and the man who operates the new equipment:

"Mr. Dulles, meet 'Dickybird.' I'll just leave you two alone and would you mind seeing if you can reach agreement."

That ought to be twittering to end all twittering.

Not that politicians and public figures are the only ones who will have to face up to transmogrifications. The reporter is occasionally at fault.

Myself, when young, suffered from an occupational disease which identified me too closely with the beat I covered. I came to believe that it was my duty, as a city hall reporter, to see that the dignity of the council was preserved by translating council debate into what I considered grammatical English.

Once I quoted a member in the subjunctive, saying "If I were . . ." He approached me and asked why I was trying to make him appear ignorant. "Look," he protested, "I didn't say that. I said 'If I wuz . . .' There's only one of me. Why say 'were'? That's for two people."

My good intentions snubbed into further grief. An alderman asked me why I didn't quote him as he spoke. I explained my intent only to be assured by the city father that he spoke correctly.

"Your difficulty," I tried to point out, "is syntax."

"Syntax?" he queried, as if it were a new form of collecting revenue. "Syntax? Not me."

So I told him I'd quote him verbatim if he wanted it that way. But he didn't really care. "It don't matter," he said, walking away.

COLORFUL SPEECH

When I grew a little older, I realized that half the punch in a story, half the color, is often provided by the speech of those who don't care too much for grammatical construction. Their disregard of the rules sometimes adds character to their statements—and certainly paints a more accurate picture of the speaker.

So I'm all for "Dickybird." That doesn't mean that the new machine will be proof against misconceptions. A reporter, covering an hour's speech, may find himself only able to present a condensation with a word equivalent of only 10 minutes oral reading. He hasn't space for a verbatim report.

In the course of his condensation he'll probably use a few direct quotations. When he does, his picture will be accurate only as long as those direct quotations are in context and the context must be abbreviated.

"Dickybird" has the whole story, presumably. But the whole story cannot be used. If it produces on the printed page only a disembodied quote, the speaker to whom it's attributed will feel naked as a plucked chicken.

At the same time it should guarantee the accuracy of statements. It should end the quibble that goes: "You said that." "I didn't." All you do is refer the issue to the bird. And "Dicky" should be a lot more coherent than a budgie.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Arthritis in Farmers

Dr Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, in a recent release, commented on the fact, as yet not understood, that farmers suffer most often from arthritis. It would seem that arthritis must be connected in some way with the farmer's long days of hard work, out of doors in all sorts of weather. The Foundation suggests that the farmer get more rest, and that he try not to overdo when plowing and reaping.

Dr. Alvarez

In Today's Health, John D. Gallagher tells of a woman who, while cleaning her baseboard with a damp cloth picked up a metal floor lamp to move it out of the way. At the same time her leg came against the radiator. The lamp had a wiring defect, her hands were wet, and the radiator was well-grounded through its pipe connections. As a result, the lady lost her life by electrocution.

Hundreds of women have been electrocuted while in their tub. With a foot in the water, and with a wet hand which makes a good electrical connection, they reached to turn off a light, an electric fan, or an electric heater—and that was the end of them. According to the underwriters, electric apparatus should be so made that this sort of thing cannot happen, but often lamps or electric appliances in a home are old or poorly made.

HOW TO PULL FREE

I once came within an ace of being electrocuted when I picked up one piece of electric apparatus with one hand while I had another apparatus in the other hand. In a moment with the powerful currents surging through me, my muscles were rigid and it was impossible for me to let go of either of the instruments. The two nurses with me froze stiff with horror and could not move. The only way I got free was to back off and pull one of the wires off the wall. Perhaps in the future someone may save his life by remembering this little trick of pulling an appliance out of its socket.

A high percentage of all accidents take place in the home, and many of these would never have happened if the people had only thought of danger, and had taken pains to avoid it. For instance, many a woman loses her life falling off a rickety ladder, or a ladder which has no rubber on the bottom to keep it from slipping on the floor. Usually, when one climbs a ladder one should have someone holding it so that it will not slip or topple over.

Many a time in my home, going upstairs to bed, I have found a roller skate on the stair, a skate which one of my grandchildren had left there. What a magnificent trap this was for anyone who would come down during the night! Because of something movable left on a stair many an elderly person has died of a broken neck, or a broken hip with the subsequent pneumonia. A torn piece of carpet on the stair has also caused many a person to lose his life or to become a cripple.

Often persons would do well at night to leave a small light on in the bathroom or over the stairway. One of my good friends, a woman of 50, recently died of a broken neck. What happened was that getting up and going to the bathroom in the dark and half asleep, she turned the wrong way in the hall and fell headling down a flight of stairs.

Another common man-trap in the home is a long telephone or lamp cord. A hundred times I have tripped dangerously over such a cord. In many cases it should have been run under the carpet.

Another vicious killer of men and women is the small rug lying on a waxed floor. One step and out go one's feet from under one. Far better than a Blue Cross membership or a life insurance policy is a rubber cushion under each small rug.

In winter, in the northern tier of states, when everything is covered with a thin sheet of very slippery ice, it is good insurance to scatter some sand or cinders over the icy spots.

AN ANIMAL 'WIRED FOR PLEASURE'

The antivivisectionists would have us believe that all animal experimentation brings untold suffering to the animals. Actually, recently, Dr. R. H. Feliz, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, told of rats that, under anesthesia, had had two very slender wires passed into an area between the two main halves of the brain. When a very weak alternating current was sent along the wires into this area the rats evidently experienced delight. They enjoyed the sensation so much that when a little pedal switch was put into their cage, the rats kept pressing on it again and again. They kept doing this even when they should have stopped to eat and drink.

Now, the doctors are wondering if treatment like this might bring relief and comfort and help to depressed patients in a mental hospital.

Russ-Japanese War Officially Ends Today

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia and Japan today sign a treaty ending the 11-year state of war between the two nations and restoring diplomatic relations.

spokesman for the Japanese missio headed by Premier Ichiro Hatoyama said the pact—wind-i up more than 16 months of negotiations—will be signed in the Kremlin tonight.

Japanese officials said they reached "complete agreement" with the Soviet government. Russi refused to sign the San Francisco peace treaty in 1951 because of the disputed tiny islands of Habomai and Shikotan, off North Hokkaido.

U.S. ELECTION SURVEY

Oregon Stays With Eisenhower But Democrat Leads Senate Race

OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — If you're looking for a good testing ground of President Eisenhower's personal popularity, Oregon is the right place.

Republicans will grant Eisenhower has lost votes because of falling farm prices and such regional problems as the dispute over Hells Canyon dam sites.

A slowdown in home construction—blamed chiefly on tightened credit—has hit the lumber industry:

However, while this has been going on and farm income has dropped by nine per cent, business in general has been good. Jobs, pay rates and earnings are at new highs. And Republicans are counting on Ike's personal standing to see him through.

Democrats don't deny Eisenhower has maintained a strong following in Oregon, even though its registration went Democratic this year. And most predictions are that Adlai Stevenson can forget about the state's six electoral votes.

However, statewide newspaper polls favor Senator Wayne Morse, among Eisenhower's most caustic critics, to win re-election over Douglas McKay. The former Oregon governor gave up his job as secretary of the interior to tackle Morse, who switched to the Democrats after winning election as a Republican.

MINNESOTA

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — President Eisenhower has a big but diminishing backlog of respect and popularity that may carry him to a repeat political victory in Minnesota. But by no means is it safe bet that this will happen.

For Minnesota still has some unhappy farmers, despite the best corn and soybean crops on record. As a result, the battle for Minnesota's 11 electoral votes is uncomfortably close.

Peace, prosperity and what some voters term his "honesty and sincerity" are working for Eisenhower in Minnesota. Few people mention his health as a campaign issue. In the state ranking fifth in value of farm products, the farm issue is the big one. And it is in rural areas that Eisenhower's popularity has skidded most.

But if economic conditions hurt Eisenhower on the farms, they may help him in normally Democratic labor areas in cities and the iron range country in the north. While Minneapolis-Moline has shut down here because of big stocks of tractors and other equipment farmers aren't buying, the number of people on payrolls in Minnesota set successive records in August and September.

MICHIGAN

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Yellow pumpkins piled high at roadside stands, full, brown corn drying in the fields and fat dairy herds grazing in the rolling meadows attest that this was a good farm year in Michigan.

But whether this outward placidity spells polling-place support for the Republican administration's farm policies and thus for President Eisenhower's re-election remains to be determined.

The Republicans must hold the farmers if they are to offset Democratic majorities in Wayne County, including Detroit. The big city area casts about 40 per cent of Michigan's estimated 2,800,000 ballots.

Eisenhower took the state by a 321,000-vote margin over Adlai Stevenson in 1952. Republicans this year hope to cut into the city vote in the battle for the state's 20 electoral votes. They are running Detroit Mayor Albert B. Cobo against Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams. There is no Senate contest this year.

Williams rode out the 1952 Eisenhower landslide. And he won hands down in 1954 and this year seems capable of breasting any Eisenhower tide. Whether he can pull Stevenson in with him is regarded as doubtful.

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP) —A recount of votes in Grand Forks riding has confirmed election of CCF candidate Mrs. Lois Haggen in the Sept. 19 provincial election.

The recount before Judge M. M. Colquhoun in the Grand Forks courthouse Wednesday showed Mrs. Haggen had 877 votes against 866 for Social Credit candidate Crae Dawson. The original count was 883 for Mrs. Haggen and 868 for Mr. Dawson.

'DARNDEST DISAGREEMENT' BETWEEN 8 CANCER EXPERTS

BOSTON (AP)—Eight cancer specialists held a press conference here and disagreed on most everything connected with the disease.

Dr. George Crile, Jr., of the Cleveland, Ohio, Clinic, summed it up with the comment:

"You might say that there is the darndest disagreement imaginable among doctors on the whole subject."

The doctors clashed on emphasis on cancer examinations, the cause of lung cancer, the early treatment of stomach ulcers and how much stomach to remove in surgical treatment of cancer.

Due to the fact that they have chosen a well-written farce containing an assortment of well-delineated characters, and that some members of the cast reveal a certain comprehension of farce technique, St. Luke's Players, in their opening fall show, provide an evening of fair entertainment.

A good-sized, responsive audience enjoyed the first night, Thursday, at St. Luke's parish hall, where the play will be repeated tonight and Saturday. Next Thursday there will be a special performance at the Memorial Hall, Vancouver Street.

The plot, as in the case of most such comedies, is trivial. It revolves about an odd assortment of couples, including some "theatricals" in a third-rate seaside boarding house.

SMART DIALOGUE

It is replete with "corn," such as the mother-in-law joke, the newlyweds, the typical slavey—even the aspidistras. The dialogue however, is smart, lively and smooth and the familiar situations have, in spite of themselves, an aura of freshness.

Slow cues and a lack of definition on the part of one or two actors weakened the general effectiveness of the production, but on the other hand there were some genuinely good scenes, as for example, that between Evanne Murray and Allen Le Croix in the first act. This really built to a firm climax.

Another occurred when Alec Hutchins, the elderly husband is briefing Russel Gurney, the husband of a few hours, on the spider-like ways of women.

Top performance was given by Dorothy House, as to tempo, audibility, contrast and sharpness of characterization. Russell Gurney has plenty of talent and only needs to strengthen the vocal part of his performance to be completely satisfactory. He enriches his role with qualities of both clownishness and pathos.

Margaret Martin, in an unrewarding part, was nevertheless charmingly competent.

Costumes heightened the effect of farce when necessary and a word of congratulation is due the stage crew for accurate lighting cues and prompt curtains.

GRANT 'APT'

City Hospital, B.C. Birthdays Both in 1958

Use of the provincial centennial grant to help erect a new wing at Royal Jubilee Hospital would be especially apt in 1958—that is also the hospital's 100th anniversary.

The little-known fact was passed along by a hospital authority today who also pointed out, if the proposed new wing becomes a memorial wing, that, too, would be in keeping with history.

The hospital received its name "Royal Jubilee" in 1890, to mark the jubilee celebration of Queen Victoria.

Saanich and Esquimalt councils are both slated to discuss the new hospital wing Monday night.

Both Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash, and Esquimalt Councillor G. K. Sammon support making the new construction Greater Victoria's prime centennial year project.

They argue this would be the best use for an anticipated $70,000 provincial grant to this area.

The hospital wing is expected to cost a total of $1,400,000. Government grants and the hospital board would put up all but $325,000 which would be shared by Greater Victoria municipalities.

Knife Hurler Sent to Jail For 3 Months

Brian Tennyson, 18, 1575 Clawthorpe, was sentenced in Saanich police court Thursday to two concurrent terms of three months determinate and six months indeterminate in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla.

The sentences were for creating a mischief when he and other youths tossed butcher knives into doors of a Burnside Avenue home and stole a radio.

Counsel James Proudfoot asked for a suspended sentence for Tennyson but Magistrate H. C. Hall said "in view of the nature of his probation report I can't see a suspended sentence is justifiable."

Mysore Nationalizes British-Owned Mines

BANGALORE, India (Reuters) The Mysore upper legislative House has passed a bill nationalizing the British-owned Kolar Gold Mines. Compensation for the mines, which have operated for 80 years, was fixed at $3,440,000. The mines employ 23,000 workers and produce about 220,322 ounces of gold a year.

Vice-chairman of the Community Chest campaign, Hector Alexander, today said "Thanks 51."

The strange appelation, "51," was signed to a note pinned to a $5 bill which came to the chest counting table today.

Mr. Alexander said there are several incidents every day which points up the fact that often those who have the least, give most generously.

One elderly lady gave a residential canvasser 50 cents. She had saved five cents a month all year.

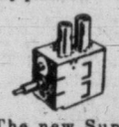
Carefree Television
Result of Exclusive Westinghouse Advances

The new Westinghouse features eight new engineering advances to give the best possible television picture while providing you with a new freedom from service worries.

No fewer than five separate engineering advances protect against interference no matter how it originates. Ask your Dealer to use a food mixer or electric shaver to show how interference affects other makes of television while the Westinghouse maintains a steady picture.



The new Super 100 Cascode Tuner used by Westinghouse builds up even the weakest signal while blocking out interference.

The Westinghouse Silver Safeguard Circuit provides freedom from a major source of set trouble by eliminating two thirds of the wiring necessary in many other television receivers. By this method, all connections, and components are actually sealed in a network of metal. Immune to vibration, moisture, heat.

Westinghouse Radios too, boast new engineering advances. Ask to see the Carillon, (Model 5T123). Combines a brilliant two-speaker system with a precisioneered 5-tube superheterodyne circuit plus a phono socket. The result is far richer tone, minimum distortion.

2 minutes of reading for people who don't own television

There may be any number of reasons you haven't bought a television set. Reasons we won't even guess at.

But we're sure that if anything can induce you to enjoy the pleasure of television . . . the new Westinghouse will do it.

Compare it with other makes of television and see why. The Westinghouse brings you a remarkable new picture clarity . . . free of streaks, flutter, flop-over and other annoying interference. That's because the new Westinghouse has exclusive "noise-killer" circuits that trap interference no matter how it originates!

What's more, you can be sure the perfect Westinghouse picture will stay that way. You enjoy a new freedom from service worries—thanks to such Westinghouse advances as the Silver Safeguard and Tube Saver Circuits.

Labor Council Opposes Raiding By Affiliates; Unions Complain

Principle of membership raiding within ranks of organized labor, especially since merger of the country's biggest labor groups, has come under fire in Victoria.

Victoria Labor Council is on record as opposing raiding by an affiliate and has sought co-operation of the Canadian Labor Congress and B.C. Federation of Labor in ending the situation.

Matter arose recently when an organizer from Heat and Frost Insulators, Local 118, Vancouver, came to Victoria and attempted to gain membership for a sublocal by taking shipyard laggers (asbestos workers) from shipwrights' union membership at Yarrows

He said he was acting on instructions of the Heat and Frost Insulators' international headquarters.

Complaint was made by Don Douglas, business agent of Local 9, Shipwrights' Industrial Union, to the labor council, which will include a copy of his complaint in urging immediate action by CLC secretary Donald Macdonald.

Mr. Douglas referred to the problem as "an alarming situation," and that his union regards it as "deplorable" that there should be raiding when there is plenty of work to do among the unorganized.

Heat and Frost Insulators seeks certification of 26 laggers at Yarrows. There are about 36 laggers and allied asbestos workers attached to the shipwrights' local.

The Vancouver local is newly organized and seeks expansion.

"I question the right of any international to interfere in a Canadian union," Mr. Douglas said.

Thatcher Wants Businessmen In Politics

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ross Thatcher, Liberal member of Parliament, Thursday called for more businessmen to enter politics and attacked what he termed the "costly myth" that it was impossible to follow basic business practice in government.

In a service club address, Mr. Thatcher criticized businessmen for avoiding "politics like the plague." He said their refusal to enter government is having a "serious effect not only on government but on the economy of the whole country."

Mr. Thatcher said that only two of the 18 federal cabinet member listed them selves as businessmen. Among 26 MPs in the Commons, only 10 per cent are businessmen.

Every part of the national economy, from agricultural prices to working conditions, reflects the decisions of politicans.

"We can't afford to leave these decisions in the hands of men without even a rudimentary knowledge of business," said the one-time CCF member, who broke away to become an independent and, early this year, joined the Liberals.

The Ottawa talks will be consider whether research and management of pink salmon be placed under the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission by extension of the 1937 U.S.-Canada Sockeye Salmon Treaty.

Canadian Chamber Picks Victoria; Nanaimo to Share '57 Conference

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

QUEBEC (CP) — "On to Victoria" was the slogan of the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce as it ended here Thursday, and set its sights for a meeting on the Pacific coast a year from now.

The simple slogan was a welcome relief to people who for four days talked in technical terms of such matters as monetary and fiscal policy—who had lost track of the football standings and hardly knew the hockey season was under way.

M EY CHIEF TOPIC

Monetary and fiscal policy was perhaps the chief item of discussic during the meetings and most delegates became "conscript economists" — to quote a term used in an address by L. A. Forsyth, of Montreal, president of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

Newspaper men, in an attempt to simplify the matter, just called it "prices" in their stories — because a major aim of current monetary policy is to keep prices from shooting up.

Delegates generally approved, but still cast questioning looks, at the steps being taken by monetary authorities — chiefly through the Bank of Canada—to make money harder to borrow and thus tame the current boom.

The new president of the chamb[illegible] for the coming year is Raymond Dupuis, president of Dupuis Freres, Montreal department store firm. He succeeds J. G. Crean of Toronto.

The new national first vice-president is R. C. Pybus of Vancouver who, in ordinary course, will succeed to the presidency next year in Victoria.

Nanaimo, also on Vancouver Island, plans to share next year's show, and all delegates were given literature on Nanaimo by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. (Ted) Hodson, Nanaimo delegates.

Winnipeg Man Heads Customs Association

OTTAWA (CP)—John Gaunt of Winnipeg Thursday was elected president of the Customs and Excise Officers' Association at the close of its annual convention. He succeeds Arthur Briggs of Toronto.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains held within a narrow price range in slow dealings on the Board of Trade today.

Major loss was in new crop wheat, down a cent at times on prospects for more moisture in the winter wheat belt. Soybeans and rye were slightly ahead at times but corn dipped on hedging pressure.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices today showed hesitation in moderately active trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Flax trade was active with export and shipping demand.

$333,450 Award In B.C. Mine Suit

U.S. Engineer Wins Huge Judgment Against Helicopter Explorations

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice A. E. Lord of the British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday awarded Wendell Dawson, civil engineer from Kirkland, Wash., a judgment for $333,450 against Helicopter Exploration Co. Ltd. of Vancouver.

Mr. Dawson alleged the company had agreed to pay him 10 per cent of the price of mineral claims which he would assist in locating in the Leduc River area of northern B.C.

He claimed 10 per cent of 750,000 shares which the company received from Granduc Mines Ltd. on a sale of the Leduc River property.

Mr. Justice Lord ruled he was entitled to recover damages for the value of the shares as of the date of the trial. This was $5.85 a share. But Mr. Dawson had disposed under option to the Granby Consolidated Mining Co. of 18,000 of his 75,000 shares. He received $36,000 under the option.

The damages which Mr. Justice Lord awarded were based on the balance of 57,000 shares at $5.85 a share.

Directors of the company are listed as: Karl J. Springer, Toronto; Sidney H. Robinson, Toronto; Frank C. Hewitt, Montreal; Leonard C. Smith, Montreal, and Austin C. Taylor, Vancouver.

The case was previously heard by the B.C. Supreme Court, the B.C. Appeal Court and the Supreme Court of Canada. Only in the Supreme Court of Canada had Mr. Dawson been successful prior to today. This court remitted the case to the B.C. Supreme Court to assess the damages.

Sikh to Spend Canadian Riches on Model Indian Village

CALGARY (CP) — A 72-year-old Sikh farmer who has struck it rich in real estate speculation plans to contribute all the money, $290,000, to his home village in India.

Harnam Singh Hari is giving the money to the village of Ranike in India's Punjab country to construct a school, hospital, library and animal clinic in a model village.

He bought land around Calgary for prices ranging from $50 to $75 an acre and sold it recently for $1,600 to $2,000 an acre, netting $290,000.

Unable to speak a word of English when he arrived in Vancouver in 1910, he worked at various jobs in B.C. before moving to the Calgary area.

He now works a 200 - acre ranch at Dewinton, 10 miles south of Calgary, where he plans to live after a visit to India. His small home in Glenmore is still without electricity, or plumbing and the windows bare of curtains.

"Maybe I don't look so good," he said, dressed in old clothes, "but I got good heart here."

STOCK COUP

Church Embarrassed At 'Killing'

LONDON (AP)—The Church of England found itself Thursday with an embarrassment of riches.

It made almost $500,000 in the kind of coup most investors can only dream of.

Sir Malcolm Eve, chairman of the church properties and finance commission, said it bought stock last summer in Trinidad Oil, expecting a yield of little more than 3 per cent.

Then the Texas Company bought out Trinidad, nearly doubling the stock's value. The church's profit was £160,000.

Eve called this "a most embarrassing thing" because the church might be suspected of speculating. Now, he said, the commission wants to invest the money in a good, reliable company producing a steady income.

CANUCKS SEEK GOALIE; MAY REPLACE MIKULAN

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League said Thursday they were making inquiries about the availability of goaltender Don Simmons of Eddie Shore's American League Springfield Indians.

Canuck general manager Art Chapman said Simmons was not playing with the Indians at the present time, and if he were available the Vancouver club would be willing to purchase him. The feelers being put out on the matter were the first indications that Chapman and Canuck owner Coley Hall were dissatisfied with the work of regular netminder Ray Mikulan so far this year.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

During the lately departed world series, one of baseball's most wrinkled acorns assumed the size of a beach-ball.

It was this tradition-bound, weather-beaten unwritten rule which says that while a no-hit game is in progress, no-one is to mention the fact.

There is no control on what the fans in the stands say, but in the dugouts, press box and radio and TV booths, lips are sealed with unbreakable wax as far as blabbing the fact that a pitcher has a no-no game going.

A reporter or an announcer who can spill salt without worrying, who will walk under a ladder on purpose just to step across the track of a black cat can become as superstitious as a Belgian Congo medicine man in the presence of a no-hitter.

The reasoning is this:

Supposing that a pitcher has failed to give up a hit and has two out in the eighth inning. Suppose further that an announcer defies tradition and tells his listeners, "Andy Arm is just four outs from a no-hitter."

Just as sure as rain on Sunday, the next batter is going to whale into a pitch and drive it into base-hit territory.

At least, that's the theory.

Wouldn't Dare Risk Hoodoo

There isn't a reporter or announcer in the world who is willing to take the chance of unloosing the hoodoo on some horseshoe-saving pitcher. The reason is that in the inner circles of baseball, people wouldn't say Andy Arm lost his no-hitter. They would say that mealy-mouthed announcer ruined Andy's no-hitter by unloosing the hob-goblins on the field to do their damage.

Thus it was that during Don Larsen's world series masterpiece, when he pitched the first perfect no-hitter in baseball history, you had to be on your toes to realize it while the game was in progress. You couldn't tell from your radio or TV set because not until the last out did they make a direct reference to a no-hitter.

The announcers in question had the biggest story in the history of baseball by the tail but they let it go in deference to tradition.

Actually, they deserve a lot of credit. While a goodly number of viewers and listeners who had been with the game all the way no doubt knew that Larsen was smooching with fame, the announcers could have added tremendous drama and color to their descriptions by making reference to the impending no-hitter and the mounting tension that engulfed the ball park.

The fact that they didn't proves one or both of two things. They were nice joes or guys forced by tradition to do less than a perfect job of describing the game. I wonder how the sponsor felt?

How We Saved Jehosie's Bid

I got to Athletic Park around the fifth inning of a ball game one night when little Jehosie Heard was pitching.

In the press box, I asked how many hits Jehosie had given up to that point.

Public address announcer Bill Walker looked at me frostily and said nothing. Official scorer Jim Tang cleared his throat and bit deeper into his cigar.

When I repeated the question, Jim slid the score-book over to me and I looked for myself. Heard was on a no-hitter, sure enough, and he held on to it through the rest of the game.

Bill and Jim hadn't said a word about the no-hitter.

But if they had, you can bet there would have been a fluttering of bats' wings, a bubbling from witches' cauldrons and Heard's no-hitter would have disappeared in a puff of purple smoke while thousands of pixies and gremlins celebrated their release.

RACING PLANS GO AHEAD

'Will Run Again' Says Swaps Owner

A staff of veterinarians said it would take a "few days" to decide whether the four-year-old chestnut will ever be able to compete on the turf again, although his co-owner said he was "going ahead" with racing plans for the million-dollar colt.

Swaps, his broken leg encased in a specially-designed cast, rested in a sling at his stall at Garden State Park. The sling keeps his hoof about two inches from the floor and the cast permits the bone to mend and minimizes possible recurrence of the bad bump which aggravated the injury last Sunday and put him in jeopardy.

Trainer Meshach Tenney maintained a news blackout concerning the fabulous colt, but co-owner John W. Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said in Columbus, O., that the thoroughbred would race again.

Galbreath said he visited the stall and found Swaps was "getting along fine," and added optimistically: "We are going ahead with plans to get him ready for racing."

Esks Could Nail Down Grid Crown

By The Canadian Press

If the ball bounces the right way for them, Edmonton Eskimos could wrap up their straight league title in the Western Interprovincial Union this weekend.

The Eskies, bothered throughout the season by slippery fingers but recently showing the form that has won them two successive Grey Cups, need only a victory over British Columbia Monday night to assure them of at least a first-place tie.

An Edmonton win coupled with a Saskatchewan Roughrider defeat would clinch the flag outright for the Green and Gold.

STILL HAVE CHANCE

The second-place Roughies, with 16 points, four less than Edmonton travel to Vancouver Saturday and visit the last-place Calgary Stampeders Monday. They can only take top place by winning their three remaining games and if Edmonton lose both theirs.

In a fourth weekend encounter, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, now tied with Saskatchewan but with one game less to play, need to defeat Calgary at home Saturday to keep alive their title hopes.

But much may depend on whether the Eskies have overcome an acute case of "fumbleitis," with which they have been plagued in their last five games.

TORONTO DISSENTION?

In the Big Four, Toronto Argonauts, shaken by apparent internal dissension, play the first of a vitally important two-game series against Ottawa Rough Riders in Ottawa Saturday.

The full effect on player morale of backfield coach Bill Earley's sudden firing Thursday is not known, but Argos badly need wins against the third-place Rough Riders if they expect to gain the last playoff spot.

In Montreal the Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, with nothing but Montreal's home game winning streak at stake, play the first of their two-game series.

Alouettes, all but assured of first place, will be trying to win their 21st game at home, breaking a 20-game record held jointly with Edmonton Eskimos.

The Lions, no longer in the playoff race, lost lineman Steve Palmer last Saturday when he was injured while playing against the Blue Bombers. He has returned to UCLA to finish a science degree.

Coach Clem Crowe, asked if the Lions planned to do anything different Saturday, replied:

"Yeah, win."

Roads 'In' But Venture Can Get Tie

HMCS Venture gets a chance Saturday to pull into a first-place tie with Royal Roads in the Victoria Junior Canadian Football League race.

Currently two points back of the league leaders, Venture clashes with third-place Mayo Timbermen at Macdonald Park at 2 p.m.

However, Royal Roads, already named to represent Victoria in the provincial final, can make sure of the top position by chalking up its fourth successive victory against winless Oak Bay at Colville Road Sunday.

Royal Roads will meet either Vancouver Meralomas or Vancouver Blue Bombers in a sudden-death B.C. final in Victoria, October 27.

Meralomas and Blue Bombers clash for the mainland title Saturday. The Bombers reached the final round with a 7-0 triumph over North Shore Cougars, while the Meralomas walloped CYO Red Raiders, 33-3, in the other semi-final playoff last Saturday.

PHILADELPHIA—Jimmy Robinson, 161, Philadelphia, stopped Frank (Kid) Anslem, 154, Philadelphia (6).

Vampires Ready For Vital Clash

Mayo Vampires, battling to stay in the Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football League playoff picture, will send two new players out against Navy in their "now or never" tussle at Royal Athletic Park tonight.

Needing a victory over the second-place Sailors to retain their slim chance of getting into the two-team playoff, Vampires will have defensive flanker Ed "Tiger" Kozak and end Al Luckaluk in action for the first time this season.

Coach Ray Mitchell said today that rugged Gordie Gordienko, who missed one game because of an eye injury, will be back in the Vamps' line tonight and the club will be near peak strength.

Things aren't quite as rosy for Frank Hindle's Sailors, who can clinch a playoff berth against Oak Bay Drakes with a win or a tie tonight.

TWO PLAYERS OUT

Two of the top Navy players, fullback Bob Gooderham and end Ron Young are hobbled with injuries and expected to watch from the sidelines tonight. However, Hindle will have more strength in his line as big Walt King makes his first start since being injured in the season's opening game.

If the Tars can come up with a victory, it will solve some problems for league officials, who hope to start the two-game, total-point series for the Victoria championship next Saturday.

Orginally the league schedule was due to run until Nov. 2 but officials, needing to declare a champion in time for the Western Canada playoff Nov. 10, hope to curtail the league schedule.

Vampires still have two games left after tonight and can prolong things by upsetting the Sailors. However, if they lose, the Vamps have agreed to withdraw from their remaining tussles in order to allow Drakes and Navy to get the local playdown under way next Saturday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Allen Stanley, Boston Bruins defenceman, will have to stay in St. Clare's Hospital for four days because of a deep cut in his left leg suffered during Wednesday night's game between the Bruins and New York Rangers.

Thirty stitches were required to close the three-inch gash made by Lou Fontinato's skate when the players collided during the first period.

Detroit Peeps In As Leafs Changing

Howe Scores Tying Goal; Hawks Rally

Montreal 1, Chicago 1
Detroit 3, Toronto 3

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs were caught changing Thursday night and, as usual, it was embarrassing.

The peeping-tom Detroit Red Wings took that moment to score a goal that gave them a 3-3 tie with Leafs and preserved their unbeaten streak in the National Hockey League.

Only 40 seconds remained in the game when Leafs, seemingly assured of a 3-2 win, changed forward lines while play was in progress. Detroit right winger Gordie Howe picked up a pass from defenceman Red Kelly and scored a long blast from the blueline.

In the only other game, the last-place Chicago Black Hawks drove from behind in the third period to gain a 1-1 deadlock against Montreal Canadiens.

At Detroit, 11,329 customers were on the verge of seeing Wings drop their first game of the 1956-57 campaign. Howe's great shot left them unbeaten in four games. They lead the league race with seven victories and a tie.

It was the second time Leafs had battled to a draw this year. They now are in a second-place tie with New York Rangers. One point back are Boston Bruins and Canadiens.

LEAFS BEHIND TWICE

Leafs had come from behind twice to tie the score and then went ahead 3-2 midway through the final period on Ron Stewart's breakaway goal while Toronto was shorthanded.

Larry Hillman and Marcel Pronovost were the other Detroit scorers. Stewart, Gerry James and Dick Duff were the Leaf marksmen.

Duff and goaltender Ed Chadwick were the only Leafs on the ice when the Wings made their last-minute attack.

A turnout of 13,557 was on hand at Montreal. The Hawks tied things up at 13.45 of the final period when Glen Skov's sharp deflection beat netminder Jacques Plante.

A goal by Dickie Moore of Canadiens at 13.13 of the second period injected some life into what up to then had been a drab spectacle and both teams warmed up to faster action as the game progressed.

PRODUCTION LINE PRODUCES

Detroit Red Wings moved sophomore centre Norm Ullman up to their top forward line with Ted Lindsay (left) and Gordie Howe (right) this season and the "production line" had a hand in all three goals as the Wings battled to a 3-3 tie with Toronto Thursday night. Out in front of the National Hockey League chase after three successive victories, the Wings escaped their first defeat when Howe drilled his first goal of the season in the final minute. Lindsay made the pass for Wings' first goal and teamed with Ullman to make the play for the second Detroit tally.

Giambra 14-5 Choice Over 'Reborn' Turner

NEW YORK (UP) — Handsome Joey Giambra, sparkling middleweight contender of Buffalo, N.Y., is favored at 14-5 to beat "reborn" Gil Turner of Philadelphia tonight when boxing returns to Madison Square Garden after a six-week absence.

Black-haired Giambra, a lithe, fast counter-puncher, seeks his fifth straight victory and a higher rating among contenders than his present number 10. Approaching his peak at 25, he is eager to shoot for the title.

Twenty-six-year-old Gil Turner, former welterweight challenger and formerly high ranking middleweight aspirant, seeks to break his losing streak at three straight. Close friends say he may do it because he's been "reborn" by patching up troubles with his wife.

Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson, with whom Turner did some sparring at Greenwood Lake, N.Y., said today, "Gil is like a new man. He's the best I've seen him in two years."

Threat of a divorce was responsible for Turner's winning but one of his four bouts this year, friends say. He had no heart for training or fighting. But he's been a happy warrior grooming for tonight's encounter, and his wife will be at the ringside rooting for him.

SENTIMENT DETERRING FACTOR . . . . . AND IKE WOULDN'T LIKE IT

Senator Franchise Shift Unlikely

By ERNEST BARCELLA
UP Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Washington American League baseball club will stay here for at least another year.

All available evidence indicates this will be the ultimate decision of the club's board of directors. This sudden switch developed today as the directors gathered to decide the fate of Washington's 56-year-old charter franchise in the American League.

Their decision—whether to keep the franchise here or transfer it to Louisville, Los Angeles, Minneapolis or San Francisco—was not expected to come today; possibly not for another week.

When it does come it will be made by five men. But it can be stated that, in the final analysis, the memory of a sixth—the late Clark Griffith, baseball's beloved "Old Fox"—will be the determining factor.

A surge of sentimentality is swinging the decision in favor of Washington and against the lure of the lucrative Golden West. Here are the salient sentimental facts:

Griffith was Washington's "Mr. Baseball" for 44 years until his death at the age of 85 last Oct. 27. He also was baseball's good will ambassador to the White House, the man who in 1912 induced William Howard Taft and every president thereafter to throw out the ceremonial first ball of the season. And he filled an even greater, if lesser known, role—he was "father" to six orphaned nephews and nieces to whom baseball has been kind over the years.

They are Calvin Griffith, who succeeded his uncle as president of the club; Thelma Griffith, who married former pitcher Joe Haynes, now vice-president of the club; Mildred Robertson, who became Mrs. Joe Cronin, wife of the Boston Red Sox vice-president and general manager; Sherry Robertson, former major leaguer and now an executive of the Washington club, and Billy and Jimmy Robertson, also associated with the club.

They are understood to feel that the good fortune which came to them over the years was made possible only by Clark Griffith and his association wth baseball—baseball in Washington. Hence, they feel obligated primarily to Washington.

The Griffith family has two votes on the five-man board—young Griffith and Haynes. They will be cast with deference to Mrs. Griffiths' wishes. The family also presumably controls two other board votes. But these would not be needed to keep the franchise here because the fifth board member—treasurer H. Gabriel Murphy—insists that the club remain in Washington and threatens suits in every court in the land to block a transfer.

Other facts influencing the decision in favor of keeping the team here:

1. Club officials expect President Eisenhower to intervene on behalf of Washington when he returns from his western campaign tour. "And," one official said, "you can't go contrary to the president of the United States." Mr. Eisenhower said recently he is "ag'in" moving the team out of Washington.

2. More than a score of Washington leaders appealed to Calvin Griffith to keep the club here. They pledged to sell 3,000 tickets to every home game next year and to push season ticket sales. Some also planned to discuss with Mr. Eisenhower construction of a new municipally-owned stadium.

3. Only Louisville has made what club officials call a "concrete" offer, although San Francisco has made a "confirmed" offer. Los Angeles has made the "most lucrative" one, but it has not been "firmed up." A Minneapolis group telephoned an offer last night.

4. Club officials admit they have not been able to work out an American League schedule to include a west coast team unless all teams fly. And, they said, "a few clubs won't fly."

5. Time is running out. Any franchise transfer would require approval of six of the eight league club owners by Oct. 31. The chances are against it.

OUTDOOR REPORT

Deer hunters and duck hunters have been chuckling quietly while watching the wet stuff pour out of the skies this week, but to anglers the unsettled weather has been another sure sign that their season's sport is fast coming to a close.

Weekend prospects for salmon fishermen operating close to Victoria are none too bright. From most boathouses come reports of lots of grilse, a few jack springs and only an occasional coho.

Cowichan Bay is still a fair bet for coho. Some are being taken off William Head and Otter Point and a few have been showing off Esquimalt Harbor. There is still a chance that more silvers will show up, possibly at Deep Cove, but the chanee gets slimmer each day and anglers will soon have to take their luck with winter springs and grilse.

Among those who managed to get out during breaks in the weather this week were R. A. Benson, who took an 11-pound spring off Oak Bay on a small Bottoms-Up spoon, and Fred Fendley, who used Tom Mack spoons to hook a pair of five-pound jack springs and enough grilse to make up a limit at Goldstream.

Fishermen spinning with small spoons had a couple of weeks of interesting sport with jack springs in the portion of the Cowichan River below Skutz Falls. The jacks have apparently returned to the salt chuck and a few are being boated in Cowichan Bay. Now the spinners are pulling a few coho out of the lower reaches of the river, and losing a good amount of tackle on the ones they can't hold.

While salmon catches have been dwindling, the cooler weather has brightened the picture for trout fishermen.

Trolling and spinning have produced some good catches at Cowichan, Kemp, Shawnigan, Dougan's and Prospect Lakes, and fly casters, using mostly orange or yellow-bodied flies, have been scoring well in the latter three lakes.

From the headwaters of the Cowichan River have come a few reports of big trout hooked on wet flies rolled along the bottom.

Earlier this month, Bob Wright and Bob Evans made their annual trip to Main Lake on Quadra Island and found the trout as co-operative as ever. Combining their fishing with a bit of hunting, they took near-limits on spinning tackle during both days of their stay.

Action was slow until they added an extra ring in front of the hooks on a small candlefish spoon and inserted a small piece of red wool. The trout, which weighed up to three pounds, went after the doctored lure like bears after honey.

Stopping at the Oyster River for a try at coho starting upriver on their spawning run, Evans and Wright were casting near the highway bridge. Evans, after tying on a larger candlefish, put a few too many ergs into his cast and the spoon sailed above the bridge, dropping just in time to make contact with a motorcyclist.

The reel sang for a brief instant before the nylon parted and the spoon continued on its motorcycle ride. Wright is still wondering what the rider's deductions were when he eventually discovered the candlefish hooked in his clothing or on his machine.

Then there was Jack Patrick, who decided the water was too choppy to go fishing and took a walk along the beach at Oak Bay. Jack spotted a salmon, apparently spent from a battle to break away from a fisherman, swimming in shallow water. He waited his chance, then chipped out a seven-pound coho with, of all things, a left-handed golf club.

Nashua in Last Race---All Alone

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Nashua streaked down the stretch for the last time Thursday at Keeneland with jockey Eddie Arcaro clucking encouragement in his ear.

Some 10,000 fans cheered and shouted "come on, come on" as he turned on his famed speed although there was no competition and no money at stake.

For Nashua was undisputed king in this horse-loving blue grass country in his final public appearance — officially proclaimed "Nashua Day" by Lexington's mayor.

The big bay son of Nasrullah-Segula will be taken Saturday to nearby Spendthrift Farm to retire to stud duties.

TO STUD

He shared the spotlight Thursday only with Arcaro, trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and members of the syndicate which bought him nearly a year ago for a record $1,251,200 from the estate of the late William Woodward Jr.

After receiving awards on behalf of Nashua, Leslie Combs II, who heads the syndicate, thanked Keeneland officials "for the honors you have bestowed upon one of the greatest race horses of our time."

Nashua's racing days ended last Saturday at Belmont Park as he won the Jockey Club Gold Cup in American record time.

'HILL' HEROES

Marconi, Columbus And Yogi

ST. LOUIS (UP)—The champion New York Yankees' star world series catcher was honored by his friends on "The Hill" here today as "one of the three best-known Italians in the world—Columbus, Marconi and Yogi Berra."

Berra was feted by the Professional and Businessmen's Club of The Hill, the Italian section from which he emerged as one of baseball's great backstops.

Fred Giacoma, vice-president of the club, presented Berra with a scroll and made him an honorary member. The Italians and baseball notables praised his contributions to the game and his heroics in the 1956 world series.

Minneapolis Seeks Senator Franchise

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—A Minneapolis major league baseball committee said Thursday it will file an offer with Washington Senators directors Friday to move the Washington American League franchise to Minneapolis.

Charles Johnson, executive sports editor of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune and a leader in the movement to get a major league club into the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, said the offer will be made at a meeting of Washington directors.

Willie Makes Track History

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Willie Shoemaker Thursday became the first jockey in American thoroughbred racing history to earn $2,000,000 in purse money in one year.

Shoemaker, in a close battle with Willie Hartack for United States riding honors, picked up the winner's share of $3,425 at Garden State Park Thursday by riding Ada L. Rice's Beautillion to victory in the sixth race, boosting his 1956 purse winnings to $2,001,165.

EARLEY MADE SCAPEGOAT?

Evicted Coach Snaps at Argos

TORONTO (BUP) — Ex-Argonaut back coach Bill Earley says that since the Toronto Football Club fired him Wednesday night, he has received calls from all over the United States.

However, he said last night "I'll just sit tight for a while and I won't do anything."

Earley, who was dismissed for allegedly undermining the authority of coach Bill Swiacki, said his summary sacking probably will result in U.S. indignation over Canadian football tactics.

"I'm afraid this isn't going to make Canadian football more popular," he said. "You can't find a player who will say I've tried to undermine Bill (Swiacki) at any time. I went along with him all the way even though I didn't always agree."

Swiacki said he had not decided how Earley's coaching duties would be handled.

Earley's sudden dismissal was criticized by Globe and Mail sports editor Jim Vipond who wrote in his column this morning. "Obviously Earley has been made the scrapegoat in an embarrassing situation. He was apparently dismissed without a chance to defend himself in this so-called democratic country of ours because a couple of dissatisfied players (are there any satisfied men on the roster?) used him as a sounding-off board."

SCHOOL GALA GOES TONIGHT

Contestants from seven schools will be seeking honors in the 31st annual Greater Victoria senior schools' swimming gala at the Crystal Garden tonight.

Board Rejects Track Protest

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The California Horse Racing Board has denied a protest over the disqualification of Prince Khaled from victory in the Del Mar Racetrack Futurity Sept. 8.

The board, after hearing testimony ruled that it was convinced that Prince Khaled committed a foul. The thoroughbred's owner, Gen. W. W. Kratz, filed a protest after the colt was disqualified for interfering with Mr. Sam S. in the six-furlong race.

Longden testified at the hearing that Prince Khaled cut over so sharply on his mount that Mr. Sam S. hit the rail near the three-furlong marker. Mr. Sam S. finished third in the race.

10-Shilling Scheme Pays Off in Pounds

NEWPORT, Monmouthshire (CP)—English Third Division soccer clubs are bending an attractive ear to the merry clicking of turnstiles at Newport County's Somerton Park.

For in a year when most of the division's 48 clubs are reporting falling attendance, Newport County is drawing more than 10,000 fans a game for the first time in more than two years.

Club officials credit their success to a bold player-incentive scheme under which each player is paid an extra 10 shillings for every 1,000 fans above 10,000 at home games. The scheme, technically illegal under league rules, also is paying off on the field.

Twice this season attendance has topped the 12,000 mark with a resulting £1 bonus to players on each occasion. And home gates are averaging more than 11,000 a game, against 8,000 last season and the year before. Equally important, the players' drive to produce crowd-pleasing soccer has lifted the club into contention for first place in the standings, a marked improvement over last season when Newport County finished a lowly 18th in the division's 24-team southern section. The Football League, governing body of England's professional clubs, says:

"We shall not interfere unless these 10-shilling payments begin amounting to a sum per player in excess of the £15 maximum wage."

Saturday Deadline For Hoop Entries

Teams planning to campaign in the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League this season have only until Saturday night to submit entries.

Entries may be made to secretary Mrs. Margaret Butler at Sooke.

Tokyo Giants Bump Brooks

TOKYO (AP)—Aided by the 16-strikeout pitching of two ace hurlers, Tokyo Yomiuri Giants defeated Brooklyn Dodgers 5-4 today in the opener of Brooklyn's 20-game Japan exhibition baseball tour.

Takumi Otomo, a submarine pitcher who beat New York Giants here two years ago, struck out Roy Campanella, Don Demeter and Gino Cimoli in order in the top of the ninth for the victory.

Otomo whiffed 10 Dodgers in all after coming in the fourth. His predecessor, Sho Horiuchi, who was tagged for home runs by Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges, fanned six.

ARCTIC SURVIVORS' STORY

'We Were Never Lost'

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. — "We knew where we were—even if nobody else did. We weren't lost."

This is how Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Hunter, Nanaimo fisheries scientists missing for 19 days when two planes were forced down in Canada's sub-Arctic, summed up their nightmare after reaching Yellowknife.

EDMONTON-BOUND

The survivors are scheduled to reach Edmonton today.

Third member of the party is George Gonzales, a pilot from Argentine. Warner is resting at Rayrock property of the Yellowknife Mines Ltd. He'll probably go to Yellowknife today.

It was revealed today Warner and Gonzales tossed a coin to choose who would venture into the bleak unknown to find help.

The Hunters Thursday spoke to Gerry's parents in Edmonton by amateur radio. Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter had gone to Edmonton two weeks ago from New Westminster to be closer to the search centre.

Though all were a little "mikeshy," a bit of humor crept into the radio conversation after assurances that all were well.

CAUGHT 40 FISH

"I'm very proficient at cooking fish, we caught 40 of them," said Mary.

She said they discovered that their rescue was on the seventh-month anniversary of their marriage, only after they reached Yellowknife.

Gerry said they'd be "glad to get out for a while," before he returned to his northern fisheries research. Pilot Gonzales wanted to go back.

"We've got to get the planes out," he said.

They explained that when the planes landed, Warner still had fuel for half an hour and they had used the fuel to take bearing and plot a way out. Gonzales' plane was out of gas.

The three were taken to Yellowknife hospital where Hunter, who has a hand infection, received medical attention. All were in good spirits and looking forward to hot baths and food.

George Gonzales said in an interview that he is unable to explain how the two lost planes got so far off course. He said the party heard planes several times during their isolation but were unable to see the high-flying craft which he beliveed were bound for DEW line sites.

Food dropped to them on the lake ice was a welcome change from the half-fish they allowed themselves daily, caught with a net and eaten without salt.

Purpose of the discussion will be to "try to evaluate what we can do to be better parents in this fast-changing world." PTA program chairman Harley Cherchas will act as moderator. A question period will follow.

Raw Milk Producers Ask Change in Rules

Island Dairymen Protest Today To Agriculture Minister Chetwynd

Raw milk dairy farmers on Vancouver Island are asking the provincial government to exempt them from the new equalization of milk production standards.

"We want exemption because we are operating on a more expensive standard than the fluid milk farmers," A. C. Lambrick, chairman of the producer-vendors' section of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association, said today.

Mr. Lambrick was leading a delegation to the legislative buildings this afternoon to ask Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd for exemption.

"These new standards mean that approved raw milk farmers must produce milk with a lower bacteria count and with other strict standards exceeding those for approved fluid milk farmers, and this is more costly.

"They have put us all together under the new formula. Some farmers have had to pay $50 more a month as a result and they may have to pay much more yet."

Earlier this week, Island dairy farmers said the new price-fixing formula may mean a monthly loss of more than $10,000 to them. They and mainland farmers are meeting next week to discuss the matter.

Meanwhile, the price of a quart of milk has already been boosted by two cents in some centres including Alberni, and in the Fraser Valley.

In Greater Victoria prices are unchanged.

"We have not considered raising prices as yet," a leading Victoria milk distributor said today.

SAVED FROM SEA

The Norwegian Sea Rescue Society, using sturdy smacks and smaller boats, has saved 3,808 lives in 65 years.

'We Realized We Were Stupid' Says Accused in Cemetery Raid

ALBERNI (CP)—One of four persons charged with offering indignity to a dead human body in an after-dark raid on a cemetery here said they talked later about "how stupid we were."

David Windsor Ferguson, 19, now awaiting trial on the charge, testified at preliminary hearing of the charge against Jean Gibson, 17, youngest of four.

The girl was committed for trial by judge without jury after her application for re-transfer to juvenile court was turned down. Bail was set at $250.

Charges were laid against Ferguson, the Gibson girl, William Harold Nelson, 18, and Alva Doreen Lochner, 19, after the body of an elderly man was removed from a grave Sept. 23.

Nelson has been sentenced to two years less a day definite and two years less a day indefinite, while the Lochner girl is awaiting trial by judge.

FOOTPRINTS

Constable R. G. Foreman of the RCMP testified that footprints around the open grave and on top of the casket in the grave were within three-eighths of an inch in length of the shoes worn now by the Gibson girl. He said the shoes which made the prints had not been located.

Const. Foreman said the shoes worn by the Lochner girl when she was arrested measured 10 inches in length, while those worn by Jean Gibson were 9¾ inches in length. The shoes that made the prints were nine inches long.

Nelson, who previously said he did not recall one of the girls being in the grave, said Thursday he recalled that a girl was in the excavation but he could not recall which one.

Defence counsel suggested that subsequent conversation had provided an association of ideas.

Ferguson replied to many of the questions put to him with "I don't know. I don't remember."

Island To Get Big Share Of Power Commission Taxes

Vancouver Island will receive close to half of the payments made by the B.C. Power Commission to cities and municipalities in the province in lieu of taxes on the commission's buildings and installations.

They are 12.5 per cent above those of a year ago.

Of the $134,382 to be distributed, island areas will receive $66,140, with Nanaimo getting the biggest single sum of $16,828. Port Alberni will be in second place with $15,623.

Other allotments are as follows: Alberni, $3,198; Alert Bay, $1,248; Campbell River, $3,776; Comox, $1,048; Courtenay, $4,576; Cumberland, $898; Duncan, $4,489; Ladysmith, $2,047; Lake Cowichan, $1,878; North Cowichan, $7,787; Parksville, $1,337; and Qualicum, $1,293.

Alberni Conservatives To Talk Leadership

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Members of the Comox-Alberni Federal Progressive Conservative Association will decide at a general meeting next Thursday who they will support as national leader of the party.

Guest speaker will be Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

RAF's Bader 'The Greatest' Says Sooke Man Who Knew Him

BY AB KENT

Opening of the film "Reach For the Sky" in Victoria today holds special interest for a Sooke High School eacher, ex-Royal Air Force flight lieutenant Joe Jupp.

As one of two other staff officers at the RAF's Eastern Sector Fighter Command headquarters at North Weald, Eng., at the end of the Second World War, F/L Jupp was a right-hand man to commanding officer G-C Douglas Bader, legless fighter pilot hero of the Battle of Britain whose story is told in the film.

A close associate of Bader in the six months they served together until early in 1946, F/L Jupp grew to know well the dynamic commander who achieved "the impossible"—rejoined the RAF as a Hurricane fighter pilot and squadron commander after losing both legs in a plane crash.

Having read the book upon which "Reach For the Sky" is based, F/L Jupp said, "He's certainly the man he's depicted to be and he's the greatest.

"He knew what he wanted to do and he went ahead and did it.

"It's true he rather fancied himself," the ex-officer said, but he could excuse this because Bader kept only the end result in view ". . . and he did it."

For instance, there was the time at North Weald when Jupp's wife was having a baby at a hospital 250 miles from the air station. The officer wanted to be with her as much as possible and requested a plane to fly to her side.

Bader told him he could do what he liked and gave Jupp his Spitfire for the purpose, knowing that the sooner the accouchement was over the sooner Jupp would be back at the station.

Holds Record for Skimming Buckingham Palace

Part of his work was to be responsible for all navigation for the thousands of fighter planes which participated in the victory review fly-past of the RAF's fighter command in May, 1946.

In this connection, F/L Jupp claims to be the pilot to fly lower than anyone over Buckingham Palace.

While laying out the vast navigational plan involving split-second timing for "V" after "V" of aircraft over London, Jupp was tracked by radar in experimental passes over the palace.

There was a strict regulation forbidding planes from flying under several thousand feet in the metropolitan area adjoining Buckingham Palace, but in order to determine the lowest altitude at which planes could be followed on radar screens, Jupp circled lower and lower to less than 500 feet.

"I got a good look at things that day," he recalls.

His navigation was used in ensuing fly-pasts over London for VE Day and Battle of Britain commemoration long after he retired from the air force.

Teacher Jupp maintains a link with flying by acting as a fighter controller officer with 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, RCAF (Aux.), which will attend the film showing at the Odeon Theatre Monday night.

The squadron has decorated the Odeon lobby with a display of RCAF color photos and flags and will demonstrate operation of a fighter control table to the public each evening before Monday between 7.30 and 9.30.

Soviet Ballet Talks Of U.S. Appearance

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet director, Mikhail Chulaki, announced Thursday there have been "unofficial" discussions about taking the Russian dancers to the United States.

At a press conference in Covent Garden's Royal Opera House here, Chulaki said a trip to the United States "is only an idea—this question has been raised in an unofficial way so far only between theatre people."

The director confirmed that the company will perform at the Paris Opera soon, with only technical details and a date still to be settled.

The Bolshoi dancers opened here Oct. 3—the company's first performance in the West in its 200-year history. When the season closes at Covent Garden, the ballet will perform on three nights—Oct. 31, Nov. 1 and 2—at a theatre in Croydon, a London suburb.

Wednesday night, fans started lining up at Croydon for tickets, although the box office did not open until this morning.

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS: Oscar-winner Ernest Borgnine says he's not bitter in his lawsuit to break his contract with Hecht-Lancaster. "Marty" claims he was paid only $1,500 out of the $75,000 Hecht-Lancaster received for his loan-out to star in "The Best Things in Life Are Free." Now it's freedom Borgnine is after, although he admitted to me:

"They gave me my chance to win an Oscar and I'm not bitter. But I don't like people making deals behind by back."

Then he adds: "I guess I was a rube when I came to Hollywood because I put my trust in other people."

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD: Jayne Mansfield ankled to Hollywood a year and a half ago, when Warner Bros. passed up a chance to film "The Revolt of Mamie Stover." Jayne had been promised the role. Reason for Jayne's switch from yellow to platinum blonde: the studio's hopes that she'll ring box office bells as another Jean Harlow.

Elvis Presley Wins Decision In Fist Flurry

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Teenage idol Elvis Presley engaged in a fast fistfight with a service station manager Thursday, leaving the latter with a black eye that "looked like a travelling bag."

Presley, manager Ed Hopper, 42, and a late comer to the fight, Aubrey Brown, 21, all were charged with assault and battery and disorderly conduct. They were released on bail of $52 each.

Witnesses said the trouble started when Presley, home from his rock 'n' roll tours, stopped at the station in his sleek, white automobile and asked Hopper to check the gas tank for leaks.

A crowd, drawn by the side-burned singer and the $10,000 car, began to gather. Traffic was blocked. Hopper finally asked Presley to take himself off so the station could get back to normal operation.

A witness, Harvey Huff, told police that Presley, seated in the car signing autographs, agreed to move on but delayed to oblige pressing fans. Huff said Hopper then slapped Presley on the back of the head and said:

"I said move on."

Youth Wanted Here Sentenced in U.S.

Sought in Knife-Throwing Spree, Curran Jailed One to 15 Years

A 19-year-old Victoria youth, sought by Saanich police for a knife-throwing episode in a Burnside Road home two weeks ago and subsequently arrested in a stolen car in California, has been sentenced in the U.S. for burglary.

Saanich deputy police chief Bert Pearson said today he had been notified through the RCMP that Ronald Curran, 69 Menzies, had been sentenced in Eli, Nevada, to one to 15 years in prison for first-degree burglary.

The same sentence was received by two other youths, one of them a deserter from the Gordon Head army camp, who were picked up with Curran and two juvenile girls from Victoria in Bishop, Calif.

The missing soldier was identified as Ted Stevens and the third youth only as White, who it is believed may have come originally from Victoria.

ADMITTED GUILT

The trio was transferred by U.S. authorities from Bishop to Eli, Nevada, where they pleaded guilty to the burglary charge. Details of the case were not known.

The two girls, previously described as "incorrigibles," will be returned to the border where they will be picked up by Canadian officials.

The group was stopped by police in Bishop driving a car with Manitoba licence plates. It is believed the car was previously stolen by someone else in Quebec.

Curran, with a previous local criminal record, was wanted in connection with an incident in a Burnside Avenue home when a group of four youths hurled knives into doors and woodwork.

Two of the youths have been arrested and sentenced after pleading guilty.

SENTENCED

Brian Tennyson, 18, 1575 Clawthorpe, was sentenced in Saanich court Thursday to three months definite and six months indeterminate in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla. He was given the same sentence, concurrent, for stealing a radio from the house.

Garith Clouston, 18, 2247 McCoy, was given a six-months' suspended sentence for his part in the incident.

Beer Glass Reduction Protested

British Columbia government officials and Victoria hotel owners generally are opposed to cutting the amount of beer in a 10-cent glass, as recommended by the B.C. Hotels Association at its convention in Vancouver.

And many customers say they will "cut out" beer altogether if they get any less.

"As it is the beer they serve doesn't come anywhere near the top of the glass," a Victoria truck driver said. "If they make it any smaller it won't be worth buying."

A government spokesman said he believed the government would oppose any such reduction and would be unlikely to approve any hike in the price unless the size of the glass were increased.

NO NEED

Two Victoria hotel owners said they saw "no need" for any reduction in the amount of beer served under present conditions.

"I cannot see why there should be any change," said James Neely, proprietor of the Douglas Hotel. Another hotel owner who did not wish to be named, said he believed any further reduction would drive customers away.

"Unless costs go up a lot more I do not think we need reduce the present measure," he said. "We get enough complaints as it is."

Art Gallery Given $2,000 by Koerners

The Art Gallery of Greater Victoria has received word from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation of Vancouver it has been awarded a grant of $2,000 to be applied to three educational projects over the next 12 months.

The first of these will be a lecture and art workshop program in which a number of artists and lecturers will be invited to give talks and short courses at the gallery in the fields of both the arts and the crafts.

An art slide collection also will be formed covering all aspects of world art, architecture, sculpture, and the so-called minor arts. This collection will be used in the gallery's regular lecture programs and also will be offered for the use of art teachers in the Greater Victoria schools.

The third project will be devoted to the organization and development of the Children's Gallery.

Art Gallery officials, who regard the educational side of the gallery's work as being of key importance in its contributions to the city, are gratified at the prospect of the substantial expansion of these services the grant will make possible.

"We feel fortunate," said Curator Colin Graham, "in benefiting to such an extent from the vision and generosity which led Mr. and Mrs. Koerner to create their remarkable foundation, the effects of whose contributions soon will be very apparent in the cultural life of the province."

To Attend Parley

Carpenters' union international representative for Vancouver Island, Victor Midgley will attend the union's 75th anniversary conference in Washington, D.C., Oct. 23. He leaves Victoria Saturday.

BETWEEN TIMES
By
MONTE ROBERTS

I see where a gentleman from Montreal was in town yesterday, looking for writers.

In fact, the gentleman said he was looking for the best writers in Canada.

The reason he was looking for the best writers is, he intends to start a magazine.

And this magazine, according to the gentleman from Montreal, is to be slanted for a "sophisticated" audience.

Well, can you imagine that!

A gentleman in town from Montreal, looking for writers for a sophisticated audience, and he didn't even look me up.

I am the best writer I know, for a sophisticated audience, and I can prove it.

I can prove it by page 1,946 of the Shorter Oxford English dictionary:

SOPHISTICATED: 1. Mixed with some foreign substance; adulterated; not pure or genuine. 2. Altered from, deprived of, primitive simplicity or naturalness. 3. Falsified in a greater or less degree.

With an audience like that, and writing like mine, how could the gentleman from Montreal miss?

He and I should get along well for another reason. I, too, often use words the meaning of which I don't clearly understand.

Sudden thought: One reason some women don't keep up with the Joneses is, they are too busy trying to keep up with the dishes.

Somebody on this paper missed a bet yesterday.

Under the picture of the cats, which are being cared for by a kind-hearted lady prior to their adoption by other kind-hearted ladies, should have been this caption:

If you'd like a fine feline for your home, telephone 4-9692. Ask for Kitty. (If a dog answers, hang up.)

CANADA'S FIRST WOMAN SENATOR, Hon. Cairine Reay Wilson is in Victoria until Monday visiting daughters, Mrs. Alan Gill, Pedder Bay, and Mrs. J. R. Davies, Royal Roads. She is accompanied by daughter Cairine. She was called to the senate in 1930. Her father, Hon. Robert Mackay was a senator and her husband, Norman F. Wilson, a member of Parliament.

Holiday For Most On Nov. 12

Because Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, falls on a Sunday this year, the next day, Monday, will be a provincial holiday.

City businesses and stores will be closed, along with provincial government offices. Banks have not yet received directives whether they will be open or shut. It is likely federal government offices will be open.

Victoria Remembrance Day services will be held at the Cenotaph at 11 a.m., Nov. 11.

Elsewhere in Canada it is a matter of "local option" whether or not services be held in the morning or afternoon. Afternoon commemoration was suggested by the Canadian Legion in Ottawa so as not to conflict with morning church services that date.

In 1915 Remembrance Day fell on a Sunday, in 1945 and in 1951.

In addition to services and a parade in Victoria, details to be worked out later, there will also be services at Oak Bay, Langford, Sooke, Sidney and Esquimalt. There will be special services at St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Poppy Day will be Saturday, Nov. 10.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city court today:

Lindley K. Botterill, 3356 Oaks, $35 for careless driving when he hit the rear of another car on Johnson Street extension after it had pulled over to the side to pick up a pedestrian, Oct. 3.

Everett Strom, 551 Manchester, a total of $75 for driving while his licence was suspended and careless driving as the result of a collision on Rock Bay.

William Richard Webb, $25, speeding.

Harvey Moran, 1219 North Park, $10 for failing to produce a driver's licence and $10 for failing to have a proper muffler on his motorcycle.

Logger Fired At Twice, Says Lawyer

Two shots were fired by 58-year-old Frank Joseph Miller at a Jordan River logger working on a boom, Crown prosecutor A. deB. McPhillips told a 12-man jury in Criminal Assize Court today.

Miller, a bridgeman, is standing trial on a charge of discharging a firearm with intent to wound Douglas Carl Slater, an employee of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber Co., at Jordan River on May 18.

In opening the case against the accused, Mr. McPhillips said the Crown alleged that Miller first approached Slater in the company's boom shack and tried to strike him with his fist.

Slater, the lawyer said, got away, but Miller followed him and then attempted to strike him with a piece of lumber with a nail or spike attached.

The Crown counsel said that evidence would be submitted to show that when this attack failed, Miller got into his car and drove to his home and got his shotgun.

"He came out with a shotgun and proceeded to fire at Slater," said Mr. McPhillips. "Then he reloaded and fired again."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—When did Croesus live? He is usually referred to as one of the richest of men?—O.M.

A.—His life story is given in brief by the Encyclopaedia Britannica as follows: "Croesus, the last king of Lydia, of the Mermad dynasty (560-546 B.C.), succeeded his father Alyattes after a war with his half-brother. He completed the conquest of Ionia by capturing Ephesus, Miletus and other places, but lack of sea power forced him to give up his project of subduing the islands, whom he enlisted as allies. He also allied himself with Sparta, and extended the Lydian empire as far as the Halys. His wealth, due to trade, was proverbial. He also was a client of the oracle at Delphi."

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Many people start quite early to bake Christmas fruit and cherry cakes for the festive season. An all-time and anytime favorite, fruit cake can be made in no time at all. This mix is 75 cents. A cherry pound cake mix is the same price.

On the vegetable market I noticed a new way of buying potatoes. If you find a bag of potatoes a bit unwieldy to carry, the handy "carry-me-home" box with handles will suit you. This box is 59 cents. Other potatoes are 55 cents for 10 pounds of new ones or 59 cents for the 10-pound plastic sack.

A vegetable that's a bit different is the egg plant. It can be fried or served stuffed with a meat or vegetable filling. They are 23 cents a pound. Chard is 13 cents a pound, and leeks are 15 cents. Red cabbage is 10 cents a pound and the cabbage's little relatives, the sprouts are 25 cents a pound. Marrow is six cents a pound, and Danish squash is nine cents.

Tomatoes for salads or for cooking are 19 cents a pound. Two bunches of green onions are 13 cents, as are radishes.

Halloween is just around the corner, and so will be the neighborhood children looking for treats. You'll not have much difficulty finding interesting candies and novelties for the youngsters, for the town's overflowing with orange and black goodies.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About golden wedding gift:

We have been invited to a golden wedding reception for a couple whom we don't know very well. I am concerned about gift obligations. They are well supplied with worldly goods and expect to be moving soon to smaller quarters which necessitates disposing of many of their possessions. It seems impractical under the circumstances that they might have a new load of possessions as a result of the anniversary party. What do you suggest we do?

Louise Davis answers:

It is too bad that golden wedding couples wanting little or nothing can't have inscribed on the invitations, "Please don't send a gift." Many of them feel that way, but do not want to forego a party because of it.

You must weigh the situation from all angles. I think in your case a card of congratulations or a telegram would be sufficient. But if you still do not want to go empty handed, you can send flowers or a plant.

Friends and relatives who are constantly in touch with the celebrating couple have a pretty good idea what might be needed as replacements. For them the decision and selecting are much simpler.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

16-Year-Old Should Lose An Inch From Her Hips

Q.—"I am 16 years old, 5 feet 3 and weigh 115 pounds. My measurements are bust 34½, waist 24½, hips 37. Please give me some hip-reducing exercises. Do you think I am too big for my height?

A.—No. You do need to lose an inch from your hips. If you or any of my readers would like to have my hip-reducing exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. I have recently given some in this column.

Q.—"Will you please tell me what is wrong with my figure? I am 26 years old and have three children living and four dead. I am medium-boned, 5 feet 2½, and weigh 115 pounds. My measurements are bust 34, waist 25½ and hips 36 inches. My husband tells me that I am too fat but I think I am just about right. Who is wrong?"

A.—Your husband is wrong and must be hard to please. Actually you are somewhat underweight, at least five younds. Your measurements are good and you are to be congratulated on having such a nice figure especially after having had so many children.

Q.—"Will you please tell me if I am underweight? Some say I am but I am small boned. I am 5 feet 4 and weigh 117 pounds."

A.—If you have a very small frame you are not much underweight, only a few pounds.

Q.—"Will you please tell me how many calories an average housewife should have a day in order to lose from 10 to 15 pounds in a month?"

A.—A calorie intake of from 1,200 to 1,400 a day should give you a loss of about 10 pounds in a month. Of course individuals vary some in the amount they lose on the same calorie count.

Q.—"I am 21 years old, 5 feet 1 inch tall and weigh 116 pounds. My bust measures 32, waist 25, and hips 35 inches. Please tell me how my measurements can be improved and if I should lose weight."

A.—Take bust developing and waist and hip-slimming exercises in order to bring your measurements nearer perfection. You might also lose four or five pounds.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 7 on bust-developing exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Effects of Atomic Energy On Civilization Described

The place of atomic energy in a peacetime world and the pressing need for trained scientists to develop this atomic power were forcefully presented to members of the University Women's Club of Victoria at their meeting Wednesday evening.

Speaker was Dr. G. S. Schrum, head of the department of physics at University of British Columbia.

Dr. Schrum told of strides made in the preservation of foods through use of atomic energy. "Much of the enormous wastage of foods between producer and consumer can be prevented by irradiation," he pointed out. "Moreover, since radiation produces mutations in some seeds, improved crops can be expected.

"Estimates show that since 1943 half the irreplaceable sources of energy such as coal, oil, gas, have been consumed," Dr. Schrum said. "It appears that within 50 years all the old sources will be exhausted, so the discovery of atomic energy has come at a crucial moment in modern history."

The uranium and thorium supply will produce 23 times the amount of energy received from all the old sources of coal, oil and gas. "And if, in 200 years, the supply of uranium should become exhausted, man has still the unimagined possibilities of heavy hydrogen, the supply of which is unlimited."

TRAINED MINDS

In the past, Dr. Schrum said, great discoveries have been made by men of little scientific training. Today that is impossible. "Even now the work of developing atomic power is seriously hampered by lack of trained men. If we are to maintain our present standard we must educate every child in the schools to the limit of his or her capacity.

"The unskilled job for which a lad leaves school today will, in 10 or 15 years, no longer exist."

"Our country is changing from a rural society exploiting our natural resources to a highly complex society dependent upon automation. The world into which we were born is gone. As our grandparents could not imagine the world in which we live, we can have no conception of the world in which our grandchildren will live."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. H. D. Gibb and thanked by Mrs. H. L. McIntyre.

NEW MEMBERS

Mrs. M. F. Smith presided. Miss K. B. Youdall introduced the following new members: Mrs. J. H. Dickinson, Mrs. Daryl Elford, Mrs. P. S. Henderson, Mrs. I. M. Horne, Mrs. R. M. Johns, Mrs. J. A. Henning-Dunbar Marriage Vows In Ceremony in Oakville, Ont.

A wedding of interest to Victoria took place this afternoon in Knox Presbyterian Church in Oakville, Ont., when Miss Diane Ella Dunbar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Roy Dunbar of Oakville, became the bride of Dr. James Newton Henning, of Grimsby, Ont., son of Mrs. Henning, 942 Rockland Avenue, Victoria, and the late J. N. Henning.

Dr. C. K. Nicoll officiated at the ceremony in a setting of white chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and chose for the ceremony a gown of chalk white delustred slipper satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline highlighted with Alencon lace. The sleeves were long and the gracefully styled full skirt extended into a cathedral train. A headdress of matching lace held her two-tier French tulle illusion veil. Her bridal bouquet was a crescent of white flowers.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Gerald Hillis; bridesmaid, Miss Phyllis Gunning, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Sylvia Dunbar, sister of the bride, were gowned in waltz-length dresses of silk taffeta in a rose-quartz shade. The gowns featured fitted bodices, three-quarter-length shirred sleeves and full, crinolined skirts with matching satin looped sashes and satin leaf headdresses. The groom had Dr. Hugh Donald Westgate of Vancouver as best man and ushers were Dr. Gerald R. Green and Carlyle Dunbar, the bride's brother.

'THE CHEF' GETS SIDE ORDER OF HUMILITY

BY DINAH KERR

I admit it—I've always bragged about my cooking.

"Me? Dinah 'The Chef' Kerr?" I've said. "I could cook blindfolded."

The other night—blindfolded and humble—I ate my words with a side order of my own dreadful cooking.

I had accepted an invitation of Miss Dorothy Stark, field secretary of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, to "learn to cook as the blind women do."

Financed by the Community Chest, the institute sends members to all parts of the Island to each newly-blinded women techniques of cooking in the dark. Miss Stark has been with the CNIB since 1930 and covers the area south of Nanaimo.

MY DOWNFALL

A bright-eyed little woman, she met me at the door and guided me into the kitchen where I met her housekeeper Miss Gladys Dighton and, eventually, my downfall.

"We asked one blind boy how to tell when a cup is full and he said 'It's easy — when the cup's almost empty it goes 'O-o-o,' and when it's full it goes 'E-e-e'.'"

"If the radio is on and the house is too noisy, you put one finger at the edge of the cup to feel when the liquid reaches the top.

HAND-TEST

"When a blind woman is baking she must gauge the heat of the oven by the hand-test," said Miss Stark.

Length of baking may be timed by a Braille watch or a Braille timer that rings a bell when time's up.

Braille labels are used to identify bottled fruits, coffee, tea and cooking ingredients.

All these items may be purchased at cost from the CNIB.

Then I gave the battlefield one final sweeping glance and everything went black. I was blindfolded.

"The frying pan is on the stove, dear," said Miss Stark. "And here is the egg. Fry it."

"Where is the stove?" I asked, falling forward a few steps.

In my other hand, she placed a knife and a turner.

"Shall I hold the egg while you butter the pan," offered Miss Stark.

I handed it to her. There was a distinct crack as egg met stove.

Miss Stark had made her one and only fumble of the evening. It wasn't until then that I realized she was totally blind.

EGG RESCUED

Miss Stark rescued the egg while I stuck one forefinger into the butter.

To triumphant cries on all sides, I smeared the butter in the frying pan, and after very little fumbling was again in possession of the egg.

Working strictly from sound ("No, no!" cried Miss Dighton, "A little to the left!"), I dropped the egg into the pan.

Now it was time to brew the tea. The idea is to put the teapot into a pan to catch drips and then pour in the hot water.

I began to pour, one ear cocked for "O-o-o-s."

"You're pouring it into the pan, dear," Miss Dighton said gently.

Miss Stark spoke reassuringly, but I didn't hear her. Somehow I cornered the egg and hoisted it onto a plate.

I poured the tea, and managed to be pretty sloppy.

Kremlin Protests British Order Detaining Child

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia Thursday protested to Britain that two-year-old Tatiana Chwastov, brought from the United States by her Russian father last week, has not been allowed to leave Britain for the Soviet Union.

A foreign office spokesman said the protest was made by Alexei Roshchin, the Soviet charge d'affaires to Anthony Nutting, minister of state.

Tatiana and her father, 58-year-old Alexis Chwastov, were prevented from sailing to Russia last Friday when lawyers obtained a court order making the child a ward of the British High Court.

They are now in the Russian Embassy.

GUEST SOLOIST AT SYMPHONY THIS WEEKEND

Life Is 'Sea of Contradictions' For Famed Canadian Cello Artist

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON
Times Music Critic

The life of Zara Nelsova is a sea of contradictions through which she apparently skims with ease, propelled by a tremendous store of vital energy which is reflected in her sparkling blue eyes and arresting personality.

Devoted to her fabulous Guarnarius 'cello, the world-famed artist yet finds it a burdensome companion; hating travelling alone, she covered a total of 40,000 miles last year—in solo.

This distinguished artist will be guest soloist with Victoria Symphony Orchestra, playing Dvorak's great 'cello concerto in B minor at this weekend's pair of concerts.

NO NIBHT OWL

An early riser—she is wide awake at 6.45 a.m.—it follows that she is no night owl, yet concert schedules keep her up till midnight and after.

"If only I could give my concerts first thing in the morning," she laughs, "I would play like an angel."

The practically unrivalled success of her career so far, and the major body of critical opinion concerning her, indicated that that is exactly how she does play, even though evening concerts are the rule.

Zara Nelsova, who has played with all the great symphony orchestras on this continent and in Europe, made her Canadian debut at the age of five before an audience of 3,500. At 10 the Winnipeg-born girl, with her parents and piano and violin-playing sisters, moved to England.

HARD WORK

"In England for a year I stayed out of school and studied 'cello," Nelsova recalls. "I practised six hours a day with a five-minute break at the end of each hour—nothing but technique. It was hard!"

Nelsova made her European debut as a soloist at the age of 13, playing the Lalo Concerto with the London Symphony, directed by Sir Malcolm Sargent. She is a favorite artist among leading composers when it comes to recording their compositions for her instrument.

The American composer, Samuel Barber, expressly designated Nelsova as the artist to record his concerto and while she was doing this for London Decca, a—literally—stunning incident took place.

Sessions for the recording were long and exhausting, and at the end of one of the worst, a cellist from the orchestra suddenly sprang up, screaming that it was no use his continuing to play and swinging his cello with both hands, smashed it to kindling against some railings.

Nelsova was so shocked by the outburst that she hid her face in her hands and it was only when the orchestra burst into laughter that the truth came out.

So impressed had the orchestra members been by her tremendous performance that they had all chipped in and bought a cheap cello for the demonstration in her honor.

"It was most sincere," she says, "but the shock put me in bed for a couple of days just the same."

Nelsova makes her home in San Francisco, but is only there for short periods of every year. The tall, golden-haired young woman has a vista of solid bookings through to May of 1958. They include Great Britain and Europe, and a return to South America, where the success of a recent seven-months tour brought an enthusiastic invitation for a second engagement.

In that connection, Nelsova's eyes sparkled with humor as she recalls the reception she got in Rio de Janiero. The incident she describes as a success course in one easy lesson.

When she appeared on stage for her recital the ovation was tremendous and went on until she began to wonder if there would be any music played that night.

Eventually the audience quietened down but after each group, the same wild cheering and applause went on for minutes. Finally she was put wise to the reason.

Her gown of green and gold carried out the colors of the Brazilian flag and was taken as an ambassadorial gesture of goodwill by her audience.

All Nelsova's traveling is done by air.

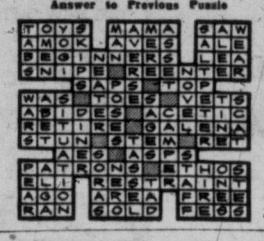
Answer to Previous Puzzle



ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dee Workman, 11, Columbia, S.C., for her question:

Why Does the Lemming Throw Itself Into the Sea?

Everybody loves a mystery. And the lemmings have one of the most mysterious habits in the animal kingdom. Every few years they leave home in a mass. They troup over hill and dale, swimming across streams and rivers. At last they come to the sea. Into the waves they plunge and swim out to deep water. No one ever sees them again. No one is quite certain of the reason and so far the lemmings themselves have refused to explain the mystery of their mass suicide.

It seems a shame, for the lemming is a pretty little darling. Though in certain places he gets to be quite a pest to the farmers. He is a vegetarian, a member of the rodent family and closely related to the gentle voles. He is a plump little fellow about five inches long plus one stubby inch of furry tail. He wears a long, thick coat of the softest fur. Even his feet are padded with fud. For he enjoys a cool climate and sometimes makes his home right in the ice and snow.

There are lemmings in many cool and cold countries north of the equator. Some wear coats of yellow, some dress in dull gold, some wear tan and others are the color of light honey. The Scandinavian Lemming is a honey blond with a cap of glossy black. He looks like he is wearing a shoulder length, page-boy style wig.

The furry little fellow sometimes builds a burrow under a boulder. Sometimes he settles for a round, moss-lined nest right under the snow. He feeds on mosses, roots, grasses and whatever green plants he can forage. And he multiplies. My, how he multiplies! Mrs. Lemming begins early in the spring with a litter of five or six. The babies are grown in a few weeks and ready to leave home and make room for another litter. One brood after another is raised until the fall. Some of the later litters may number eleven. By late summer, the spring babies are ready to have children of their own.

At this rate, the neighborhood is soon teeming with lemmings. Some of them are devoured by foxes and other meat eaters. But every four years the population problem becomes unbearable even, it seems, to the lemmings themselves. Then begins the mad rush to the sea.

Groups of lemmings start out and gather more groups on the way. They stop to gobble what greenery they can find. Mrs. Lemming sometimes stops to raise one more brood and on they go. Foxes, bears, weasels, hawks and owls gather to help the lemmings carry out their suicide plans. Even the caribou gobble up a few of the furry fellows. A few get left behind or fail to keep up. Only these escape to start the lemming population all over again.

The Eskimos believe that the migrating lemmings fall from the sky with the snow flakes. Others say they migrate to some ancient pasture grounds of their ancestors, now covered by the sea. The truth may well be that the little fellows are merely trying to spread out and find more food and living space. They may be too silly to realize that they cannot swim over the wide ocean. But we are not certain, and the lemming mass suicide is still a mystery.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

It's always uncomfortable when the opponents trump a good trick. But it is still possible to make the best of a bad situation.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued with the queen of hearts at the second trick. The average declarer would have played the king of hearts from the dummy, thus losing the game contract. East would return a club, after ruffing dummy's king of hearts, and the defenders would thus get two high hearts, a heart ruff, and the king of clubs, defeating the contract.

Opening lead—♥ A

When the declarer was Charles J. Solomon of Philadelphia no such misfortune overtook him. He recognized the situation and refused to play the king of hearts from the dummy at the second trick.

This simple play was effective. West had to lead a third heart, since any shift would enable declarer to draw trumps. East ruffed the king of hearts and returned a club, but it was now too late. Charley put up the ace of clubs, ruffed a heart with one of dummy's high trumps, and drew trumps. He was then able to lead his last heart, now established, and discard the losing club from the dummy. The rest was easy.

CHARLOTTE WHITTON INTERVIEWED ON CHANNEL 2 AT 9

THE OLD SWEATS—Some of the boys who carried the torch for us so valiantly during the First World War have been kind enough to let this column know how much they enjoyed Tuesday night's hour-long documentary, "The Great War."

One "Old Sweat" marvelled, "How did we ever live in that hell and come out to talk about it?" Another remembered Vimy, another Hill 60, and, yet another, Mons.

Veterans of a later war also must have marvelled—but at the difference in the two major conflicts. The Great War was a "static" war, where trenches were held and life struggled for existence in the hell of water-filled trenches and endless seas of mud. While the Second War was one of mobility, a war where men fought at furious speeds thousands of feet in the air; where men fought by pushing buttons to fire on other men they couldn't see . . . where to stand still was to die.

WHAT A MIRACULOUS invention the motion picture camera is. Through what other medium can life be made to stand still and the dead be brought back to life? There was King George V and his gracious queen, Mary, reviewing the troops. There walked proud Field Marshal Foch, the feared Von Hindenburg, and the hated Kaiser Wilhelm with his withered arm. Again the trim Lusitania sailed towards history as isolationists marched in New York. There was Teddy Roosevelt haranguing the crowds. There was the impeccable President Woodrow Wilson yet to make his famous 14-point armistice proposal. There were the parades, in London, in New York, Berlin and Paris.

Most of the Old Sweats felt that considering the newsreel masterpiece was for American consumption the coverage was fair, but . . .

They still chortle as they recall the parade through New York, a welcome for the boys back from "over there." It was a great parade and went on for hours. Bringing up at the very end was a beat-up old jalopy containing four Englishmen. They were carrying a modest banner which read: "We Helped Too."

It was said that they received one of the biggest hands of all.

EVERY ONCE IN A WHILE THERE appears a piece of property which, because of its situation and obvious potential, must make money for its next owner. I have been lucky enough to obtain the exclusive listing of such a home. It is only one year old, exceptionally well built and finished throughout, with three large bedrooms and a den, all on one floor. There is an acre of wooded grounds which could be partially left in a natural state, and when the landscaping is completed this property should re-sell for well over $25,000. The asking price is now much less with excellent terms. I would be pleased to show you this home by appointment at your convenience. J. Mears, 7-3404 eves. 4-7146 days. Island Investment Co. Ltd.

Police Ordered to End East German Strikes

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany's secret police have been ordered to quell slowdown strikes that are gripping key factories, Western sources reported Thursday.

The League of Free Jurists—a West Berlin anti - Communist organization with numerous contacts in the East—said the secret police have been sent into factories in Magdeburg, a tense centre of labor unrest. Der Tag, an independent West Berlin newspaper, said 2,000 police have been sent into Magdeburg from East Berlin.

The newspaper said the strikes have spread to factories in Erfurt and Karl Marx City (formerly Chemnitz). The newspaper and the free Jurists said the strikes resulted from long standing grievances about low pay and high work quotas. These were the same issues which sparked the East German workers rebellion of June 17, 1953.

The Communists themselves have acknowledged that Magdeburg is the scene of labor unrest, but have denied strikes are taking place.

The acknowledgement was made Tuesday, in the official labor newspaper Tribuene. It said workers at four Magdeburg factories were angry about low pay and excessive work quotas. A Communist party spokesman in Magdeburg—reached by telephone Thursday — denied the strike reports. He termed them a "dirty lie."

ENOS SAYS IT IN TWO WORDS

KANSAS CITY (UP)—Enos Slaughter sent a two-word message today to his New York Yankee teammates: "Thank you."

The 40-year-old outfielder said he wanted to acknowledge publicly the generosity of the players who voted him a three-quarter World Series share even though he did not join the Yankees until Aug. 25.

Slaughter had a second reason to be happy. His wife, Helen, Thursday gave birth to a seven-pound, 14-ounce girl.

Trail Smokies Edge Maple Leafs In Home Opener

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Trail Smoke Eeaters, playing their home opener of the 1956-57 Western International Hockey League season before more than 1,850 fans, edged Nelson Maple Leafs 3-2 here Thursday night.

Trail took a 2-0 lead in the first period and were ahead 2-1 at the end of the second. They made it 3-1 before the Maple Leafs netted their second tally with less than five minutes to play.

Trail scorers were Shabaga, Lenardon and Kromm, with Schwab and Hyssop scoring for Nelson.

In a desperate attempt to tie the score, Leafs pulled netminder Gerry Koehle with little more than 40 seconds left in the game, but they were unable to beat Trail goalie Seth Martin.

Paper Claims Ted Set for Next Year

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Daily Record says Ted Williams signed a two-year contract, not a one-year pact, with Boston Red Sox last winter and is set to play another season.

"The Red Sox did not proclaim the signing of the two-year contract possibly because they wanted two harvests of headline hay instead of one," Dave Egan wrote in his daily column.

The only comment from Red Sox was: "We'll announce it when he signs."

First 'Bearded' RAF Officer Dies

DUBLIN (CP)—Group Capt. Vivian Gaskell-Blackburn, who at one time held the distinction of being the only officer in the Royal Air Force allowed to wear a beard, died recently at his home in Waterville, County Kerry. He was 61.

He first grew a beard while serving in the Royal Navy and on transfer to the RAF he was granted permission to retain it, breaking a tradition that air force officers must have shaven chins.

Ontario Tories Keep York West In By-Election

TORONTO (CP) — Leslie Rowntree, 42-year-old lawyer making his first venture into provincial politics, Thursday was elected in the York West Ontario by-election and retained the seat for the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Rowntree defeated Lynn Williams, 32, CCF candidate, and Liberal Arthur Nagels, 38, who was beaten in the general election of 1955. The seat was left vacant by the death last summer of Elmer Brandon.

Road Safety Parley Set For December

Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced today that a provincial-wide safety conference aimed at combatting the rising death toll on B.C. highways will be called some time in December.

"Such a conference would be valuable from many points of view," he said.

Meanwhile, the government is considering more rigid enforcement of traffic laws and heavier fines for dangerous driving.

Mr. Bonner said the safety conference might consider ways and means of investigating accidents to discover their causes and if there were any special factors, such as new power brakes, contributing to a number of accidents.

Mr. Bonner was asked his opinion of a system now being drafted by the attorney-general's department in Ontario whereby traffic violators could be summonsed on the spot and their licences confiscated by the police.

"I doubt if that would be practical here," he replied. "For one thing, I do not think our police would take kindly to the idea of being asked to exercise magisterial powers.

"In any case, a motorist is virtually summonsed on the spot when he receives a ticket."

Premier Bennett said Thursday the government is "seriously alarmed" by the mounting toll of deaths on B.C. highways, but he did not favor the idea of a special enforcement branch for traffic violators.

"We do not want a police state in British Columbia. The democratic way is to make the motorists themselves more safety conscious."

Voice on Tape Wins Burglar's Conviction

WINNIPEG (CP)—Kenneth Joseph Foll, 27, of Winnipeg was sentenced Thursday to three concurrent terms of two years in penitentiary on charges of breaking, entering and theft after judge and jury listened to a tape recording of a man's voice admitted as evidence.

It was the first such admission in Canadian criminal court history. Tape recordings have been admitted in Canadian civil actions and in one British criminal case.

The tape recording had been ruled admissible as evidence in Court of Queen's Bench by Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman following a 3½-hour legal argument with the jury absent.

Foll was charged with the theft of 1,100 pounds of butter from a dairy where he was formerly employed. He was arrested after his shoes were found to fit footprints in the snow leading from the plant and his car was found outside with lights off and the motor running.

Highlight of the trial Thursday was the introduction before the jury of the tape recording machine which had been set up in the office of the plant superintendent at the dairy.

Members of the jury and Mr. Justice Freedman listened intently as the machine was started.

On the recording was telephone conversations between Foll, a Mike Kozminski and an unknown woman.

But they said it is a hopeful new indication that the wonder drugs may some day provide man with an effective weapon against cancer. The new antibiotic, alazopeptin, was unveiled at the fourth annual symposium on antibiotics here.

The leaflets said EOKA is "throwing stones at the sun" if it thinks terror can drive the British from the island.

Ex-Red Accuses Touring Russians

FLEMING THROWS HAT IN CONSERVATIVE RING

John Diefenbaker, member of Parliament for Prince Albert, and Davie Fulton, member for Kamloops, both expressed willingness earlier to contest the leadership.

Fleming told today's press conference that he believes it "a great exaggeration that Mr. Diefenbaker has obtained 80 per cent of the party's caucus support."

Timbermen in City Today Held 'Vital Threat to Canada'

LABRIEVILLE, Que. (CP) — Pat Walsh, secretary of the (Pan-Canadian Anti-Communist League and one-time fellow-traveller of Communist groups, charged today that two of the seven Soviet lumber experts touring Canada post a "vital threat" to Canada's internal security.

In a statement issued here he named them as G. M. Orlov, Soviet lumber minister, and L. V. Roos, timber research director.

The Walsh statement said the two Soviet officials interviewed Bruce Magnuson, member of the Labor-Progressive Communist party in Moscow in 1951, and that Magnuson was instructed to tell Canadian Communists to set the forests afire in the event of war with Russia.

SABOTAGE ORDERS

In 1953 when Walsh announced his resignation from a number of Communist-front organizations, he said the Canadian Woodworkers' Union, of which he was a former organizer, had received orders from Moscow to prepare to dynamite hydro-electric plants and set forest fires if Canada and Russia were at war. He said sabotage orders had been given Magnuson "during his recent visit to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics." Magnuson, at Port Arthur, termed the statements "all nonsense . . . inflammatory fabrications . . . attempts at character assassination as a means of political terror."

Walsh was the first to make the disclosure last month of an attempt by a Soviet diplomat to bribe a Canadian air station clerk. The diplomat, second secretary of the Russian embassy, was ejected from the country and the clerk was dismissed.

In his statement today Walsh said Orlov worked for a while "in conspiratorial activities of the Comintern" and that Roos "is a high MVD official whose task is to ensure a continual flow of slave labor to the central timber administration of western Siberia and the Urals."

The justice department, external affairs department and RCMP said, when questioned today, they had no knowledge of the Walsh charges and would not comment immediately.

(Special to The Times)

LADYSMITH — The worst wind and rain storm of the fall season failed to deter Russia's minister of forest industries G. M. Orlov and seven of his countrymen from inspecting every part of the huge Comox Logging and Railway Co. Ltd. log dump in Ladysmith today.

They are near the end of a tour of Canada's major timber producing areas.

First Big Storm Hits B.C. Coast

Coastal shipping scurried for shelter today as gale-force winds lashed the Greater Victoria area and the entire B.C. coast in the first major wind and rain storm of the season.

A Port Angeles yacht was saved from serious trouble two miles off Ogden Point Breakwater by prompt co-operation between B.C. Pilotage Authority station on Dallas Road and Port Angeles coast guard.

Falling branches knocked out electrical power when lead-in lines broke to some homes in the south Vancouver Island area.

B.C. Telephone reported minor cable trouble due to rain and wind in Sidney, Albion, Colquitz and some Victoria exchanges.

And autumn leaves were shaken loose to cover lawns and gardens, ankle-deep in many cases.

Air-sea rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver reported all small craft safely in sheltered waters due to early posting of gale warnings.

Wallowed Helplessly in High Sea

Bound for Victoria, the Gloria hit heavy weather about 10 a.m. The fuel line plugged and the engine conked out.

The cruiser wallowed helplessly in heavy seas as the owner, C. C. Tozier, attempted to make emergency repairs.

But the rolling action of the seas spilled sediment into the fuel, and Mr. Tozier used his radio-telephone to call the Port Angeles coast guard, which is tuned to the frequency used by the Gloria.

The coast guard telephoned B.C. Pilotage station, and learned that the Gloria's call for aid had been monitored via Gordon Head wireless.

B.C. Pilot Launch No. 1 was already on the way.

A tow line was affixed, and the Gloria was brought in to Fisherman's Wharf. Mr. Tozier planned to have engine repairs made today, and to wait out the storm here.

The Dominion weather office at Victoria said gale warnings would remain up today, with possible moderation of wind expected this evening. But the Pacific storm which is lashing the coast shows no signs of abating immediately.

Eisenhower Keeps Banging Adlai's H-Bomb Proposals

PORTLAND (AP)—President Eisenhower, still banging away at Adlai Stevenson's military draft and H-bomb views, travelled to California today "to continue to lay the facts on the line."

The Eisenhower campaign line was seen as a tactical victory for Democrat Adlai Stevenson. It now is clear Stevenson is going to get his desire to make a major election campaign issue out of the controversial H-bomb tests.

BACK AT SUBJECT

President Eisenhower, who last week said he was through talking about the tests, Thursday night took up the subject again with a resounding salvo at Stevenson's views.

Stevenson has come out repeatedly for negotiations toward an international ban on hydrogen bomb tests. He has coupled this stand with a plea for less "wasteful" methods of building up the U.S. armed forces than the current military draft.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty today indicated Eisenhower will fire another salvo of criticism at the democratic presidential nominee in a major address in Los Angeles' Hollywood Bowl tonight (8.30 p.m., PST, on TV and radio).

SOMMERS-STURDY TRIAL SCHEDULED FOR JAN. 8

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hearing of a slander action taken by Robert Sommers, former lands and forests minister, against Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy, will start in Supreme Court here Jan. 8, 1957.

The action resulted from statements made by Mr. Sturdy before the Sloan Forestry Commission in December, 1955.

Alfred Bull, counsel for Mr. Sommers, said opening of the hearing would not affect the hearing in November of an appeal against a ruling allowing Mr. Sturdy to examine certain bank account items in connection with the case.

CHANCES 'ALMOST ZERO'

Snow Halts Search For Missing Hiker

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) —Blinding wet snow today halted the search for 24-year-old mountain climber Alex Patterson. "There is little hope of finding Patterson alive," said William Angus as he recalled two search parties scaling down the rugged south slope of 4,000-foot Mount Seymour.

NORTH VANCOUVER — A hand-picked search party renewed the hunt today for a man lost since Sunday on storm-lashed Mount Seymour. His chances of survival were considered "almost zero."

Alex Patterson, 24, is the last member of an ill-fated three-man hiking party. The body of Gordon McFarlane, 27, was found Thursday and Robert Duncan, 23, reached safety by himself Wednesday.

The three, all of whom came from Scotland within the last three years, ran into trouble on the mist-shrouded mountain while they were out for a Sunday hike.

STUMBLES TO SAFETY

Duncan, who managed to find his way to safety although suffering from exposure, reported the death of McFarlane.

The body was found by searchers headed by William Angus. It was to be brought out today.

Duncan attributed McFarlane's death to fear for his wife's peace of mind.

He recalled that McFarlane leaped suddenly from their shelter in the cave, "mumbled a few words about getting back to his wife, and started down the mountain alone Monday morning.'

His body was found where Duncan had stumbled upon it Tuesday. He died at the 2300-foot level within sight of a gravelled water board road.

Searchers believe he had fallen from a cliff and was drowned while unconscious in the stream. His forehead was deeply gashed.

The party pressed on to the spot where Duncan had left the exhausted Patterson in a cave under a blanket of leaves. But he had disappeared and searchers speculated that he had wandered away in hopes of getting down from the mountain.

POORLY EQUIPPED

"His chances aren't good, in fact, they're almost zero," said Angus. "He had only light clothing, no food and wasn't able to light a fire to keep warm."

Angus said his party encountered "thunderstorms, a terrific hailstorm and rainstorms. We were freezing cold so what chance would Patterson have after five days?"

TREACHEROUS COUNTRY

Some members of the search party described the area as the most treacherous country they had ever entered.

Air force para-rescue trooper John Franks said: "We never touched solid ground during our climb. The slopes were loose rock, as slippery as glass.

"If we don't find Patterson today, I doubt if we'll ever find him."

Britain, Soviet Back Jordan in UN Protest

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Jordan won quick support from Britain and the Soviet Union today after charging Israel with unprovoked aggression and calling for strong UN penalties.

The two countries took Jordan's side after hearing Israel defend her position and blame the Jordan government for the current border clashes. Israel said the incidents would end any time Jordan wanted peace.

Both Britain and Russia praised Jordan for her restraint. Russia also strongly condemned Israel for alleged violations of the UN charter and the cease-fire agreements.

The council will continue the debate next week at a date to be announced later.

H-Bomb Tests Vital U.S. Atom Chief Says

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—U.S. atomic chief Lewis L. Strauss said today hydrogen bomb tests must be continued not only to assure new weapons but to provide data for civilian survival under enemy attack.

Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, in a speech prepared for a joint U.S.-Canadian civil defence committee meeting, made no mention of Adlai Stevenson's proposal that the U.S. take the lead in seeking an end to H-bomb tests.

Without the tests, he added, U.S. "defences would deteriorate, both in terms of civil defence and in the weapons which we need to repel any nuclear aggression."

Without referring to Stevenson, Strauss said:

"Exposure to radioactivity, as a vague, unproven danger to generations yet unborn, must be weighed against the more immediate and infinitely greater dangers of defeat and perhaps of obliteration at the hands of an enemy who possesses nuclear weapons of mass destruction.

SERIES STARTS SATURDAY

City Golfers Hail 'The Hagen Story'

Top local golfers today welcomed the Times plan to run the life story of Walter Hagen, the colorful and famous U.S. professional. "The Walter Hagen Story" starts in the Times Saturday, appearing daily.

Hagen twice played exhibitions in Victoria.

Veteran Willingdon Cup star and former city champion, Bob Morrison said, "It will be great to read Hagen's complete life story because I was so impressed when I met and played against him (20 years ago). He was a magnificent player, had great competitive spirit and the most intense concentration I have ever seen."

Victoria Golf Club pro. Phil Taylor, said, "It will be a great treat for local golfers and golf fans to read the story. I met Haig and played against him. He had it all—skill, color and the guts of a lion."

WALTER HAGEN

Walter Gravlin, Uplands Golf Club pro, said, "Hagen played at our course about 27 years ago and I'll never forget him and his great golf."

Mayor Studies Judge's Ruling On Detectives

Mayor Percy Scurrah said today he will discuss with police chief John Blackstock whether disciplinary action will be taken against two Victoria detectives criticized in assize court Thursday.

The mayor, speaking as chairman of the Victoria police commission, said he could not discuss the matter until he had seen the chief.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson ruled Detectives Ray Maitland and Richard Perry went beyond their power in questioning a suspect with regard to breaking and entering of Goodwill Bottling Company, Aug. 16.

"I don't want to restrict the police in their right to question suspects," said Mr. Justice Wilson, "but I think they went too far in this case."

The judge said it was the duty of the courts to protect citizens from being unfairly questioned.

Khrushchev In Poland?

WARSAW (AP)—A responsible source said Nikita S. Khrushchev appeared in Warsaw today just as Wladislaw Gomulka, once jailed as a Titoist, was being triumphantly restored to a position of power in the Polish party.

The informant said the Soviet Communist boss took part in discussions of the opening session of the Polish United Workers Communist party central committee and then went into conference with Polish leaders.

ARSON HINTED IN FIRE DEATHS

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—Three University of Idaho students died today in an early-morning dormitory fire and officials said it may have been murder by arson.

Two of the students were trapped in a hallway and burned to death in Gault Hall, a new $500,000 dormitory housing 130 men. The other sought refuge in a shower room and suffocated.

It was the fourth dormitory fire in a week on the campus and aroused university officials and police started an intensive investigation.

tion and, according to one witness, "knew what they were looking at."

Since heavy rain forced a closure of the woods operations, the party could not see logs dumped, but they saw a few made up into bundles wrapped by cable and made ready for towing.

Highlight of the trip for Mr. Orlov and two of his companions was a brief ride in the "bull pen" aboard a 16-foot boom boat, one of the marine "bulldozers" used in sorting logs.

The visitors were forced to hang on as the nimble boat herded a number of logs together and pushed them into the bundling machine.

KEEN INTEREST

"It's difficult to know what they think of things because they speak very little English," a member of the welcoming party said, "but there is a lot of talking and pointing going on. They seem to be keenly interested in what they see."

Wearing only topcoats, the Russians soon were dripping wet, but they made a complete inspection of the ground before leaving.

Meanwhile one of the 17 Canadian lumbermen in their party bought out a local store's supply of plastic raincoats to wear for the remainder of the day's tour.

They felt by bus for Mesachie Lake and a tour of the Hillcrest Lumber Co. Ltd. sawmill, luncheon at the company cookhouse, and, weather permitting, a visit to the company's logging operations.

Host at Ladysmith was Bill Chalmers, superintendent, and the party was greeted at Hillcrest by company president Hector Stone, who recently completed a tour of the Russian forest industry.

ENJOYING TRIP

"They are an affable crowd," an official said. "They are dressed just like any Canadian businessmen except for their safety hats and rubber boots donned for today's trip. And they certainly seemed to be enjoying themselves."

The party will arrive in Victoria at 6 p.m. today for a provincial government dinner to be tendered in the Empress Hotel at 7.30 p.m.

Among those present will be Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks and about 35 guests, mostly from Victoria lumber industries.

The Russian party will stay overnight, leaving at 8 a.m. to see operation of the B.C. Forest Service experimental station at Cowichan Lake. The group then will proceed to Harmac pulp mill at Nanaimo and then to Vancouver in the afternoon where they will see the B.C. Lions play.

. . . EISENHOWER

a hot and tough battle against the Democrats. Eisenhower carried the state in 1952, but Stevenson forces feel they have a good chance to win it this year.

"The President plans to continue to lay the facts of the campaign on the line," Hagerty said.

The press secretary declined to say whether the President would hit once more—as he did in a nationwide television address from Portland—at Stevenson's proposals that efforts be made to win world agreement on halting H-bomb tests, and that consideration be given to ending the military draft "in the foreseeable future."

NO PROMISE MADE

An overflow audience in the 4,700-seat public auditorium applauded as Eisenhower — without mentioning Stevenson by name—said:

"I have not promised you—nor do I ever intend to—that the way to defend peace or fredom is to abandon simultaneously our military draft and testing of our most advanced military weapons, under the circumstances of today's world.

"For I know—as I believe all Americans know—that, without strength in this world of today, the road to surrender is paved with good intentions."

Slapping indirectly in that case against the Stevenson draft and H-bomb stand, the president said:

"Thrice in our lifetime—at least in my lifetime, we have seen our country at war. Why? Because we were too weak for the circumstances of the time.

"We shall not be that again. We must not be that again."

STEVENSON ON DRAFT

The Democratic candidate proposed university scholarships which would provide "specialized training in conjunction with a liberal education" to encourage more men to volunteer for the armed forces. The scholarships would go to qualified applicants agreeing to spend a specified time in the service.

The draft, which generally requires two years' active service, was criticized by Stevenson as inefficient because it results in a high proportion of inexperienced personnel.

BOY HERO OF RIOTS CITED

Third Poznan Trial Featured by Drama

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters)—The third and longest of the major trials arising from rioting here June 28 neared its end Thursday night with dramatic testimony about a 13-year-old boy killed during the fighting.

In a final address at the 11-day trial of eight alleged rioters, defence lawyer Michal Grzegorzewicz reached into his briefcase and held a small grey jacket before the surprised court.

He said it belonged to a boy who picked up the Polish flag from an injured woman demonstrator and waved it in front of security police headquarters while "tens of thousands" looked on.

The court was hushed and a woman dabbed her eyes with a handkerchief as the lawyer said quietly "This is the last memory his mother has of him. It is a memory of those who fell in the streets."

Previous witnesses had mentioned the incident but for the first time the boy was named as Roman Strzalkowski. The prosecution replied it had not been proved that Strzalkowski was the boy who held the flag nor that he had been shot in front of the security police building.

Judge Dionizy Piotrowski announced that he and the two lay judges hearing the case with him will give their judgment Monday.

START HEATED ARGUMENT

A heated argument broke out about who fired the first shots in the gun battle before the police building. Fifty-three persons were killed and 200 injured in the rioting.

Speaking on behalf of all eight defendants, lawyer Stanislaw Hejmowski said that even if the "we want bread demonstrators did throw bottles of flaming gasoline at police, "you cannot put a fire out with bullets."

REMEMBER CHILD

Turning to the judges, he said: "Do not let us be afraid of the truth, however bitter it may be . . . We have to remember a Polish standard held in the hand of a Polish child."

The eight youths were charged with stealing arms to attack security police headquarters. The prosecution has demanded severe penalties ranging from a minimum of 10 years to death.

France Seizes Algeria-Bound Egyptian Arms

ORAN, Algeria (CP)—French authorities charged Thursday that $2,000,000 worth of arms they captured on the yacht Athos was loaded at Alexandria by Egyptian army volunteers and was destined for Algerian rebels.

One official said the seizure shows clearly the support Egypt is giving the nationalist insurgents.

The 400-ton Athos, which the French said once was a minesweeper with the Canadian navy, was reported to have been intercepted Wednesday by the French escort vessel Commandant de Pimodan off the port of Nemours, Western Algeria.

An admiralty spokesman in Paris said the Athos was flying no national flag when intercepted. The yacht's captain was described in one report as being of British origin while another said the craft was under command of an Italian carrying both Greek and Costa Rican passports.

Crew members were Italians and Moslems and Agence France-Presse said portraits of Stalin and Egyptian President Nasser were found in the yacht's cabins.

The French unloaded 70 tons of arms, including 1,000 rifles, new British Bren guns, 500 late-model Italian machine pistols, 50 Canadian mortars and 1,000 cases of grenades and ammunition. There were also some German light machine guns and Dutch and Belgian weapons, the French said.

The French said the Athos was built originally as a pleasure yacht and was known as the Saint-Briavels.

Lion Cub Nibbles Princess

The princess, beginning the last week of her East African tour, tapped her fingers on the arms of her chair in time with the throbbing African music at the Royal Agricultural Show here.

At lunch a 10-day-old lion cub walked on the table where Princess Margaret was dining and harmlessly nibbled her finger.

"How sweet," the princess said. She gently stroked the cub, whose eyes had just opened and whose legs were still weak.

LIKES THE COLOR, TOO

No Use Complaining ---House Painted Free

BOSTON (AP)—Patrick Walsh is bewildered but not complaining.

Somebody's painting his house for free.

Walsh told police: Wednesday eight men appeared and began painting the outside of his house.

Walsh protested, but the men said they had their instructions. Nine men showed up Thursday, saying they had to complete the job, that they had a contract and payment was in a Boston bank, waiting for the job to be finished.

Police said there was nothing they could do.

Walsh said the men are doing a good job, adding he likes the color.

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—J. A. Peacock of Edmonton didn't even get a venison steak when he killed a young female deer in Banff National Park.

The deer was killed by Peacock's automobile on the highway near Lake Louise.

JIMMY ROACH
Carrying the Times in the Seven Oaks area

Jimmy Roach, whose picture appears on the left, has been delivering papers in the Saanich area for the past three years. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roach of 970 Burnside Road, Jimmy comes from a newspaper family having two of his brothers in the newspaper business. His younger brother, George, delivers a route in the same area, while Henry, the older brother, is a sub-station manager, having received a promotion from carrying papers.

Jimmy hopes to become an architect some day, but in the meantime his newspaper route has assisted him in getting the things a growing boy needs. Jimmy buys all his own clothes and has purchased a bike during the past year in addition to a trumpet, which he is learning to play.

Jimmy is 14 years old and is in Grade 9 at Colquitz Junior High School. During his career as a newspaper carrier he has proved his ability in salesmanship by winning many trips in recent subscription contests.

Mrs. Roach expresses her feelings this way.

"I think that a newspaper route is a good education for a lad learning to get ahead in the world. It teaches them the value of money and how to handle it wisely. My boys have received a great deal of benefit from carrying papers."

Jimmy's past record is something for his parents to be proud of.

Labor Council Opposes Raiding By Affiliates; Unions Complain

Principle of membership raiding within ranks of organized labor, especially since merger of the country's biggest labor groups, has come under fire in Victoria.

Victoria Labor Council is on record as opposing raiding by an affiliate and has sought co-operation of the Canadian Labor Congress and B.C. Federation of Labor in ending the situation.

Matter arose recently when an organizer from Heat and Frost Insulators, Local 118, Vancouver, came to Victoria and attempted to gain membership for a sublocal by taking shipyard laggers (asbestos workers) from shipwrights' union membership at Yarrows

He said he was acting on instructions of the Heat and Frost Insulators' international headquarters.

Complaint was made by Don Douglas, business agent of Local 9, Shipwrights' Industrial Union, to the labor council, which will include a copy of his complaint in urging immediate action by CLC secretary Donald Macdonald.

Mr. Douglas referred to the problem as "an alarming situation," and that his union regards it as "deplorable" that there should be raiding when there is plenty of work to do among the unorganized.

Heat and Frost Insulators seeks certification of 26 laggers at Yarrows. There are about 36 laggers and allied asbestos workers attached to the shipwrights' local.

The Vancouver local is newly organized and seeks expansion.

"I question the right of any international to interfere in a Canadian union," Mr. Douglas said.

Thatcher Wants Businessmen In Politics

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ross Thatcher, Liberal member of Parliament, Thursday called for more businessmen to enter politics and attacked what he termed the "costly myth" that it was impossible to follow basic business practice in government.

In a service club address, Mr. Thatcher criticized businessmen for avoiding "politics like the plague." He said their refusal to enter government is having a "serious effect not only on government but on the economy of the whole country."

Mr. Thatcher said that only two of the 18 federal cabinet member listed them selves as businessmen. Among 26 MPs in the Commons, only 10 per cent are businessmen.

Every part of the national economy, from agricultural prices to working conditions, reflects the decisions of politicans.

"We can't afford to leave these decisions in the hands of men without even a rudimentary knowledge of business," said the one-time CCF member, who broke away to become an independent and, early this year, joined the Liberals.

Canadian Chamber Picks Victoria; Nanaimo to Share '57 Conference

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

QUEBEC (CP) — "On to Victoria" was the slogan of the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce as it ended here Thursday, and set its sights for a meeting on the Pacific coast a year from now.

The simple slogan was a welcome relief to people who for four days talked in technical terms of such matters as monetary and fiscal policy—who had lost track of the football standings and hardly knew the hockey season was under way.

KEY CHIEF TOPIC

Monetary and fiscal policy was perhaps the chief item of discussion during the meetings and most delegates became "conscript economists" — to quote a term used in an address by L. A. Forsyth, of Montreal, president of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

Newspaper men, in an attempt to simplify the matter, just called it "prices" in their stories — because a major aim of current monetary policy is to keep prices from shooting up.

Delegates generally approved, but still cast questioning looks, at the steps being taken by monetary authorities — chiefly through the Bank of Canada—to make money harder to borrow and thus tame the current boom.

The new president of the chamber for the coming year is Raymond Dupuis, president of Dupuis Freres, Montreal department store firm. He succeeds J. G. Crean of Toronto.

Nanaimo, also on Vancouver Island, plans to share next year's show, and all delegates were given literature on Nanaimo by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. (Ted) Hodson, Nanaimo delegates.

OUTDOOR REPORT

Deer hunters and duck hunters have been chuckling quietly while watching the wet stuff pour out of the skies this week, but to anglers the unsettled weather has been another sure sign that their season's sport is fast coming to a close.

Weekend prospects for salmon fishermen operating close to Victoria are none too bright. From most boathouses come reports of lots of grilse, a few jack springs and only an occasional coho.

Cowichan Bay is still a fair bet for coho. Some are being taken off William Head and Otter Point and a few have been showing off Esquimalt Harbor. There is still a chance that more silvers will show up, possibly at Deep Cove, but the chance gets slimmer each day and anglers will soon have to take their luck with winter springs and grilse.

Among those who managed to get out during breaks in the weather this week were R. A. Benson, who took an 11-pound spring off Oak Bay on a small Bottoms-Up spoon, and Fred Fendley, who used Tom Mack spoons to hook a pair of five-pound jack springs and enough grilse to make up a limit at Goldstream.

Fishermen spinning with small spoons had a couple of weeks of interesting sport with jack springs in the portion of the Cowichan River below Skutz Falls. The jacks have apparently returned to the salt chuck and a few are being boated in Cowichan Bay. Now the spinners are pulling a few coho out of the lower reaches of the river, and losing a good amount of tackle on the ones they can't hold.

While salmon catches have been dwindling, the cooler weather has brightened the picture for trout fishermen.

Trolling and spinning have produced some good catches at Cowichan, Kemp, Shawnigan, Dougan's and Prospect Lakes, and fly casters, using mostly orange or yellow-bodied flies, have been scoring well in the latter three lakes.

From the headwaters of the Cowichan River have come a few reports of big trout hooked on wet flies rolled along the bottom.

Earlier this month, Bob Wright and Bob Evans made their annual trip to Main Lake on Quadra Island and found the trout as co-operative as ever. Combining their fishing with a bit of hunting, they took near-limits on spinning tackle during both days of their stay.

Action was slow until they added an extra ring in front of the hooks on a small candlefish spoon and inserted a small piece of red wool. The trout, which weighed up to three pounds, went after the doctored lure like bears after honey.

Stopping at the Oyster River for a try at coho starting upriver on their spawning run, Evans and Wright were casting near the highway bridge. Evans, after tying on a larger candlefish, put a few too many ergs into his cast and the spoon sailed above the bridge, dropping just in time to make contact with a motorcyclist.

The reel sang for a brief instant before the nylon parted and the spoon continued on its motorcycle ride. Wright is still wondering what the rider's deductions were when he eventually discovered the candlefish hooked in his clothing or on his machine.

Then there was Jack Patrick, who decided the water was too choppy to go fishing and took a walk along the beach at Oak Bay. Jack spotted a salmon, apparently spent from a battle to break away from a fisherman, swimming in shallow water. He waited his chance, then chipped out a seven-pound coho with, of all things, a left-handed golf club.

10-Shilling Scheme Pays Off in Pounds

For in a year when most of the division's 48 clubs are reporting falling attendance, Newport County is drawing more than 10,000 fans a game for the first time in more than two years.

Club officials credit their success to a bold player-incentive scheme under which each player is paid an extra 10 shillings for every 1,000 fans above 10,000 at home games. The scheme, technically illegal under league rules, also is paying off on the field.

Twice this season attendance has topped the 12,000 mark with a resulting £1 bonus to players on each occasion. And home gates are averaging more than 11,000 a game, against 8,000 last season and the year before. Equally important, the players' drive to produce crowd-pleasing soccer has lifted the club into contention for first place in the standings, a marked improvement over last season when Newport County finished a lowly 18th in the division's 24-team southern section. The Football League, governing body of England's professional clubs, says:

"We shall not interfere unless these 10-shilling payments begin amounting to a sum per player in excess of the £15 maximum wage."

Saturday Deadline For Hoop Entries

Teams planning to campaign in the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League this season have only until Saturday night to submit entries.

Entries may be made to secretary Mrs. Margaret Butler at Sooke.

League play will start Thursday night at the Sooke athletic hall.

Nashua in Last Race---All Alone

Some 10,000 fans cheered and shouted "come on, come on" as he turned on his famed speed although there was no competition and no money at stake.

The big bay son of Nasrullah-Segula will be taken Saturday to nearby Spendthrift Farm to retire to stud duties.

TO STUD

He shared the spotlight Thursday only with Arcaro, trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and members of the syndicate which bought him nearly a year ago for a record $1,251,200 from the estate of the late William Woodward Jr.

After receiving awards on behalf of Nashua, Leslie Combs II, who heads the syndicate, thanked Keeneland officials "for the honors you have bestowed upon one of the greatest race horses of our time."

Nashua's racing days ended last Saturday at Belmont Park as he won the Jockey Club Gold Cup in American record time.

'HILL' HEROES

Marconi, Columbus And Yogi

ST. LOUIS (UP)—The champion New York Yankees' star world series catcher was honored by his friends on "The Hill" here today as "one of the three best-known Italians in the world—Columbus, Marconi and Yogi Berra."

Berra was feted by the Professional and Businessmen's Club of The Hill, the Italian section from which he emerged as one of baseball's great backstops.

Fred Giacoma, vice-president of the club, presented Berra with a scroll and made him an honorary member. The Italians and baseball notables praised his contributions to the game and his heroics in the 1956 world series.

Minneapolis Seeks Senator Franchise

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—A Minneapolis major league baseball committee said Thursday it will file an offer with Washington Senators directors Friday to move the Washington American League franchise to Minneapolis.

Charles Johnson, executive sports editor of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune and a leader in the movement to get a major league club into the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, said the offer will be made at a meeting of Washington directors.

Tokyo Giants Bump Brooks

TOKYO (AP)—Aided by the 16-strikeout pitching of two ace hurlers, Tokyo Yomiuri Giants defeated Brooklyn Dodgers 5-4 today in the opener of Brooklyn's 20-game Japan exhibition baseball tour.

Takumi Otomo, a submarine pitcher who beat New York Giants here two years ago, struck out Roy Campanella, Don Demeter and Gino Cimoli in order in the top of the ninth for the victory.

Otomo whiffed 10 Dodgers in all after coming in the fourth. His predecessor, Sho Horiuchi, who was tagged for home runs by Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges, fanned six.

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Willie Shoemaker Thursday became the first jockey in American thoroughbred racing history to earn $2,000,000 in purse money in one year.

Shoemaker, in a close battle with Willie Hartack for United States riding honors, picked up the winner's share of $3,425 at Garden State Park Thursday by riding Ada L. Rice's Beautillion to victory in the sixth race, boosting his 1956 purse winnings to $2,001,165.

EARLEY MADE SCAPEGOAT?

Evicted Coach Snaps at Argos

TORONTO (BUP) — Ex-Argonaut back coach Bill Earley says that since the Toronto Football Club fired him Wednesday night, he has received calls from all over the United States.

However, he said last night "I'll just sit tight for a while and I won't do anything."

Earley, who was dismissed for allegedly undermining the authority of coach Bill Swiacki, said his summary sacking probably will result in U.S. indignation over Canadian football tactics.

"I'm afraid this isn't going to make Canadian football more popular," he said. "You can't find a player who will say I've tried to undermine Bill (Swiacki) at any time. I went along with him all the way even though I didn't always agree."

Swiacki said he had not decided how Earley's coaching duties would be handled.

Earley's sudden dismissal was criticized by Globe and Mail sports editor Jim Vipond who wrote in his column this morning: "Obviously Earley has been made the scrapegoat in an embarrassing situation. He was apparently dismissed without a chance to defend himself in this so-called democratic country of ours because a couple of dissatisfied players (are there any satisfied men on the roster?) used him as a sounding-off board."

Board Rejects Track Protest

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The California Horse Racing Board has denied a protest over the disqualification of Prince Khaled from victory in the Del Mar Racetrack Futurity Sept. 8.

The board, after hearing testimony ruled that it was convinced that Prince Khaled committed a foul. The thoroughbred's owner, Gen. W. W. Kratz, filed a protest after the colt was disqualified for interfering with Mr. Sam S. in the six-furlong race.

Longden testified at the hearing that Prince Khaled cut over so sharply on his mount that Mr. Sam S. hit the rail near the three-furlong marker. Mr. Sam S. finished third in the race.

ISLAND DIGEST

ARCTIC SURVIVORS' STORY

'We Were Never Lost'

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. — "We knew where we were—even if nobody else did. We weren't lost."

This is how Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Hunter, Nanaimo fisheries scientists missing for 19 days when two planes were forced down in Canada's sub-Arctic, summed up their nightmare after reaching Yellowknife.

EDMONTON-BOUND

The survivors are scheduled to reach Edmonton today.

Third member of the party is George Gonzales, a pilot from Argentine. Warner is resting at Rayrock property of the Yellowknife Mines Ltd. He'll probably go to Yellowknife today.

It was revealed today Warner and Gonzales tossed a coin to choose who would venture into the bleak unknown to find help.

The Hunters Thursday spoke to Gerry's parents in Edmonton by amateur radio. Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter had gone to Edmonton two weeks ago from New Westminster to be closer to the search centre.

Though all were a little "mike-shy," a bit of humor crept into the radio conversation after assurances that all were well.

CAUGHT 40 FISH

"I'm very proficient at cooking fish, we caught 40 of them," said Mary.

She said they discovered that their rescue was on the seventh-month anniversary of their marriage, only after they reached Yellowknife.

Gerry said they'd be "glad to get out for a while," before he returned to his northern fisheries research. Pilot Gonzales wanted to go back.

"We've got to get the planes out," he said.

They explained that when the planes landed, Warner still had fuel for half an hour and they had used the fuel to take bearing and plot a way out. Gonzales' plane was out of gas.

The three were taken to Yellowknife hospital where Hunter, who has a hand infection, received medical attention. All were in good spirits and looking forward to hot baths and food.

George Gonzales said in an interview that he is unable to explain how the two lost planes got so far off course. He said the party heard planes several times during their isolation but were unable to see the high-flying craft which he beliveed were bound for DEW line sites.

Food dropped to them on the lake ice was a welcome change from the half-fish they allowed themselves daily, caught with a net and eaten without salt.

Purpose of the discussion will be to "try to evaluate what we can do to be better parents in this fast-changing world." PTA program chairman Harley Cherchas will act as moderator. A question period will follow.

Raw Milk Producers Ask Change in Rules

Island Dairymen Protest Today To Agriculture Minister Chetwynd

Raw milk dairy farmers on Vancouver Island are asking the provincial government to exempt them from the new equalization of milk production standards.

"We want exemption because we are operating on a more expensive standard than the fluid milk farmers," A. C. Lambrick, chairman of the producer-vendors' section of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association, said today.

Mr. Lambrick was leading a delegation to the legislative buildings this afternoon to ask Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd for exemption.

"These new standards mean that approved raw milk farmers must produce milk with a lower bacteria count and with other strict standards exceeding those for approved fluid milk farmers, and this is more costly.

"They have put us all together under the new formula. Some farmers have had to pay $50 more a month as a result and they may have to pay much more yet."

Earlier this week, Island dairy farmers said the new price-fixing formula may mean a monthly loss of more than $10,000 to them. They and mainland farmers are meeting next week to discuss the matter.

Meanwhile, the price of a quart of milk has already been boosted by two cents in some centres including Alberni, and in the Fraser Valley.

In Greater Victoria prices are unchanged.

"We have not considered raising prices as yet," a leading Victoria milk distributor said today.

'We Realized We Were Stupid' Says Accused in Cemetery Raid

ALBERNI (CP)—One of four persons charged with offering indignity to a dead human body in an after-dark raid on a cemetery here said they talked later about "how stupid we were."

The girl was committed for trial by judge without jury after her application for re-transfer to juvenile court was turned down. Bail was set at $250.

Charges were laid against Ferguson, the Gibson girl, William Harold Nelson, 18, and Alva Doreen Lochner, 19, after the body of an elderly man was removed from a grave Sept. 23.

Nelson has been sentenced to two years less a day definite and two years less a day indefinite, while the Lochner girl is awaiting trial by judge.

FOOTPRINTS

Constable R. G. Foreman of the RCMP testified that footprints around the open grave and on top of the casket in the grave were within three-eighths of an inch in length of the shoes worn now by the Gibson girl. He said the shoes which made the prints had not been located.

Const. Foreman said the shoes worn by the Lochner girl when she was arrested measured 10 inches in length, while those worn by Jean Gibson were 9⅝ inches in length. The shoes that made the prints were nine inches long.

Nelson, who previously said he did not recall one of the girls being in the grave, said Thursday he recalled that a girl was in the excavation but he could not recall which one.

Defence counsel suggested that subsequent conversation had provided an association of ideas.

Ferguson replied to many of the questions put to him with "I don't know. I don't remember."

RAF's Bader 'The Greatest' Says Sooke Man Who Knew Him

BY AB KENT

Opening of the film "Reach For the Sky" in Victoria today holds special interest for a Sooke High School eacher, ex-Royal Air Force flight lieutenant Joe Jupp.

As one of two other staff officers at the RAF's Eastern Sector Fighter Command headquarters at North Weald, Eng., at the end of the Second World War, F/L Jupp was a right-hand man to commanding officer G-C Douglas Bader, legless fighter pilot hero of the Battle of Britain whose story is told in the film.

A close associate of Bader in the six months they served together until early in 1946, F/L Jupp grew to know well the dynamic commander who achieved "the impossible"—rejoined the RAF as a Hurricane fighter pilot and squadron commander after losing both legs in a plane crash.

Having read the book upon which "Reach For the Sky" is based, F/L Jupp said, "He's certainly the man he's depicted to be and he's the greatest.

"He knew what he wanted to do and he went ahead and did it.

"It's true he rather fancied himself," the ex-officer said, but he could excuse this because Bader kept only the end result in view ". . . and he did it."

For instance, there was the time at North Weald when Jupp's wife was having a baby at a hospital 250 miles from the air station. The officer wanted to be with her as much as possible and requested a plane to fly to her side.

Bader told him he could do what he liked and gave Jupp his Spitfire for the purpose, knowing that the sooner the accouchement was over the sooner Jupp would be back at the station.

Holds Record for Skimming Buckingham Palace

Part of his work was to be responsible for all navigation for the thousands of fighter planes which participated in the victory review fly-past of the RAF's fighter command in May, 1946.

In this connection, F/L Jupp claims to be the pilot to fly lower than anyone over Buckingham Palace.

While laying out the vast navigational plan involving split-second timing for "V" after "V" of aircraft over London, Jupp was tracked by radar in experimental passes over the palace.

There was a strict regulation forbidding planes from flying under several thousand feet in the metropolitan area adjoining Buckingham Palace, but in order to determine the lowest altitude at which planes could be followed on radar screens, Jupp circled lower and lower to less than 500 feet.

His navigation was used in ensuing fly-pasts over London for VE Day and Battle of Britain commemoration long after he retired from the air force.

Teacher Jupp maintains a link with flying by acting as a fighter controller officer with 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, RCAF (Aux.), which will attend the film showing at the Odeon Theatre Monday night.

The squadron has decorated the Odeon lobby with a display of RCAF color photos and flags and will demonstrate operation of a fighter control table to the public each evening before Monday between 7.30 and 9.30.

Soviet Ballet Talks Of U.S. Appearance

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet director, Mikhail Chulaki, announced Thursday there have been "unofficial" discussions about taking the Russian dancers to the United States.

At a press conference in Covent Garden's Royal Opera House here, Chulaki said a trip to the United States "is only an idea—this question has been raised in an unofficial way so far only between theatre people."

The director confirmed that the company will perform at the Paris Opera soon, with only technical details and a date still to be settled.

The Bolshoi dancers opened here Oct. 3—the company's first performance in the West in its 200-year history. When the season closes at Covent Garden, the ballet will perform on three nights—Oct. 31, Nov. 1 and 2—at a theatre in Croydon, a London suburb.

Wednesday night, fans started lining up at Croydon for tickets, although the box office did not open until this morning.

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS: Oscar-winner Ernest Borgnine says he's not bitter in his lawsuit to break his contract with Hecht-Lancaster. "Marty" claims he was paid only $1,500 out of the $75,000 Hecht-Lancaster received for his loan-out to star in "The Best Things in Life Are Free." Now it's freedom Borgnine is after, although he admitted to me:

Elvis Presley Wins Decision In Fist Flurry

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Teenage idol Elvis Presley engaged in a fast fistfight with a service station manager Thursday, leaving the latter with a black eye that "looked like a travelling bag."

Presley, manager Ed Hopper, 42, and a late comer to the fight, Aubrey Brown, 21, all were charged with assault and battery and disorderly conduct. They were released on bail of $52 each.

Witnesses said the trouble started when Presley, home from his rock 'n' roll tours, stopped at the station in his sleek, white automobile and asked Hopper to check the gas tank for leaks.

A crowd, drawn by the sideburned singer and the $10,000 car, began to gather. Traffic was blocked. Hopper finally asked Presley to take himself off so the station could get back to normal operation.

A witness, Harvey Huff, told police that Presley, seated in the car signing autographs, agreed to move on but delayed to oblige pressing fans. Huff said Hopper then slapped Presley on the back of the head and said:

"I said move on."

ALD. AUSTIN CURTIS TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

First announced contender in the December civic election in Victoria is Ald. Austin I. Curtis who said today he will stand for re-election.

He is the only one of four members of the nine-man city council whose terms expire this year, to have reached decision on another term.

If Ald. Curtis is re-elected, it will be to a second two-year term. Previously he served 12 years on the school board, latterly as chairman.

There is no mayoralty race this year, Mayor Percy Scurrah having started a two-year term last December.

Other aldermen whose terms in office end in December are Ald. Robert Macmillan, Ald. Arthur Dowell and Ald. J. D. Smith. Ald. Smith was recently elected to the B.C. legislature.

Youth Wanted Here Sentenced in U.S.

Sought in Knife-Throwing Spree, Curran Jailed One to 15 Years

A 19-year-old Victoria youth, sought by Saanich police for a knife-throwing episode in a Burnside Road home two weeks ago and subsequently arrested in a stolen car in California, has been sentenced in the U.S. for burglary.

Saanich deputy police chief Bert Pearson said today he had been notified through the RCMP that Ronald Curran, 69 Menzies, had been sentenced in Eli, Nevada, to one to 15 years in prison for first-degree burglary.

The same sentence was received by two other youths, one of them a deserter from the Gordon Head army camp, who were picked up with Curran and two juvenile girls from Victoria in Bishop, Calif.

The missing soldier was identified as Ted Stevens and the third youth only as White, who it is believed may have come originally from Victoria.

ADMITTED GUILT

The trio was transferred by U.S. authorities from Bishop to Eli, Nevada, where they pleaded guilty to the burglary charge. Details of the case were not known.

The two girls, previously described as "incorrigibles," will be returned to the border where they will be picked up by Canadian officials.

The group was stopped by police in Bishop driving a car with Manitoba licence plates. It is believed the car was previously stolen by someone else in Quebec.

Curran, with a previous local criminal record, was wanted in connection with an incident in a Burnside Avenue home when a group of four youths hurled knives into doors and woodwork.

Two of the youths have been arrested and sentenced after pleading guilty.

SENTENCED

Brian Tennyson, 18, 1575 Clawthorpe, was sentenced in Saanich court Thursday to three months definite and six months indeterminate in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla. He was given the same sentence, concurrent, for stealing a radio from the house.

Garith Clouston, 18, 2247 McCoy, was given a six-months' suspended sentence for his part in the incident.

Beer Glass Reduction Protested

British Columbia government officials and Victoria hotel owners generally are opposed to cutting the amount of beer in a 10-cent glass, as recommended by the B.C. Hotels Association at its convention in Vancouver.

And many customers say they will "cut out" beer altogether if they get any less.

"As it is the beer they serve doesn't come anywhere near the top of the glass," a Victoria truck driver said. "If they make it any smaller it won't be worth buying."

A government spokesman said he believed the government would oppose any such reduction and would be unlikely to approve any hike in the price unless the size of the glass were increased.

NO NEED

Two Victoria hotel owners said they saw "no need" for any reduction in the amount of beer served under present conditions.

"I cannot see why there should be any change," said James Neely, proprietor of the Douglas Hotel. Another hotel owner who did not wish to be named, said he believed any further reduction would drive customers away.

"Unless costs go up a lot more I do not think we need reduce the present measure," he said. "We get enough complaints as it is."

Art Gallery Given $2,000 by Koerners

The Art Gallery of Greater Victoria has received word from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation of Vancouver it has been awarded a grant of $2,000 to be applied to three educational projects over the next 12 months.

The first of these will be a lecture and art workshop program in which a number of artists and lecturers will be invited to give talks and short courses at the gallery in the fields of both the arts and the crafts.

An art slide collection also will be formed covering all aspects of world art, architecture, sculpture, and the so-called minor arts. This collection will be used in the gallery's regular lecture programs and also will be offered for the use of art teachers in the Greater Victoria schools.

The third project will be devoted to the organization and development of the Children's Gallery.

Art Gallery officials, who regard the educational side of the gallery's work as being of key importance in its contributions to the city, are gratified at the prospect of the substantial expansion of these services the grant will make possible.

"We feel fortunate," said Curator Colin Graham, "in benefiting to such an extent from the vision and generosity which led Mr. and Mrs. Koerner to create their remarkable foundation, the effects of whose contributions soon will be very apparent in the cultural life of the province."

To Attend Parley

Carpenters' union international representative for Vancouver Island, Victor Midgley will attend the union's 75th anniversary conference in Washington, D.C., Oct. 23. He leaves Victoria Saturday.

BETWEEN TIMES
By
MONTE ROBERTS

I see where a gentleman from Montreal was in town yesterday, looking for writers.

In fact, the gentleman said he was looking for the best writers in Canada.

The reason he was looking for the best writers is, he intends to start a magazine.

And this magazine, according to the gentleman from Montreal, is to be slanted for a "sophisticated" audience.

Well, can you imagine that!

A gentleman in town from Montreal, looking for writers for a sophisticated audience, and he didn't even look me up.

I am the best writer I know, for a sophisticated audience, and I can prove it.

I can prove it by page 1,946 of the Shorter Oxford English dictionary:

SOPHISTICATED: 1. Mixed with some foreign substance; adulterated; not pure or genuine. 2. Altered from, deprived of, primitive simplicity or naturalness. 3. Falsified in a greater or less degree.

With an audience like that, and writing like mine, how could the gentleman from Montreal miss?

He and I should get along well for another reason. I, too, often use words the meaning of which I don't clearly understand.

Sudden thought: One reason some women don't keep up with the Joneses is, they are too busy trying to keep up with the dishes.

Somebody on this paper missed a bet yesterday.

Under the picture of the cats, which are being cared for by a kind-hearted lady prior to their adoption by other kind-hearted ladies, should have been this caption:

If you'd like a fine feline for your home, telephone 4-9692. Ask for Kitty. (If a dog answers, hang up.)

CANADA'S FIRST WOMAN SENATOR, Hon. Cairine Reay Wilson is in Victoria until Monday visiting daughters, Mrs. Alan Gill, Pedder Bay, and Mrs. J. R. Davies, Royal Roads. She is accompanied by daughter Cairine. She was called to the senate in 1930. Her father, Hon. Robert Mackay was a senator and her husband, Norman F. Wilson, a member of Parliament.

Holiday For Most On Nov. 12

Because Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, falls on a Sunday this year, the next day, Monday, will be a provincial holiday.

City businesses and stores will be closed, along with provincial government offices. Banks have not yet received directives whether they will be open or shut. It is likely federal government offices will be open.

Victoria Remembrance Day services will be held at the Cenotaph at 11 a.m., Nov. 11.

Elsewhere in Canada it is a matter of "local option" whether or not services be held in the morning or afternoon. Afternoon commemoration was suggested by the Canadian Legion in Ottawa so as not to conflict with morning church services that date.

In 1915 Remembrance Day fell on a Sunday, in 1945 and in 1951.

In addition to services and a parade in Victoria, details to be worked out later, there will also be services at Oak Bay, Langford, Sooke, Sidney and Esquimalt. There will be special services at St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Poppy Day will be Saturday, Nov. 10.

Logger Fired At Twice, Says Lawyer

Two shots were fired by 58-year-old Frank Joseph Miller at a Jordan River logger working on a boom, Crown prosecutor A. deB. McPhillips told a 12-man jury in Criminal Assize Court today.

Miller, a bridgeman, is standing trial on a charge of discharging a firearm with intent to wound Douglas Carl Slater, an employee of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber Co., at Jordan River on May 18.

In opening the case against the accused, Mr. McPhillips said the Crown alleged that Miller first approached Slater in the company's boom shack and tried to strike him with his fist.

Slater, the lawyer said, got away, but Miller followed him and then attempted to strike him with a piece of lumber with a nail or spike attached.

The Crown counsel said that evidence would be submitted to show that when this attack failed, Miller got into his car and drove to his home and got his shotgun.

"He came out with a shotgun and proceeded to fire at Slater," said Mr. McPhillips. "Then he reloaded and fired again."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—When did Croesus live? He is usually referred to as one of the richest of men?—O.M.

A.—His life story is given in brief by the Encyclopaedia Britannica as follows: "Croesus, the last king of Lydia, of the Mermad dynasty (560-546 B.C.), succeeded his father Alyattes after a war with his half-brother. He completed the conquest of Ionia by capturing Ephesus, Miletus and other places, but lack of sea power forced him to give up his project of subduing the islands, whom he enlisted as allies. He also allied himself with Sparta, and extended the Lydian empire as far as the Halys. His wealth, due to trade, was proverbial. He also was a client of the oracle at Delphi."

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Fruit Cakes, Cherry Cakes Come in Ready-Mix Packages

By PENNY SAVER

Many people start quite early to bake Christmas fruit and cherry cakes for the festive season. If you'd like to have a fruit cake for next weekend or the one after that, you will be happy to find that you don't have to get in loads and loads of supplies and don't have to spend a lot of time mixing and measuring for there's wonderful fruit cake mix on the market. An all-time and anytime favorite, fruit cake can be made in no time at all. This mix is 75 cents. A cherry pound cake mix is the same price.

Macaroon cookies always taste good and are certainly the youngsters' favorite. A quickie mix is the short-cut here, too. A batch of 32 cookies comes from one of these packages which sells for 35 cents.

On the vegetable market I noticed a new way of buying potatoes. If you find a bag of potatoes a bit unwieldy to carry, the handy "carry-me-home" box with handles will suit you. This box is 59 cents. Other potatoes are 55 cents for 10 pounds of new ones or 59 cents for the 10-pound plastic sack.

A vegetable that's a bit different is the egg plant. It can be fried or served stuffed with a meat or vegetable filling. They are 23 cents a pound. Chard is 13 cents a pound, and leeks are 15 cents. Red cabbage is 10 cents a pound and the cabbage's little relatives, the sprouts are 25 cents a pound. Marrow is six cents a pound, and Danish squash is nine cents.

Tomatoes for salads or for cooking are 19 cents a pound. Two bunches of green onions are 13 cents, as are radishes.

Halloween is just around the corner, and so will be the neighborhood children looking for treats. You'll not have much difficulty finding interesting candies and novelties for the youngsters, for the town's overflowing with orange and black goodies.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About golden wedding gift:

We have been invited to a golden wedding reception for a couple whom we don't know very well. I am concerned about gift obligations. They are well supplied with worldly goods and expect to be moving soon to smaller quarters which necessitates disposing of many of their possessions. It seems impractical under the circumstances that they might have a new load of possessions as a result of the anniversary party. What do you suggest we do?

Louise Davis

Louise Davis answers:

It is too bad that golden wedding couples wanting little or nothing can't have inscribed on the invitations, "Please don't send a gift." Many of them feel that way, but do not want to forego a party because of it.

You must weigh the situation from all angles. I think in your case a card of congratulations or a telegram would be sufficient. But if you still do not want to go empty handed, you can send flowers or a plant.

Friends and relatives who are constantly in touch with the celebrating couple have a pretty good idea what might be needed as replacements. For them the decision and selecting are much simpler.

Q.—"I am 16 years old, 5 feet 3 and weigh 115 pounds. My measurements are bust 34½, waist 24½, hips 37. Please give me some hip-reducing exercises. Do you think I am too big for my height?

A.—No. You do need to lose an inch from your hips. If you or any of my readers would like to have my hip-reducing exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. I have recently given some in this column.

Q.—"Will you please tell me what is wrong with my figure? I am 26 years old and have three children living and four dead. I am medium-boned, 5 feet 2½, and weigh 115 pounds. My measurements are bust 34, waist 25½ and hips 36 inches. My husband tells me that I am too fat but I think I am just about right. Who is wrong?"

A.—Your husband is wrong and must be hard to please. Actually you are somewhat underweight, at least five younds. Your measurements are good and you are to be congratulated on having such a nice figure especially after having had so many children.

Q.—"Will you please tell me if I am underweight? Some say I am but I am small boned. I am 5 feet 4 and weigh 117 pounds."

A.—If you have a very small frame you are not much underweight, only a few pounds.

Q.—"Will you please tell me how many calories an average housewife should have a day in order to lose from 10 to 15 pounds in a month?"

A.—A calorie intake of from 1,200 to 1,400 a day should give you a loss of about 10 pounds in a month. Of course individuals vary some in the amount they lose on the same calorie count.

Q.—"I am 21 years old, 5 feet 1 inch tall and weigh 116 pounds. My bust measures 32, waist 25, and hips 35 inches. Please tell me how my measurements can be improved and if I should lose weight."

A.—Take bust developing and waist and hip-slimming exercises in order to bring your measurements nearer perfection. You might also lose four or five pounds.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 7 on bust-developing exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Effects of Atomic Energy On Civilization Described

The place of atomic energy in a peacetime world and the pressing need for trained scientists to develop this atomic power were forcefully presented to members of the University Women's Club of Victoria at their meeting Wednesday evening.

Speaker was Dr. G. S. Schrum, head of the department of physics at University of British Columbia.

Dr. Schrum told of strides made in the preservation of foods through use of atomic energy. "Much of the enormous wastage of foods between producer and consumer can be prevented by irradiation," he pointed out. "Moreover, since radiation produces mutations in some seeds, improved crops can be expected.

"Estimates show that since 1943 half the irreplaceable sources of energy such as coal, oil, gas, have been consumed," Dr. Schrum said. "It appears that within 50 years all the old sources will be exhausted, so the discovery of atomic energy has come at a crucial moment in modern history."

The uranium and thorium supply will produce 23 times the amount of energy received from all the old sources of coal, oil and gas. "And if, in 200 years, the supply of uranium should become exhausted, man has still the unimagined possibilities of heavy hydrogen, the supply of which is unlimited."

TRAINED MINDS

In the past, Dr. Schrum said, great discoveries have been made by men of little scientific training. Today that is impossible. "Even now the work of developing atomic power is seriously hampered by lack of trained men. If we are to maintain our present standard we must educate every child in the schools to the limit of his or her capacity.

"The unskilled job for which a lad leaves school today will, in 10 or 15 years, no longer exist."

"Our country is changing from a rural society exploiting our natural resources to a highly complex society dependent upon automation. The world into which we were born is gone. As our grandparents could not imagine the world in which we live, we can have no conception of the world in which our grandchildren will live."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. H. D. Gibb and thanked by Mrs. H. L. McIntyre.

NEW MEMBERS

Mrs. M. F. Smith presided. Miss K. B. Youdall introduced the following new members: Mrs. J. H. Dickinson, Mrs. Daryl Elford, Mrs. P. S. Henderson, Mrs. I. M. Horne, Mrs. R. M. Johns, Mrs. J. A. Henning-Dunbar Marriage Vows In Ceremony in Oakville, Ont.

A wedding of interest to Victoria took place this afternoon in Knox Presbyterian Church in Oakville, Ont., when Miss Diane Ella Dunbar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Roy Dunbar of Oakville, became the bride of Dr. James Newton Henning, of Grimsby, Ont., son of Mrs. Henning, 942 Rockland Avenue, Victoria, and the late J. N. Henning.

Dr. C. K. Nicoll officiated at the ceremony in a setting of white chrysanthemums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and chose for the ceremony a gown of chalk white delustred slipper satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline highlighted with Alencon lace. The sleeves were long and the gracefully styled full skirt extended into a cathedral train. A headdress of matching lace held her two-tier French tulle illusion veil. Her bridal bouquet was a crescent of white flowers.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Gerald Hillis; bridesmaid, Miss Phyllis Gunning, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Sylvia Dunbar, sister of the bride, were gowned in waltz-length dresses of silk taffeta in a rosé-quartz shade. The gowns featured fitted bodices, three-quarter-length shirred sleeves and full, crinolined skirts with matching satin looped sashes and satin leaf headdresses. The groom had Dr. Hugh Donald Westgate of Vancouver as best man and ushers were Dr. Gerald R. Green and Carlyle Dunbar, the bride's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Henning will live in Grimsby, Ont. The bride is a graduate of Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, and Hamilton General School of Nursing.

Dorothy Stark supervises blindfolded reporter cooking.

'THE CHEF' GETS SIDE ORDER OF HUMILITY

BY DINAH KERR

I admit it—I've always bragged about my cooking.

"Me? Dinah 'The Chef' Kerr?" I've said. "I could cook blindfolded."

The other night—blindfolded and humble—I ate my words with a side order of my own dreadful cooking.

I had accepted an invitation of Miss Dorothy Stark, field secretary of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, to "learn to cook as the blind women do."

Financed by the Community Chest, the institute sends members to all parts of the Island to each newly-blinded women techniques of cooking in the dark. Miss Stark has been with the CNIB since 1930 and covers the area south of Nanaimo.

MY DOWNFALL

A bright-eyed little woman, she met me at the door and guided me into the kitchen where I met her housekeeper Miss Gladys Dighton and, eventually, my downfall.

"We asked one blind boy how to tell when a cup is full and he said 'It's easy — when the cup's almost empty it goes 'O-o-o,' and when it's full it goes 'E-e-e'.'"

"If the radio is on and the house is too noisy, you put one finger at the edge of the cup to feel when the liquid reaches the top.

HAND-TEST

"When a blind woman is baking she must gauge the heat of the oven by the hand-test," said Miss Stark.

Length of baking may be timed by a Braille watch or a Braille timer that rings a bell when time's up.

Braille labels are used to identify bottled fruits, coffee, tea and cooking ingredients.

All these items may be purchased at cost from the CNIB.

Then I gave the battlefield one final sweeping glance and everything went black. I was blindfolded.

"The frying pan is on the stove, dear," said Miss Stark. "And here is the egg. Fry it."

"Where is the stove?" I asked, falling forward a few steps.

In my other hand, she placed a knife and a turner.

"Shall I hold the egg while you butter the pan," offered Miss Stark.

I handed it to her. There was a distinct crack as egg met stove.

Miss Stark had made her one and only fumble of the evening. It wasn't until then that I realized she was totally blind.

EGG RESCUED

Miss Stark rescued the egg while I stuck one forefinger into the butter.

To triumphant cries on all sides, I smeared the butter in the frying pan, and after very little fumbling was again in possession of the egg.

Working strictly from sound ("No, no!" cried Miss Dighton, "A little to the left!"), I dropped the egg into the pan.

Now it was time to brew the tea. The idea is to put the teapot into a pan to catch drips and then pour in the hot water.

I began to pour, one ear cocked for "O-o-o-s."

"You're pouring it into the pan, dear," Miss Dighton said gently.

Miss Stark spoke reassuringly, but I didn't hear her. Somehow I cornered the egg and hoisted it onto a plate.

I poured the tea, and managed to be pretty sloppy.

Kremlin Protests British Order Detaining Child

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia Thursday protested to Britain that two-year-old Tatiana Chwastov, brought from the United States by her Russian father last week, has not been allowed to leave Britain for the Soviet Union.

A foreign office spokesman said the protest was made by Alexei Roshchin, the Soviet charge d'affaires to Anthony Nutting, minister of state.

Tatiana and her father, 58-year-old Alexis Chwastov, were prevented from sailing to Russia last Friday when lawyers obtained a court order making the child a ward of the British High Court.

They are now in the Russian Embassy.

GUEST SOLOIST AT SYMPHONY THIS WEEKEND

Life Is 'Sea of Contradictions' For Famed Canadian Cello Artist

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON
Times Music Critic

The life of Zara Nelsova is a sea of contradictions through which she apparently skims with ease, propelled by a tremendous store of vital energy which is reflected in her sparkling blue eyes and arresting personality.

Devoted to her fabulous Guarnarius 'cello, the world-famed artist yet finds it a burdensome companion; hating travelling alone, she covered a total of 40,000 miles last year—in solo.

This distinguished artist will be guest soloist with Victoria Symphony Orchestra, playing Dvorak's great 'cello concerto in B minor at this weekend's pair of concerts.

NO NIBHT OWL

An early riser—she is wide awake at 6.45 a.m.—it follows that she is no night owl, yet concert schedules keep her up till midnight and after.

"If only I could give my concerts first thing in the morning," she laughs, "I would play like an angel."

The practically unrivalled success of her career so far, and the major body of critical opinion concerning her, indicated that that is exactly how she does play, even though evening concerts are the rule.

Zara Nelsova, who has played with all the great symphony orchestras on this continent and in Europe, made her Canadian debut at the age of five before an audience of 3,500. At 10 the Winnipeg-born girl, with her parents and piano and violin-playing sisters, moved to England.

HARD WORK

"In England for a year I stayed out of school and studied 'cello," Nelsova recalls. "I practised six hours a day with a five-minute break at the end of each hour—nothing but technique. It was hard!"

Nelsova made her European debut as a soloist at the age of 13, playing the Lalo Concerto with the London Symphony, directed by Sir Malcolm Sargent. She is a favorite artist among leading composers when it comes to recording their compositions for her instrument.

The American composer, Samuel Barber, expressly designated Nelsova as the artist to record his concerto and while she was doing this for London Decca, a—literally—stunning incident took place.

Sessions for the recording were long and exhausting, and at the end of one of the worst, a cellist from the orchestra suddenly sprang up, screaming that it was no use his continuing to play and swinging his cello with both hands, smashed it to kindling against some railings.

Nelsova was so shocked by the outburst that she hid her face in her hands and it was only when the orchestra burst into laughter that the truth came out.

So impressed had the orchestra members been by her tremendous performance that they had all chipped in and bought a cheap cello for the demonstration in her honor.

"It was most sincere," she says, "but the shock put me in bed for a couple of days just the same."

Nelsova makes her home in San Francisco, but is only there for short periods of every year. The tall, golden-haired young woman has a vista of solid bookings through to May of 1958. They include Great Britain and Europe, and a return to South America, where the success of a recent seven-months tour brought an enthusiastic invitation for a second engagement.

In that connection, Nelsova's eyes sparkled with humor as she recalls the reception she got in Rio de Janiero. The incident she describes as a success course in one easy lesson.

When she appeared on stage for her recital the ovation was tremendous and went on until she began to wonder if there would be any music played that night.

Eventually the audience quietened down but after each group, the same wild cheering and applause went on for minutes. Finally she was put wise to the reason.

Her gown of green and gold carried out the colors of the Brazilian flag and was taken as an ambassadorial gesture of goodwill by her audience.

All Nelsova's traveling is done by air.

FIRST MAJOR STORM LASHES B.C. COAST

Red Timbermen Held 'Threats'

LABRIEVILLE, Que. (CP) — Pat Walsh, secretary of the (Pan-Canadian Anti-Communist League and one-time fellow-traveller of Communist groups, charged today that two of the seven Soviet lumber experts touring Canada post a "vital threat" to Canada's internal security.

In a statement issued here he named them as G. M. Orlov, Soviet lumber minister, and L. V. Roos, timber research director.

The Walsh statement said the two Soviet officials interviewed Bruce Magnuson, member of the Labor-Progressive Communist party in Moscow in 1951, and that Magnuson was instructed to tell Canadian Communists to set the forests afire in the event of war with Russia.

SABOTAGE ORDERS

In 1953 when Walsh announced his resignation from a number of Communist-front organizations, he said the Canadian Woodworkers' Union, of which he was a former organizer, had received orders from Moscow to prepare to dynamite hydro-electric plants and set forest fires if Canada and Russia were at war. He said sabotage orders had been given Magnuson "during his recent visit to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics." Magnuson, at Port Arthur, termed the statements "all nonsense . . . inflammatory fabrications . . . attempts at character assassination as a means of political terror."

Walsh was the first to make the disclosure last month of an

They are near the end of a tour of Canada's major timber producing areas.

Spurning sheltered spots on the vast booming ground, the Russians, all officials of the timber ministry except for their interpreter, travelled the catwalks overlooking the installa-

Mayor Studies Judge's Ruling On Detectives

Mayor Percy Scurrah said today he will discuss with police chief John Blackstock whether disciplinary action will be taken against two Victoria detectives criticized in assize court Thursday.

The mayor, speaking as chairman of the Victoria police commission, said he could not discuss the matter until he had seen the chief.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson ruled Detectives Ray Maitland and Richard Perry went beyond their power in questioning a suspect with regard to breaking and entering of Goodwill Bottling Company, Aug. 16.

"I don't want to restrict the police in their right to question suspects," said Mr. Justice Wilson, "but I think they went too far in this case."

The judge said it was the duty of the courts to protect citizens from being unfairly questioned.

Ike Bangs Away At H-Bomb Issue

PORTLAND (AP)—President Eisenhower, still banging away at Adlai Stevenson's military draft and H-bomb views, travelled to California today "to continue to lay the facts on the line."

The Eisenhower campaign line was seen as a tactical victory for Democrat Adlai Stevenson. It now is clear Stevenson is going to get his desire to make a major election campaign issue out of the controversial H-bomb tests.

BACK AT SUBJECT

President Eisenhower, who last week said he was through talking about the tests, Thursday night took up the subject again with a resounding salvo at Stevenson's views.

Stevenson has come out repeatedly for negotiations toward an international ban on hydrogen bomb tests. He has coupled this stand with a plea for less "wasteful" methods of building up the U.S. armed forces than the current military draft.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty today indicated Eisenhower will fire another salvo of criticism at the democratic presidential nominee in a major address in Los Angeles' Hollywood Bowl tonight (8.30 p.m., PST, on TV and radio).

City Pilots Rescue U.S. Yacht, Crew

Coastal shipping scurried for shelter today as gale-force winds lashed the Greater Victoria area and the entire B.C. coast in the first major wind and rain storm of the season.

A Port Angeles yacht was saved from serious trouble two miles off Ogden Point Breakwater by prompt co-operation between B.C. Pilotage Authority station on Dallas Road and Port Angeles coast guard.

Falling branches knocked out electrical power when lead-in lines broke to some homes in the south Vancouver Island area.

B.C. Telephone reported minor cable trouble due to rain and wind in Sidney, Albion, Colquitz and some Victoria exchanges.

And autumn leaves were shaken loose to cover lawns and gardens, ankle-deep in many cases.

Air-sea rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver reported all small craft safely in sheltered waters due to early posting of gale warnings.

Wallowed Helplessly in High Sea

Bound for Victoria, the Gloria hit heavy weather about 10 a.m. The fuel line plugged and the engine conked out.

The cruiser wallowed helplessly in heavy seas as the owner, C. C. Tozier, attempted to make emergency repairs.

But the rolling action of the seas spilled sediment into the fuel, and Mr. Tozier used his radio-telephone to call the Port Angeles coast guard, which is tuned to the frequency used by the Gloria.

The coast guard telephoned B.C. Pilotage station, and learned that the Gloria's call for aid had been monitored via Gordon Head wireless.

B.C. Pilot Launch No. 1 was already on the way.

A tow line was affixed, and the Gloria was brought in to Fisherman's Wharf. Mr. Tozier planned to have engine repairs made today, and to wait out the storm here.

The Dominion weather office at Victoria said gale warnings would remain up today, with possible moderation of wind expected this evening. But the Pacific storm which is lashing the coast shows no signs of abating immediately.

Britain, Soviet Back Jordan in UN Protest

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Jordan won quick support from Britain and the Soviet Union today after charging Israel with unprovoked aggression and calling for strong UN penalties.

The two countries took Jordan's side after hearing Israel defend her position and blame the Jordan government for the current border clashes. Israel said the incidents would end any time Jordan wanted peace.

Both Britain and Russia praised Jordan for her restraint. Russia also strongly condemned Israel for alleged violations of the UN charter and the cease-fire agreements.

The council will continue the debate next week at a date to be announced later.

Civic Heads Approve B.C.'s 'Metro' Plans

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirty municipal officials from Victoria and the lower mainland gave general approval today to a draft of legislation providing for metropolitan government.

The officials attended a closed meeting in Vancouver City Hall. The legislation is enclosed in a proposed revision of the Municipal Act.

The new act would enable municipalities to put essential services — including fire and police protection, sewage and water, health, trunk highways, and town planning—under a metropolitan system.

Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black said he could not reveal details of the meeting but that proposals were basically the same as those he outlined at Prince George a year ago.

The Prince George proposals provided for metropolitan government following a plebiscite. The vote would be ordered after the cabinet received a petition from two or more municipalities, one of them the largest in the metropolitan area, or 10 per cent of the ratepayers of those municipalities.

A metropolitan council would then be established and additional municipalities could join the system by petitioning.

City Golfers Hail 'The Hagen Story'

Top local golfers today welcomed the Times plan to run the life story of Walter Hagen, the colorful and famous U.S. professional. "The Walter Hagen Story" starts in the Times Saturday, appearing daily.

Hagen twice played exhibitions in Victoria.

Veteran Willingdon Cup star and former city champion, Bob Morrison said, "It will be great to read Hagen's complete life story because I was so impressed when I met and played against him (20 years ago). He was a magnificent player, had great competitive spirit and the most intense concentration I have ever seen."

Victoria Golf Club pro. Phil Taylor, said, "It will be a great treat for local golfers and golf fans to read the story. I met Haig and played against him. He had it all—skill, color and the guts of a lion."

WALTER HAGEN

Walter Gravlin, Uplands Golf Club pro, said, "Hagen played at our course about 27 years ago and I'll never forget him and his great golf."

tion and, according to one witness, "knew what they were looking at."

Since heavy rain forced a closure of the woods operations, the party could not see logs dumped, but they saw a few made up into bundles wrapped by cable and made ready for towing.

Highlight of the trip for Mr. Orlov and two of his companions was a brief ride in the "bull pen" aboard a 16-foot boom boat, one of the marine "bulldozers" used in sorting logs.

The visitors were forced to hang on as the nimble boat herded a number of logs together and pushed them into the bundling machine.

KEEN INTEREST

"It's difficult to know what they think of things because they speak very little English," a member of the welcoming party said, "but there is a lot of talking and pointing going on. They seem to be keenly interested in what they see."

Wearing only topcoats, the Russians soon were dripping wet, but they made a complete inspection of the ground before leaving.

Meanwhile one of the 17 Canadian lumbermen in their party bought out a local store's supply of plastic raincoats to wear for the remainder of the day's tour.

They felt by bus for Mesachie Lake and a tour of the Hillcrest Lumber Co. Ltd. sawmill, luncheon at the company cookhouse, and, weather permitting, a visit to the company's logging operations.

Host at Ladysmith was Bill Chalmers, superintendent, and the party was greeted at Hillcrest by company president Hector Stone, who recently completed a tour of the Russian forest industry.

ENJOYING TRIP

"They are an affable crowd," an official said. "They are dressed just like any Canadian businessmen except for their safety hats and rubber boots donned for today's trip. And they certainly seemed to be enjoying themselves."

The party will arrive in Victoria at 6 p.m. today for a provincial government dinner to be tendered in the Empress Hotel at 7.30 p.m.

Among those present will be Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks and about 35 guests, mostly from Victoria lumber industries.

The Russian party will stay overnight, leaving at 8 a.m. to see operation of the B.C. Forest Service experimental station at Cowichan Lake. The group then will proceed to Harmac pulp mill at Nanaimo and then to Vancouver in the afternoon where they will see the B.C. Lions play.

attempt by a Soviet diplomat to bribe a Canadian air station clerk. The diplomat, second secretary of the Russian embassy, was ejected from the country and the clerk was dismissed.

In his statement today Walsh said Orlov worked for a while "in conspiratorial activities of the Comintern" and that Roos "is a high MVD official whose task is to ensure a continual flow of slave labor to the central timber administration of western Siberia and the Urals."

The justice department, external affairs department and RCMP said, when questioned today, they had no knowledge of the Walsh charges and would not comment immediately.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

ALMIGHTY LORD, in whom there is no darkness at all, let Your light flow into our lives in a great, rich, full-hearted experience so we may have wisdom and sympathy and understanding — and an immeasurable inspiration to faith in Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

SOMMERS-STURDY TRIAL SCHEDULED FOR JAN. 8

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hearing of a slander action taken by Robert Sommers, former lands and forests minister, against Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy, will start in Supreme Court here Jan. 8, 1957.

The action resulted from statements made by Mr. Sturdy before the Sloan Forestry Commission in December, 1955.

Alfred Bull, counsel for Mr. Sommers, said opening of the hearing would not affect the hearing in November of an appeal against a ruling allowing Mr. Sturdy to examine certain bank account items in connection with the case.

H-Bomb Tests Vital U.S. Atom Chief Says

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—U.S. atomic chief Lewis L. Strauss said today hydrogen bomb tests must be continued not only to assure new weapons but to provide data for civilian survival under enemy attack.

Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, in a speech prepared for a joint U.S.-Canadian civil defence committee meeting, made no mention of Adlai Stevenson's proposal that the U.S. take the lead in seeking an end to H-bomb tests.

Without the tests, he added, U.S. "defences would deteriorate, both in terms of civil defence and in the weapons which we need to repel any nuclear aggression."

Without referring to Stevenson, Strauss said:

"Exposure to radioactivity, as a vague, unproven danger to generations yet unborn, must be weighed against the more immediate and infinitely greater dangers of defeat and perhaps of obliteration at the hands of an enemy who possesses nuclear weapons of mass destruction.

FLEMING THROWS HAT IN CONSERVATIVE RING

John Diefenbaker, member of Parliament for Prince Albert, and Davie Fulton, member for Kamloops, both expressed willingness earlier to contest the leadership.

Fleming told today's press conference that he believes it "a great exaggeration that Mr. Diefenbaker has obtained 80 per cent of the party's caucus support."

CHANCES 'ALMOST ZERO'

Last-Ditch Search For Missing Hiker

NORTH VANCOUVER — A hand-picked search party renewed the hunt today for a man lost since Sunday on storm-lashed Mount Seymour. His chances of survival were considered "almost zero."

Alex Patterson, 24, is the last member of an ill-fated three-man hiking party. The body of Gordon McFarlane, 27, was found Thursday and Robert Duncan, 23, reached safety by himself Wednesday.

The three, all of whom came from Scotland within the last three years, ran into trouble on the mist-shrouded mountain while they were out for a Sunday hike.

STUMBLES TO SAFETY

Duncan, who managed to find his way to safety although suffering from exposure, reported the death of McFarlane.

The body was found by searchers headed by William Angus. It was to be brought out today.

Duncan attributed McFarlane's death to fear for his wife's peace of mind.

He recalled that McFarlane leaped suddenly from their shelter in the cave, "mumbled a few words about getting back to his wife, and started down the mountain alone Monday morning.'

His body was found where Duncan had stumbled upon it Tuesday. He died at the 2300-foot level within sight of a gravelled water board road.

Searchers believe he had fallen from a cliff and was drowned while unconscious in the stream. His forehead was deeply gashed.

The party pressed on to the spot where Duncan had left the exhausted Patterson in a cave under a blanket of leaves. But he had disappeared and searchers speculated that he had wandered away in hopes of getting down from the mountain.

"His chances aren't good, in fact, they're almost zero," said Angus. "He had only light clothing, no food and wasn't able to light a fire to keep warm."

Angus said his party encountered "thunderstorms, a terrific hailstorm and rainstorms. We were freezing cold so what chance would Patterson have after five days?"

Some members of the search party described the area as the most treacherous country they had ever entered.

Air force para-rescue trooper John Franks said: "We never touched solid ground during our climb. The slopes were loose rock, as slippery as glass.

"If we don't find Patterson today, I doubt if we'll ever find him."

ARSON HINTED IN FIRE DEATHS

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—Three University of Idaho students died today in an early-morning dormitory fire and officials said it may have been murder by arson.

Two of the students were trapped in a hallway and burned to death in Gault Hall, a new $500,000 dormitory housing 130 men. The other sought refuge in a shower room and suffocated.

It was the fourth dormitory fire in a week on the campus and aroused university officials and police started an intensive investigation.

France Seizes Algeria-Bound Egyptian Arms

ORAN, Algeria (CP)—French authorities charged Thursday that $2,000,000 worth of arms they captured on the yacht Athos was loaded at Alexandria by Egyptian army volunteers and was destined for Algerian rebels.

One official said the seizure shows clearly the support Egypt is giving the nationalist insurgents.

The 400-ton Athos, which the French said once was a minesweeper with the Canadian navy, was reported to have been intercepted Wednesday by the French escort vessel Commandant de Pimodan off the port of Nemours, Western Algeria.

An admiralty spokesman in Paris said the Athos was flying no national flag when intercepted. The yacht's captain was described in one report as being of British origin while another said the craft was under command of an Italian carrying both Greek and Costa Rican passports.

Crew members were Italians and Moslems and Agence France-Presse said portraits of Stalin and Egyptian President Nasser were found in the yacht's cabins.

The French unloaded 70 tons of arms, including 1,000 rifles, new British Bren guns, 500 late-model Italian machine pistols, 50 Canadian mortars and 1,000 cases of grenades and ammunition. There were also some German light machine guns and Dutch and Belgian weapons, the French said.

The French said the Athos was built originally as a pleasure yacht and was known as the Saint-Briavels.

Lion Cub Nibbles Princess

The princess, beginning the last week of her East African tour, tapped her fingers on the arms of her chair in time with the throbbing African music at the Royal Agricultural Show here.

"How sweet," the princess said. She gently stroked the cub, whose eyes had just opened and whose legs were still weak.

a hot and tough battle against the Democrats. Eisenhower carried the state in 1952, but Stevenson forces feel they have a good chance to win it this year.

"The President plans to continue to lay the facts of the campaign on the line," Hagerty said.

The press secretary declined to say whether the President would hit once more—as he did in a nationwide television address from Portland—at Stevenson's proposals that efforts be made to win world agreement on halting H-bomb tests, and that consideration be given to ending the military draft "in the foreseeable future."

NO PROMISE MADE

An overflow audience in the 4,700-seat public auditorium applauded as Eisenhower — without mentioning Stevenson by name—said:

"I have not promised you—nor do I ever intend to—that the way to defend peace or freedom is to abandon simultaneously our military draft and testing of our most advanced military weapons, under the circumstances of today's world.

"For I know—as I believe all Americans know—that, without strength in this world of today, the road to surrender is paved with good intentions."

Slapping indirectly in that case against the Stevenson draft and H-bomb stand, the president said:

"Thrice in our lifetime—at least in my lifetime, we have seen our country at war. Why? Because we were too weak for the circumstances of the time.

"We shall not be that again. We must not be that again."

STEVENSON ON DRAFT

The Democratic candidate proposed university scholarships which would provide "specialized training in conjunction with a liberal education" to encourage more men to volunteer for the armed forces. The scholarships would go to qualified applicants agreeing to spend a specified time in the service.

The draft, which generally requires two years' active service, was criticized by Stevenson as inefficient because it results in a high proportion of inexperienced personnel.

Khrushchev In Poland?

WARSAW (AP)—A responsible source said Nikita S. Khrushchev appeared in Warsaw today just as Wladislaw Gomulka, once jailed as a Titoist, was being triumphantly restored to a position of power in the Polish party.

The informant said the Soviet Communist boss took part in discussions of the opening session of the Polish United Workers Communist party central committee and then went into conference with Polish leaders.

JIMMY ROACH
Carrying the Times in the Seven Oaks area

Jimmy Roach, whose picture appears on the left, has been delivering papers in the Saanich area for the past three years. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roach of 970 Burnside Road, Jimmy comes from a newspaper family having two of his brothers in the newspaper business. His younger brother, George, delivers a route in the same area, while Henry, the older brother, is a sub-station manager, having received a promotion from carrying papers.

Jimmy hopes to become an architect some day, but in the meantime his newspaper route has assisted him in getting the things a growing boy needs. Jimmy buys all his own clothes and has purchased a bike during the past year in addition to a trumpet, which he is learning to play.

Jimmy is 14 years old and is in Grade 9 at Colquitz Junior High School. During his career as a newspaper carrier he has proved his ability in salesmanship by winning many trips in recent subscription contests.

Mrs. Roach expresses her feelings this way.

"I think that a newspaper route is a good education for a lad learning to get ahead in the world. It teaches them the value of money and how to handle it wisely. My boys have received a great deal of benefit from carrying papers."

Jimmy's past record is something for his parents to be proud of.
